VICTORY SEEN FOR M'DONALD IN VOTE TODAY

Betting Favors National Group With Majority of 150 to 200.

MAIL BALLOTS GIVE PREMIER ONE SEAT

Government Head's Race in Seaham Leads Others in Closeness.

London, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Great Britain's 30,000,000 voters will decide in the general election tomorrow whether Ramsay MacDonald's national government, born of the nation's financial necessity last August, shall continue to rule the land.

King George came back to Buckingham Palace today from Sandringham to await the election returns. Party leaders voiced their final optimistic prophesies after the manner of political generalissimos the world over.

Under the guise of insurance policies and dealings on the stock exchange, Englishmen satisfied their love for wagering on the results, with the odds largely in favor of the national government.

150 to 200 Majority Seen.

The consensus of political observers gave the government a majority of 150 to 200 in the House of Commons—which would be ample to satisfy Prime Minister MacDonald's demand for a "doctor's mandate" to prescribe legislative remedies for the nation's financial and economic ailments.

On the whole, the three weeks' campaign has been fought much less savagely than had been predicted. The most bitter onslaughts have been interchanged by the split sections of the Labor party.

Thus Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer in the Labor and national governments, has turned the full power of his invective against his lifelong Labor colleagues who now are the opponents of the MacDonald ministry.

Health Rules Snowden Out.

The frail chancellor of the exchequer will not be heard in the next House of Commons no matter who wins, for because of his health he is not standing for reelection.

The prime minister has been well received all along his swift passage through his Seaham constituency, where tonight he delivered his final speech, in which he denied he was any less a Labor man for having come into the national government.

"If I have got into touch with kings I have not got out of touch with my own people," he said.

It will be a great personal achievement if Mr. MacDonald succeeds in beating the Labor party machine in the mining district of Seaham Harbor, where the party he helped build up has cast him out.

Henderson Has Close Race.

Another contest on which public interest is centered is in Burnley, where Arthur Henderson, successor to Mr. MacDonald as Labor's leader, is running against Rear Admiral Gordon Campbell, possessor of the Victoria Cross and the Distinguished Service Order, and James Rushton, Communist. Admiral Campbell is being supported by both Conservatives and Liberal organizations.

Although protection has played an important part as an issue in the campaign, Mr. MacDonald has stayed clear of it. He has asked the nation to return his government solely on the question of confidence.

He has declined to pledge himself to any program of legislation, declaring that in these times the administration must feel free to try whatever measures may appear promising as occasions arise.

World confidence in Britain, he has told the voters, can best be increased by British confidence in the national government.

MacDonald Supporter Wins.

The first result of voting returned Maj. Ernest Evans, supporter of the MacDonald national government, to the House of Commons tonight as a Liberal member for Wales University.

Maj. Evans, who had a majority in the last general election of 1,040, defeated S. Lewis, independent, by a vote of 2,229 to 914.

The polls open at 8 a. m. tomorrow, but the vote for Wales University was taken by mail, and the result made known tonight. The prepolling standing of the parties thus became: National government, 52 seats (Conservatives, 49; National Liberals, 13); opposition (Labor), 6.

The election will return a House of Commons with membership of 615.

Voters number 15,614,947 women, 13,908,745 men.

The last election returned 287 Labor members, 260 Conservatives, 59 Liberals, 9 independents. Liberals supported Labor, which organized the government.

Fever Causing Amnesia Strikes Virgin Islands

Christiansted, St. Croix, Virgin Islands, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A strange fever, in which the patients are stricken with amnesia, has become epidemic here within the last two weeks, filling the hospital with nearly 100 cases.

One patient, Ricardo Miller, a tailor, who left his home one night while suffering from the ailment, is still missing. The illness is attributed to a swampy dumping ground, infested with mosquitoes.

Hoover Holds Strong Navy First Necessity

Force Must Be Enough to Repel Invader But No More, Is Message.

Maintenance of a Navy so strong and efficient that no enemy could ever invade this country was named yesterday by President Hoover as "the first necessity" of the American Government.

At the same time, the President, who has called for disarmament many times, terms this minimum a maximum as well. Our armed forces, he said, must be reduced to the lowest point that security will permit.

Meanwhile it developed that the administration plans to send a favorable reply before the week is out to a League of Nation's request for participation in an immediate one-year disarmament holiday. More than 50 nations have been asked to join.

The President's statement was issued to call attention to today's celebration of Navy Day. Officers and men of the United States sea forces throughout the world will recognize it. The Army, too, will make a bow to its brother service.

After holding for the necessity of a sufficient armed force to repulse any invasion of this country, the Chief Executive said he had been informed by commanding officers that "we are maintaining that strength and efficiency."

"Ours is a force of defense, not offense," he said. "To maintain less than that strength is to destroy national safety; to maintain greater forces is not only economic injury to our people, but a threat against our neighbors, and would be righteous cause for ill will amongst them."

Only Sunday night, in a radio address, Mr. Hoover called for universal disarmament. He said that while "Nation's groan under taxation," and governments are perplexed, peoples throughout the world "go on using incalculable sums in evident dread of those that may come upon us."

The Chief Executive already has taken definite steps to prune America's expenditures for its Navy. When the department submitted to him a

Old Ironsides May Find Last Harbor at Capital

Old Ironsides, doughty veteran of many an ocean battle, may come to anchor, perhaps for the last time, in quiet Potomac waters, far from "that old devil sea."

For the U. S. S. Constitution, now tied up in Baltimore, has no bookings beyond the National Capital, it became known yesterday at the Navy Department.

Towed by the mine-sweeper Grebe, she will arrive at the Navy Yard November 6, to remain, it may be, indefinitely. The decision lies with the Secretary of the Navy, and he hasn't quite decided.

The whole matter appears to hinge on the question of economy. The Navy, which originally intended to decommission the vessel, claims the cruise from Boston, begun in July, cost $50,000.

But Mr. Hoover announced the Government has no intention of abandoning the ship.

HURLEY TO ASK CLOSER ACCORD WITH FILIPINOS

False Idea on Sentiment for Independence Laid to Propaganda.

PRELIMINARY REPORT GIVEN TO PRESIDENT

Davis Is Expected to Resign With Theodore Roosevelt Seen as Successor.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

After a two-months intensive study of conditions in the Philippine Islands, Secretary of War Hurley returned to Washington Sunday and advanced the conviction yesterday that controlling political sentiment in the islands does not demand any fundamental change in legal relations with the United States, but that there are, nevertheless, many things which might be done, on both sides, to provide a more satisfactory system of economic and political cooperation.

He found, on the whole, that the matters which rankle the Filipinos relate, not to fundamental issues of sovereignty and independence, but to specific points of day-to-day administration. Through better feeling and sincere cooperation these minor irritations can be eliminated and the Philippines launched upon a new era of internal unity and progress.

Secretary Hurley's detailed report to President Hoover, to be completed in perhaps two weeks, is expected to emphasize specific steps for building up a more cordial relationship in both directions.

Merely Political Aspects.

In making his preliminary verbal report to President Hoover yesterday morning, Mr. Hurley is understood to have outlined merely the political aspects of the problem in the islands, leaving the economic questions for more elaborate treatment in a public document.

Obviously there is no intention to suggest that there is not in the Philippines a measure of patriotic and sincere sentiment favoring independence. But there appears to be no justification for the conclusion, in either extent or intensity, that sentiment is honestly reflected by the manner in which it has been propagandized, both in the islands and in the United States.

At many points experiences of the tour developed, the independence movement has been taken over as a political vehicle of destructive extremist factions in the Philippines, and these highly articulate forces have received unstinted moral support and encouragement from similar vociferous minorities in the United States. As a result, the predominance of the controversial note in the normal exchanges of intelligence between the two peoples has wholly obscured the true state of feeling which is found when one digs beneath the political oratory and the hold-for-release proclamations and manifestoes which cross and recross the Pacific.

Unhappy Situation.

Quite naturally, the economic dislocation in the islands which flows from the world-wide business recession aggravates this unhappy situation, first by augmenting the normal intransigent minorities, and secondly by multiplying the difficult problems before the native administrators of the islands.

Despite this abnormal situation,

BERLIN TO SEEK REPARATIONS CUT UPON HOOVER-LAVAL HINT; FIGHT IN CONGRESS FORECAST

Indications Piling Up of Major Controversy at Capitol.

ISSUE TO BE RAISED ON CAPACITY TO PAY

Contention Made That Rich France Should Settle on Higher Basis.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The "off the record" accord between President Hoover and Premier Laval, of France, for a scaling down of German reparations and allied war debts is going to cause a major controversy in Congress, according to indications yesterday.

Because of the vagueness of the joint statement issued by President Hoover and Premier Laval, senators and representatives were somewhat chary about commenting. By the end of the day, however, nearly all of them understood what was in back of the statement.

In one quarter, the prediction was made that the unrecorded understanding between President Hoover and Premier Laval—that is, the understanding that the United States would look favorably on a reduction of allied war debts to this country after a reduction of German reparations payments to the European allies—would never become an actuality.

"Capacity to Pay" Issue.

In the same quarter the "capacity to pay" idea was scoffed at.

President Hoover, it is understood, is determined that if there is a revision of allied war debts to the United States, this revision shall be worked out on a capacity-to-pay basis. It is his conviction that Great Britain, which is now up against it in an economic sense, should be given far more consideration in debt reduction than France, which is now the wealthiest country in Europe.

On Capitol Hill it was argued that this scheme is impracticable. If, it was argued, capacity to pay is made the basis for revising the war debts, then France should pay more than she is now paying, for the reason that she is now in a better position to pay than she was when the last debt settlement was entered into. At that time it was arranged for France to pay 40 cents on the dollar. In the meantime she has become wealthy. Consequently, it was contended yesterday, she should now pay about 75 cents on the dollar.

Great Britain's Capacity.

On the other hand, it was said, Great Britain, which settled for 70 cents on the dollar in the debt settlement, is now in such straits that she could hardly be asked to pay more than 25 cents on the dollar in any revision of her debt.

If Britain's capacity to pay should sink any lower, it was argued, then cancellation of her debt would be inevitable.

It was agreed among one element on Capitol Hill that France had emerged from the conference here stronger than ever. Premier Laval left Washington with what amounted to a promise that this country has no intention of interfering with the Young plan, under which France and the other allied nations, excepting the United States, are collecting reparations from Germany.

True, France did not get the security pact that Premier Laval hoped to negotiate with President Hoover,

Borah and Filipowicz Clash at Laval Dinner

Each Details Version of Polish Boundary Dispute.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Details of a verbal passage at arms in the French Embassy Sunday night between Senator William E. Borah and Polish Ambassador Titus Filipowicz were revealed here yesterday. Ambassador Claudel was giving his farewell dinner to Premier Laval and had invited among his other guests the chairman of the foreign relations committee. Neither the French premier nor the French Ambassador were present during the controversy, however.

The Polish Ambassador gave a very frank version of the incident yesterday. His statement is as follows:

"I regret that my conversation with Senator Borah, which was intended to be a private and friendly chat, has been publicly reported.

"As far as I recall the conversation, I took the occasion to congratulate the senator on his great courage in admitting an inadequate knowledge of conditions prevailing in central Europe in the same statement in Bruening Will Lose No Time Acting, Foreign Office Asserts.

AMERICA'S INTEREST IS BELIEVED INTACT.

Germans Pleased President Got French Attitude at First Hand.

Berlin, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening will lose no time in beginning negotiations with other powers regarding what is to be done about the reparations problem when the Hoover moratorium expires, a foreign office spokesman said this evening.

Commenting on the communique summarizing the Hoover-Laval conferences at Washington, this official said, "It refers the whole problems of reparations and war debts to Europe. Germany can do nothing about raising the war debt question and as for reparations, we assume that our creditors are just as interested in what will follow the Hoover postponement as we are. You may be sure the chancellor will lose no time entering into diplomatic negotiations from which it will become apparent how the initiative may be taken and by which."

Official German Reaction.

The chancellor still believes an international conference is the best means, the foreign office said.

This announcement was the official German reaction to the recommendation of President Hoover and the French statesman, made in their joint statement issued Sunday evening in Washington.

Discussing the need for an agreement covering intergovernmental obligations at the conclusion of the Hoover year, they declared "the initiative in this matter should be taken at an early date by the European powers principally concerned * * *."

Germany at first was not inclined to read in the Hoover-Laval statement [illegible] expected that the next move was to come from Berlin. American press comments cabled here, however, quickly brought home to German statesmen that American public opinion apparently expected action at this end.

Government Optimistic.

"Not that we have any hesitance to take the initiative per se," the foreign office spokesman said, "but the Washington communique refers the problem of reparations and war debts to Europe. Now, Germany can do nothing about raising the war debt question, and as to reparations we assume our creditors are just as much interested in what shall follow the Hoover moratorium as we are."

The spokesman declared the government wholly disagreed with the gloomy views some newspapers are expressing concerning the results of the Washington meeting.

"We know that America retains her warm interest in us and do not fear that she will let Europe stew in its own juice," the foreign office representative said.

Germans in responsible positions are genuinely glad that Mr. Hoover was able to learn the French attitude at first hand.

While some editors again raise the question of a visit by Dr. Bruening to America at the earliest opportunity, in government circles it is emphasized that he has such tremendous problems to face at home he can not find time now to cross the ocean.

Grandi Visit Importance.

The impending Washington visit of Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, therefore, assumes even greater importance, for he will be able to give Mr. Hoover the latest information about Germany, much as Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Britain, was able to tell Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon of Germany's plight after the Anglo-German conference last June at Chequers.

Signor Grandi, now in Berlin, is learning at first hand of the state of affairs in Germany.

The attitude of the industrialist organ Allgemeine Zeitung was typical of

JAPAN SEES LEAGUE ACTION NOT BINDING

Rejection Is Based on Own Negative Vote on Plea for Withdrawal.

Tokyo, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Japan tonight rejected as not binding the League of Nations resolution calling for evacuation of Manchuria by November 16 and reiterated the Manchurian situation is a local question to be settled only by direct Sino-Japanese negotiations.

The Japanese military grip on communications in southern Manchuria was stretched meanwhile into Mongolia by stationing of troops along the Szupingkai-Chenchiatun-Taonan Railway.

A formal statement approved by a special cabinet meeting tonight stressed the Japanese "five fundamental principles" for Manchurian settlement, insisted again the outbreak there was caused by a "provocative attack" by Chinese soldiers on Japanese property, and questioned the advisability of "hasty action" on the league's part in the face of possible solution eventually by direct negotiations between China and Japan.

The statement, intended for world-wide distribution, as a studied explanation of Japan's Manchurian policy, was cabled to foreign embassies and legations, intended for publication in the world's capitals.

It explained that due to the failure of the league council to obtain a unanimous vote on the evacuation resolution—the Japanese negative vote making the count 13 to 1—the resolution was not binding in any manner whatever.

The five fundamental principles were restated:

"1. Mutual Sino-Japanese pledge of nonaggression and guaranty of each other's territorial integrity.

"2. China must abandon the anti-Japanese boycott and all other forms of anti-Japanese propaganda.

"3. China must assure the safety

BINGHAM OPPOSES PAY CUTS BY U. S.

Senator Takes Issue With Wood on Proposal to Reduce Salaries.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

Reduction in the pay of Government employes would be "extremely unjust and unfair," Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, said yesterday in commenting on the proposal by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, to cut Government salaries.

Not given to extravagant language, the statement of the tall, gray-haired senator from Connecticut that he "shall certainly oppose" any proposal to reduce the pay of Government workers was tantamount to a declaration of unrelenting warfare against the proposal advanced by Mr. Wood, who also has given his approval publicly to the wage cut proposed by the steel trust which has an important unit in Gary, Ind., in Mr. Wood's district.

Although it might seem to casual observers that Mr. Wood's proposal would fall of its own weight and need no studied opposition, observers who have followed the battles for improvement of salaries and working conditions in the Government service are not of that opinion. Representative Wood is no tyro in the House. He has been chairman of the House appropriations committee and in that capacity has indebted many members to him. He may be chairman of the committee in the next Congress, though at the moment that seems doubtful. He has a large personal following and to support his fight against the Government employe is the false picture which has been built in the public mind throughout the country of the "life of Riley" led by Government workers in Washington, the total number of whom is but a small fraction of the number of those on the pay roll of Uncle Sam.

Maj. Doolittle Ends Flight in St. Louis

Averages 230 Miles an Hour on Post-Record Trip From Mexico.

St. Louis, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Maj. James Doolittle landed at Lambert-St. Louis Field at 2:12 p. m. (Central time) today after a flight from Mexico City with brief stops at Brownsville, Tex., and Shreveport, La.

"It was a great trip," Maj. Doolittle said. "I had no trouble after leaving Mexico City and the weather was fine except for a little rain in Texas."

Maj. Doolittle said it was necessary, before he could take off from the Mexico City Airport, to fill in a ditch and extend the runway to 1½ kilometers (a little less than a mile).

Maj. Doolittle, who recently linked the capitals of Canada, the United States and Mexico in record time, covered the approximately 1,500 miles from Mexico City to his home airport in 6 hours and 33 minutes' flying time. He averaged about 230 miles an hour.

Col. Turner, of Marines, May Die of Plane Hurts

Port au Prince, Haiti, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—Col. Thomas C. Turner, chief of the United States Marine Aviation Force, was probably fatally injured today when struck by the propeller of a Marine plane which landed in heavy mud at Gonaives.

The plane, which was first reported to have crashed, was brought down without serious damage in the mud, and Col. Turner got out to determine whether the craft could take off. He slipped in the mud as he walked past the propeller of the big ten-passenger Sikorsky and fell into the whirling blade. Seven others on the plane were shaken up when the craft landed. The plane was brought there Friday by the colonel from Anacostia Naval Station, District of Columbia.

Porto Rican Chief Returns to Post

Gov. Theodore Roosevelt Bids Hoover Farewell; Silent on Future.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of Porto Rico yesterday said farewell to President Hoover before leaving for his island post. Informed of the impending return of Gov. Dwight Davis of the Philippine Islands and questioned as to his possible appointment to that post, he said:

"My job for the present is in Porto Rico, and I intend to live in the present."

The island governor laughed at reports of his possible candidacy for the Republican vice presidential nomination next year. He repeated what he has said before, that vice presidential candidates "should be chosen at the time in the light of existing conditions." In this connection he mentioned Secretary Hurley of the War Department.

Way Cleared to Elect Ackerman's Successor

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A supplement to the New Jersey election law making it possible for the successor to the late Representative Ernest Ackerman to take his seat at the opening of Congress December 7 was adopted by the State Legislature tonight.

The measure, adopted over Democratic protests, permits the governor to issue a call for a special election to be held December 1, preceded by a special primary November 17. Gov. Larson is expected to sign the bill tomorrow and issue the call immediately.

BANKERS GRATIFIED BY RESULT OF TALK

French and U. S. Financial Interests Agree Progress to Recovery Made.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Both French and American bankers today expressed gratification over the progress made toward restoration of economic stability in the conversations between governmental and financial leaders of the two republics.

These sentiments were expressed in Wall street on the eve of the sailing for France of Premier Laval, who has completed his conversations with President Hoover, and of Charles Farnier and Robert Lacour-Gayet, officials of the Bank of France, who have had frequent conferences with Federal Reserve officials and leading bankers.

The official communique issued at the close of the Hoover-Laval conversations was too closely in line with conservative expectations in leading banking quarters to exert a further bullish stimulus on the financial markets, and there was some reaction in prices as traders took profits on last week's substantial gains.

Wall street was scarcely of one mind in judging the results of the conversations, and in speculative quarters, particularly, there was some feeling the results were about the minimum that could have been reasonably expected. Nevertheless, comment generally was of a distinctly hopeful tenor.

Franier and Lacour-Gayet, who came to New York more than a week ahead of Premier Laval, paid a final visit to the New York Federal Reserve Bank today. They held further conversations with George L. Harrison, governor of the bank; Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., and other prominent bankers.

Late in the day Mr. Lamont visited Premier Laval at his hotel, spending the major part of an hour with him.

REPARATION PARLEY EXPECTED BY PARIS

Call by Laval for Session of Nations to Decide on Need Forecast.

(Copyright, 1931, by the United Press.)

Paris, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval, upon his return from the United States, is expected to ask the council of ministers to approve plans for a conference of nations to deal with the World War reparations problem.

It was understood tonight that the premier would ask the cabinet for authorization to call a conference of governments interested in readjustments of reparations payments, including Germany. The conference would be asked to decide on the extent of possible reparations cuts.

The conference would be scheduled to devise a scheme to be put into effect at the end of the Hoover debt holiday year, ending next June. The scheme would be submitted to President Hoover in view of the generally admitted connection between reparations and intergovernmental debts.

In this connection it was recalled that the joint communique issued after the Hoover-Laval conversations in Washington took the position that the United States would not assume the initiative in the reparations question and that the first move must come from a European nation.

It was understood that Laval hoped to arrange for the conference to be held in Paris, late in November or early in December. In recent months the French as well as other Europeans have generally admittde that the reparations burden must be reduced, with the usual provision that reduction of reparations would mean a reduction in war debt payments to the United States.

Meanwhile the press of Paris concluded that the Laval mission to the United States ended tamely but was likely to have extensive indirect repercussions in European politics, chief-

Husband of Trunk Slayer Is Ordered Under Arrest

Dr. Judd Charged With Practicing Medicine Without License; Wife Abandons Effort to Avoid Extradition to Scene of Double Killing.

Los Angeles, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Possibility of confinement in jail touched another member of the Judd family late today when a warrant was issued for the arrest of Dr. W. C. Judd, husband of the accused trunk slayer, Winnie Ruth Judd, on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

The warrant, was based on a complaint filed by Albert Carter, special agent for the State board of medical examiners.

Information in the hands of the city prosecutor indicated Dr. Judd recently had been in charge of a sanitarium here during the absence of the director, and an investigation disclosed he did not possess a medical license.

Dr. Judd holds licenses in Oregon and Arizona but has none in this State. Bail was set at $500. The minimum sentence for such a violation is $100 fine or 60 days in jail or both.

Plans to contest the extradition of Mrs. Ruth Judd to Arizona have been abandoned, it was announced by attorneys tonight, and she is expected to start for Phoenix, probably Wednesday, to stand trial for the "trunk slaying" of Hedvig Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi, according to Charles Craddick, associated with the defense.

Sheriff James R. McFadden, of Phoenix, was prepared to leave tonight for Sacramento to obtain the signature of Gov. James Rolph, jr., to extradition papers. The sheriff said he would return Wednesday morning and would start for Phoenix with Mrs. Judd and a Phoenix police matron.

Mrs. Judd was taken from the county jail for arraignment today on a fugitive complaint by which charges of murder were formally entered against her. The hearing was postponed until November 9, pending settlement of the extradition contest.

Craddick indicated an application will be made for dismissal of the habeas corpus writ issued shortly after Mrs. Judd was arrested last Friday and returnable November 3.

The strain showed plainly on Mrs. Judd as she entered the courtroom on the arm of her brother, Burton J. McKinnell, University law student. She was pale and trembling. Jail at-

Cadet Sheridan, Army End, Dies; Neck Broken in Game

Georgian, Hurt in Contest Saturday, Succumbs as Mother Arrives.

West Point, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—A full military funeral, with all the customary honors paid to one who has fallen in war, will be held at West Point Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock for Cadet Richard B. Sheridan, who was fatally injured in Army's game against Yale last Saturday, it was announced by Academy officials tonight.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26 (U.P.) Three hours after his mother and brother had completed a dramatic train and automobile dash from the South to be at his side, Cadet Richard Brinsley Sheridan, injured in the Army-Yale football game last Saturday, died today at 5:10 p. m.

The young right end for the Military Academy's team died in the respirator, or "artificial lung," which, with his stout heart, had staved off death since the accident in which his neck was broken.

Mrs. Richard B. Sheridan, sr., who raced northward from Greenville, S. C., to New York by train, and then dashed to New Haven by automobile, was asleep in an upstairs ward of the hospital when death came to her son.

Upon reaching the hospital she had been in a state of nervous exhaus-

WHEAT AND COTTON SOUGHT BY EUROPE

Farm Board Is Discussing Credit Arrangement With French Official.

(Associated Press.)

The Farm Board is trying to establish credit for a prospective customer so the overflow from huge American stocks of wheat and cotton can go to Europe.

Sale of the wheat and cotton through an international credit arrangement is being discussed by the board and a representative of France. Thus far no specific amounts of the two major crops have been mentioned.

Pierre du Pasquier, economic advisor to Premier Laval, conferred with board officials Saturday and plans to return from New York later in the week for further talks. Meanwhile Chairman Stone, of the board, has gone to New York, where it was said he would attend a dinner for M. Laval.

The board has no authority to participate in an export credit pool. It can only lend assistance in such an arrangement. It has power, however, to sell its wheat and cotton holdings on long-term credit.

France Has Had Poor Crop.

The latter question, Chairman Stone said yesterday, was an important point in the conversations with Du Pasquier. France has been reported in the market for 50,000,000 bushels of wheat. Its domestic crop has been damaged by unfavorable weather.

Carl Williams, another board member, disclosed that Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, it interested in the discussions between the board and Pasquier. Meyer and W. L. Clayton, Texas cotton merchant, conferred with President Hoover on a cotton export credit pool early in September.

Pasquier, it was understood here, will call on New York bankers before resuming his conferences with the Farm Board.

Stone is keenly interested in means of freeing the wheels of international trade and says credit facilities are almost completely lacking.

He asserted yesterday the conversations with Du Pasquier have gone only so far as the general field of international finance with the sole idea of stmulating consumption of American wheat and cotton in Europe.

Need U. S. Products.

"Millers and textile interests abroad," he said, "have a need for our products, but can not become purchasers because of a lack of proper credit. This situation has become more complex since Great Britain went off the gold standard."

He added it was immaterial to the board whether Farm Board stocks were bought. If a private credit corporation is set up the purchases most likely would be from normal trade channels.

but then neither did France make any promises to reduce her powerful army.

The impression that Premier Laval left with the aforementioned element on Capitol Hill was that France is determined to hold down Germany, her traditional enemy, to the status of a third-rate power.

Bingham Favors Debt Board.

So much for those who were disappointed in the Hoover-Laval conversations. There were others, administration supporters, who predicted that great good would result from the meeting of the two leaders.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, said that it would be "greatly to the advantage of the United States to listen with friendly feelings to any new study that may be made of the European situation."

"If," Bingham said, "the President should request the Congress to authorize appointment of another commission on interallied debts to make a further study of the capacity of the nations to pay, I should be heartily in favor of such a procedure."

Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart (Republican Progressive), of Idaho, who sees the hand of Wall street in nearly every move that President Hoover makes, said that the Hoover-Laval accord was "pretty largely a J. Pierpont Morgan deal to attempt to make good the foreign bonds held by New York banks."

Business Effect Predicted.

Senator Phillips L. Goldsborough (Republican), of Maryland, said that the agreement between President Hoover and Premier Laval to maintain the gold standard would have a tremendous effect on business.

Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, was critical of the decision to maintain the gold standard. There are manifold evidences, he said, that the gold standard has broken down. Senator King comes from a region that abounds with silver mines.

"I can not help but feel that some good will result from the conference," Senator King said, "but I regret that concrete evidences of an important harvest are lacking."

A partisan note was injected when the Democratic national committee issued a statement under the name of Representative Arthur H. Greenwood (Democrat), of Indiana, expressing regret that President Hoover and Premier Laval had not taken up the question of tariffs.

Tariffs Called Supreme.

"If economic improvement means better business and more employment," Representative Greenwood said, "then why not discuss the most important factor, the tariffs of the various countries that now stand as barriers in restraint of international trade?"

Secretary Stimson announced yesterday that the results of the Hoover-Laval conversations had fulfilled all his anticipations. The secretary had desired for some time to bring the President and the premier together and the meeting at the White House, he said, amply justified his hopes.

In administration circles considerable satisfaction was expressed over the two outstanding results of the conferences. However, the reaction among the journalists representing the French Nationalist press was very pessimistic. One journalist who telephoned to Washington yesterday from New York announced that the "results of the Laval visit were very discouraging."

The agreement of the French bankers with the directors of the Federal Reserve Bank to curtail their gold withdrawals from the Federal Reserve was hailed by administration supporters as a considerable contribution toward stability in international exchanges.

Agreement on War Debt.

The second feature of the agreement that caused satisfaction among the negotiators themselves was the agreement with regard to war debts and reparations.

The dissatisfaction in the French cabinet over the suddenness with which they were brought face to face with the Hoover moratorium without even being consulted, was responsible for the understanding between the President and M. Laval that all further aids to Germany would be under the framework of the Young plan.

It was reported yesterday that when President Hoover and Premier Laval, in their joint statement, said that they favored the "maintenance of stability in international exchanges," they had in mind the strengthening of the British pound sterling. The two men were agreed, it is understood, that the pound sterling must remain as world medium of settlement.

The fluctuation of the pound sterling, it was pointed out yesterday, has seriously interferred with international trade, and a specific example was mentioned to emphasize the seriousness of this situation. South Africa, it was pointed out at the Commerce Department, had been unable to do business with the United States because it does not have the facilities to handle the dollar exchange.

There were indications that the United States and France would seek to bring about some understanding whereby American and French bankers would stop withdrawing gold from England, and thus permit that country to return to a gold basis as soon as possible.

BORAH AND FILIPOWICZ CLASH AT DINNER GIVEN FOR LAVAL

couragement and stimulus of their activities.

"It might even drive some of the more unbalanced among them, to armed aggression against their neighbors.

"I said I felt sure that the senator would be the first to regret it, if his noble intentions of stabilizing peace in Europe were to produce such deplorable results."

Asked further for comment on the senator's version of the interview, the Ambassador announced he had none to make.

The Polish Ambassador speaks English very fluently, and has been in Washington since last March. His meeting Sunday night was the first time, however, he had met the senator.

According to an eyewitness, this is what happened after the Claudel dinner: The senator was standing in one of the salons of the French Embassy talking to several members of the Laval party. He was conversing with Henry Heye, a French member of the Chamber of Deputies, and M. Boissard, another of Premier Laval's advisors. Some one brought up the Polish Ambassador to the chairman of the foreign relations committee.

"Do you know the Polish Ambassador?" he was asked. The senator replied:

"I am very happy to know the Polish Ambassador."

The rest of the incident was described by Senator Borah himself. He said that immediately after being presented the ambassador declared:

"I regret, senator, that you made such a statement to the French journalists on the territorial conditions of my country."

Use of Hitlerites Disputed.

Then the ambassador continued, and said that he believed such statements would be very likely to "incite aggression" from the Hitlerites. Some confusion exists as to whether the ambassador ever pronounced the word "Hitlerites."

Edward Weintal, secretary of the embassy, announced last night that he was sure the ambassador had not used the word.

The senator then countered:

"My understanding is that the Hitlerites are being strengthened by the Polish corridor, and if Poland is deeply interested in quieting the Hitlerites, the first thing she should do is to solve the Polish corridor."

At this juncture in the conversation, the Czechoslovakian Minister, M. Veverka, is reported to have hove in view. He joined the circle because his country is also intimately concerned with any territorial revision of the Versailles treaty. Minister Veverka could not be reached last night for any comment.

"If that is the case," the Polish Ambassador is quoted as saying, "you have not been sufficiently informed of the facts."

Senator Gives Version.

The senator replied that his answer to this was:

"I consider myself sufficiently informed on the matter, and I believe I have sufficient acquaintance with the facts as I stated them to the French journalists that came here with M. Laval."

That was the end of the discussion. The Polish Ambassador walked away, and the Czechoslovak Minister tried to persuade the senator of the historical justification of Czech territory accretions after the Versailles treaty. The outcome of this talk was that Minister Veverka promised to send Mr. Borah some literature on the subject.

This is the second time that the chairman of the foreign relations committee has been in polemical discussion with foreign diplomats. While Premier Laval was here, Senator Borah informed the French newspapermen accompanying him, that revision of the Versailles treaty and rectification of boundaries was necessary.

Premier Sends Answer.

The French premier who was that night the guest of the President in the White House, sent this message out through the guards:

"I did not come to Washington to engage in polemics with Senator Borah * * * who, moreover, represents only his own views."

The senator is of the opinion that the maintenance of the Polish corridor constitutes a perpetual dagger at the industrial heart of Germany. The discussion on the corridor has been rife since the arrival here of the Laval party. President Hoover, however, in a formal White House statement Sunday night, announced that no discussions on the corridor had figured in his talks with the premier.

The State Department yesterday received more than 25 protests to the Borah statements on the corridor. These were virtually all from Polish chambers of commerce or Polish organizations in the United States.

PAPER SAYS LAVAL HELD FIRM ON ARMS

Has Not Bargained and Did Not Concede Anything, Is Paris Comment.

Special to The Washington Post.

Paris, Oct. 26.—Further comment in Paris papers today on the Hoover-Laval conversations includes the following:

Intransigeant: The Communique reveals primarily one essentially negative result—France ceded nothing on armaments to the American thesis which wished to subordinate the reduction of interallied debts to reduction of military budgets. According to Laval's formula, France has not sacrificed a single battalion.

Laval has not done any bargaining. He never demanded a pact for mutual assistance nor a consultative pact. It was suggested that such a pact would end war but the constitutional tradition of the United States and Anglo Saxon repugnance to written law prevent taking such a step.

Le Journal: From the standpoint of safeguarding the essential points of French policy it can be said our entire position has been strongly maintained. We dreaded an attempt to bring pressure on us to disarm, an attempt to link disarmament with financial problems, an attempt to confuse reparations and debts by tinkering with the Young plan. All that has been absolutely warded off.

We do not wish to say Americans renounce their ideas, but they understand they can not persuade us to accept them. Certain ticklish suggestions have been abruptly pigeonholed by the declarations Laval prudently made before reaching America.

Concerning disarmament Laval and Hoover merely sought a means of avoiding the fiasco of the 1932 disarmament conference. They therefore took as a final formula the French memorandum of August 15. The true task of the conference is to organize for solid, durable peace.

No Payments July 15, 1932.

Concerning debts and reparations it was necessary to seek how we could issue from the exceptional regime of the Hoover moratorium. * * * Undoubtedly we must realize that payments will not be resumed July 15, 1932, to the normal rhythm of the Young plan.

There remains collaboration for economic financial restoration. Laval and Hoover stated the importance of monetary stability and maintenance of the gold standard to France and the United States, but do you realize considerable efforts were necessary to induce the Americans to accept formal mention of the gold standard?

Le Matin: It is interesting to point out that the French text of the joint Franco-American declaration was distributed at 5:30 p. m. Sunday, not by the French delegation, but by the White House, which wished to review each bit of it in order to avoid all discussion on interpretation. Therefore, the French text is officially exactly the same as the English * * * at least the precise passage concerning the disarmament conference, nevertheless, contains these words, "Solid organization and durable peace," which coincidentally figure textually in the French memorandum of the League of Nations. They therefore show the inflexibility of the French thesis on security.

U. S. Wishes to Fight Crisis Alone.

Information's dispatch by Fernand Debrinon, referring to the communique says: That these good intentions can solemnly be announced is not negligible, but it is useless to dissimilate certain sentiment of deception. We understand Stimson himself had other ambitions and expressed them, but Hoover did not wish to modify his traditional policy a few months before the elections. Americans who hoped the United States would show greater interest in Europe are the first to deplore it. It is they more than we who lost illusions. * * *

Certainly the United States suffers profoundly from the crisis and passionately seeks a means to overcome it. Public discussions and newspaper articles testify to this preoccupation. They begin to understand they committed formidable errors, anticipations on future, excesses of credit, thoughtlessness in placing public deposits, especially in banks of the Western States and by organizing overproduction. Now they seek remedies, but proud of her strength, America seems not to wish to align herself with Europe to overcome the crisis which she believes she can conquer by her own means.

Paris Soir: American public has not yet expressed itself (on the communique). America has not obtained any advantage. Each retains her previous position and certain newspapers remark that throughout the Hoover-Laval accord was "pretty largely a J. Pierpont Morgan deal to attempt to make good the foreign bonds held by New York banks."

Business Effect Predicted.

Senator Phillips L. Goldsborough (Republican), of Maryland, said that the agreement between President Hoover and Premier Laval to maintain the gold standard would have a tremendous effect on business.

GERMANY TO SEEK CUT IN REPARATIONS

German newspaper comment on the point developed at Washington that initiative for a new agreement after the expiration of the Hoover moratorium must come from Europe.

"Is France or Germany to take the first step?" the newspaper asked.

"From a German viewpoint," it continued, "this can not be answered offhand.

"If Germany does anything, she can only declare it is unthinkable that she can, after July 1, 1932, resume any reparation payments whatsoever.

"There is no getting away from the fact that all attempts to master the world depression are foredoomed to failure if money is forced to flow uphill; that is, from a sorely impoverished debtor to a superrich creditor whose productive potentialities are being jeopardized equally by his own surfeit of gold and by a lack of buying capacity on the part of his neighbors."

Premier Laval Amused By Comment Over Tie

Paris, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval has been highly amused by the interest of Americans in the fact that he always wears a white string tie.

"The American people are really children in some ways," Laval said in a message to friends in which he said he had heard as much about his white tie in America as he had heard about his mission to Washington. "But they are children who have a tremendous aptitude for business."

EXPERT SEES ARMS CUTS MORE LIKELY

Prof. Seligman Views Laval and Hoover Accord as Holding Promise.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Prof. Edwin R. A. Seligman, of Columbia University, noted economist, said today that on the basis of cooperation between France and the United States "we can safely look forward to a more promising attitude of the world in general on the question of disarmament."

"The announcement of the accord betwen Laval and Hoover is of the greatest importance," Prof. Seligman said. "It was too much to be expected that the major problems of international politics could be settled or even discussed at this time, but there are two points of great significance.

"The first is the gold standard. Whatever may be thought of the policy of managed currency, it is clearly premature at this time, when the possible pitfalls of such problems are more evident than its certain advantages. For the United States and for France the maintenance of the gold standard is a necessity. It an accord has been reached as to the possibility of enabling the rest of the world to profit by our cooperation, so much the better.

"The point is the question of debts and reparations. As Senator Borah pointed out, the concern of France in reparations is of paramount importance. It is France that has suffered the most difficulty. It is France that must meet the interest on the bonds issued to restore her devastated regions. Any plan, whether moratorium, reduction or cancellation of debts, will call for sacrifice.

"If nothing else had been accomplished these two adjustments would be ample. On the basis of such cooperation between France and the United States we can safely look forward to a more promising attitude of the world in general on the question of disarmament."

SECURITY PACT NEED RESTATED BY LAVAL

French Demand as Basis for Disarmament Again Is Emphasized.

New York, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—Pierre Laval, president of the French council of ministers, caught another glimpse of "the daring and determination" of America today before sailing on the S. S. Ile de France.

Still smiling in answer to the brisk instructions of photographers and still forced to clamber over the tangled apparatus of news reel men who surrounded him at every public appearance, the French premier viewed New York from the observation tower of the Empire State Building, avoided questions concerning his conversations with President Hoover, attended receptions and a banquet during his last day in the United States.

Reaffirms France's Demand

In the course of a speech at a banquet given tonight by the French Chamber of Commerce of New York, Laval reaffirmed the demand of France for guarantees of her national security as a basis for disarmament.

"In continuing here the international collaboration in which my visit with Foreign Minister Briand to Berlin was an important step, I am satisfied that, without having sacrificed the interests of France, we have served the cause of peace," Laval said. "It is most agreeable to say these words in New York in the presence of Marshal Petain, the most illustrious of our soldiers. France is resolutely attached to peace, which cannot be based on anything but the organization of security."

Marshal Petain, who attended the banquet, was the guest of the City of New York during the day, having come here from the Yorktown celebration.

Tribute to Smith.

"I have reached the summit of the highest building in the world," Laval said. I pay tribute to his (Smith's) daring and imagination. It is impressive to the untrained eyes of Europe to witness this scene. This structure is proof of the American intelligence, daring and determination. I love America. I have felt the heart throbs of the people."

Later Laval attended a reception at the home of the council of foreign relations, where he talked with John W. Davis, president of the council; Walter H. Mallory, executive director; Hamilton Fish Armstrong, editor of Foreign Affairs; Walter Lippman, writer, and Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Thomas W. Lamont, partner in the J. P. Morgan banking firm, had a 45-minute conversation late today with Pierre Laval in the French Premier's hotel suite here. The object of their meeting was not disclosed, and whether Mr. Lamont made a courtesy call or held a conference with the premier on world financial problems was a matter of conjecture.

BERLIN TO ASK REPARATIONS CUT AT END OF MORATORIUM

ly because of the position of Senator Borah, which raised again the agitation for revision of the Polish corridor.

The French government has been watching the last days of the British general election with great interest, fearing that virtually any new government likely to be elected in Britain is likely to join in the demands for revision of war treaties.

The speech of Premier Mussolini of Italy, at Naples, demanding treaty revision, the visit of Fascist Foreign Minister Dino Grandi to Berlin, and the British government efforts toward restoration of economic prosperity were believed by many French observers to indicate that France will be under severe pressure from all quarters to abandon her demand for national security or consultative agreements in case of war at the 1932 world disarmament conference.

Paris, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—One of the first effects in France of the Hoover-Laval conversations is that small banks and business men have stopped withdrawing credit balances from the United States.

French financial newspapers, reporting this change in policy today, declared it to be an indication of new confidence in the dollar.

Moderate commentators and friends of the government generally appeared satisfied with the outcome of the Washington talks, but Socialists and members of the extreme right held Premier Laval's American trip to have been useless.

Caution was observed in financial circles after the bourse failed today to react favorably to the joint statement made public by the President and the premier Sunday evening in Washington. The bourse closed heavy, with exchanges irregular, and some newspapers interpreted this as the result of adverse criticism by the antigovernment press on the accomplishments of the Hoover-Laval conference.

The newspaper l'Information said it was apparent America wanted to remain the world's largest creditor and the world's greatest exporter, two positions that were irreconciliable.

Fernand de Brinon, financial writer, who accompanied M. Laval to Washington, cabled back that the Hoover-Laval statement failed to preduce all that had been hoped for, but nevertheless was constructive.

Briand Reported Pleased.

"Apparently the United States does not see the necessity for getting nearer to Europe in the solution of the American crisis which America thinks she can solve by depending upon herself alone," he said.

Newspaper commentators agreed that, as a result of the Washington talks, European signatories to the Young plan must confer regarding any alteration in that plan affecting German reparations payments.

An official of the foreign office reported Foreign Minister Aristide Briand was pleased with the Hoover-Laval communique, particularly with the position expressed concerning disarmament and return to the Young plan in case of a further German moratorium.

Borah, Bid Abroad in '32, Can't Go—Election Year!

By JOHN J. DALY

ALL is quiet along the Potomac.

From the blue room of the White House to the Anglican entrance of the French Embassy not a sound is heard, as Premier Laval and his trained troupe of Parisian correspondents wend their homeward way—back to the old country.

Gone is the girlish laughter of Josette, silent the sibilants of the suave statesman.

All that remains now of the hurly-burly and high tension of Paris-Washington contacts is Senator Borah; to bore, as it were, from within. 'Twas he who tried to level Laval, but they parted the best of friends, as the best of friends must part.

"Idaho Bill," the quaint title from the Western front conferred on the American by the visiting Frenchmen, who had read cowboy thrillers before coming to Washington, is contemplating a visit to Paris.

* * * *

"YOU must come over," said Laval to Borah, who has never been abroad, though he is chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

"When?" asked Borah.

"Next year," was the reply.

"Mon cheri," smiled Mr. Borah, "that is election year, and election year in these grand old United States is no year for a politician to be abroad. Not if I know anything about it!"

M. Laval shrugged his shoulders. "We, too, have elections," he admitted, with a sigh, and immediately the two men began to understand each other. One touch of nature makes the whole world kin.

Elections, alas! It seems to be one of the troubles with the republican form of government—an annoyance that occurs just at the wrong time. Do away with elections and those who hold office would be free from care and wory.

* * * *

HOWEVER, like time and the tides, and taxes, the country must face the elections.

In the meantime the politicians are wrapt in study, senatorial and congressional togas thrown about them, as they scan the words of the communique jointly signed by Hoover and Laval.

That document is fraught with all sorts of possibilities in the career of an ambitious politician, if sufficient reading is done between the lines. It has all the elements of a thrilling expedition with rod and gun—and while all now is quiet in the marsh lands there is liable to be an explosion at any moment.

Concentraton on the communique, careful analysis of its hidden meanings—all this is taking place in the chambers of statesmanship. That is why there is no sound; that is why all is quiet along the Potomac.

ARCHITECT IS HELD AS COUNTERFEITER

Maryland Man Said to Admit Raising $1 Notes to $100; Exonerates Woman.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 26.—Winning a bet on the races and hard times were given today as his reasons for raising 21 $1 bills to $100 notes by Frank Russel White, 28, an architect, who surrendered to Secret Service operatives in Washington last week.

White, who lives near Bowie, was held in $5,000 bail for a hearing on a counterfeiting charge November 4 before J. Frank Supplee. His arrest followed that of Mrs. Caroline Wildman, of Washington, who is at liberty in $200 bail for a hearing on the same date. Mrs. Wildman was arrested after she attempted to pass one of the bills last week in a local jewelry store.

In her car the officers found a number of drawings which they said could only have been made by an expert draftsman. They began looking for one. Then White surrendered.

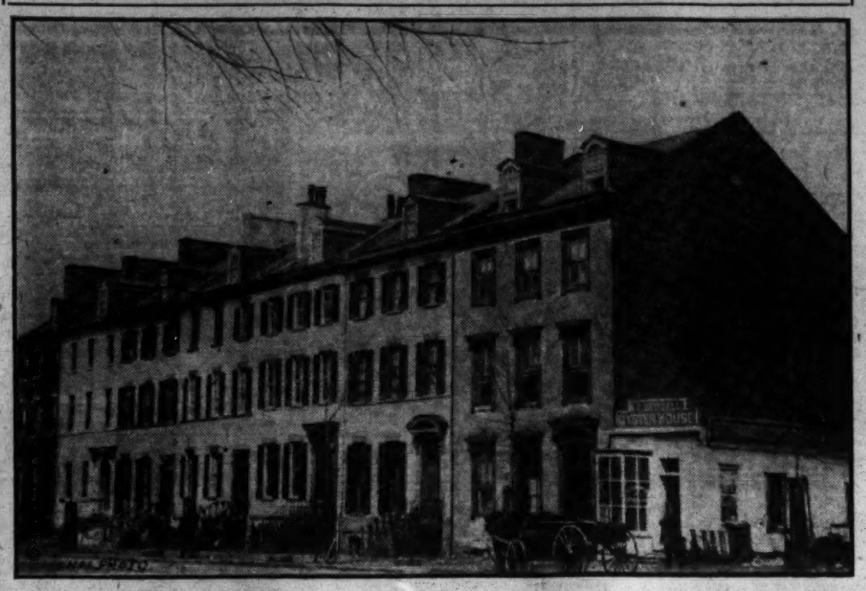
Today he was brought to Baltimore and talked to Cornelius Mundy, assistant United States attorney. Mr. Mundy said that White admitted making the bills about a year ago.

He won a bet at the races and was paid off with a $100 bill and two $1 bills and noticed the similarity between them. White is reported to have said, and then raised 21 $1 notes to $100 bills.

He said he did not try to pass the money until last week, but that business had been bad and he came to Baltimore with Mrs. Wildman, intending to get rid of the bills, and to make no more. He was standing opposite the store when she was arrested, Mr. Mundy said he declared.

At the time of her arrest Mrs. Wildman said she found the bills in Washington, but did not know that they had been raised. White today said she had nothing to do with raising the notes.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 87



ROW houses made their debut in the Capital when these six buildings were erected on Pennsylvania avenue between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets northwest, during the first part of last century.

The idea of constructing houses wall to wall was considered daring back in those days. Folks were accustomed to gardens and a respectable distance from their neighbors. But the growth of the city made it necessary to utilize all available space in the downtown area. Necessity bred invention of the row house. Then came the apartment house.

Washington today has countless descendants of this first modest row. Poor and rich alike now live in row houses.

CALENDAR SLASHED BY SUPREME COURT

(Associated Press.)

With strong strokes, the Supreme Court yesterday cut deep into the accumulation of legal proceedings before it and sheared 92 cases from its calendar. Twenty-five other cases passed its stringent test and were put on its docket for future consideration and probable decision.

Of the 92 cases disposed of, 83 were refusals to review. Nine were decided without the formality of handing down written opinions.

Two of the nine were chain store tax cases. By 7 to 2, the court sustained the North Carolina chain store tax. It unanimously approved an injunction restraining collection of a similar levy in Mississippi until the law can be decided by lower courts on its merits.

Chicago Loses Fare Fight.

It approved an Interstate Commerce Commission order reducing fertilizer rates in central territory and dismissed an appeal by Chicago to prevent the city's rapid transit company from continuing to charge a 10-cent fare on elevated lines.

An appeal of the Indiana Public Service Commission and others to enforce an order for an extension of service by the Farmers Mutual Telephone Co. was dismissed.

The court agreed to review the appeal of the Santa Fe and other Western railroads and certain grain companies from Interstate Commerce Commission orders reducing rates on grain in their territory, and the contention of the United States Navigation Co., Inc., that the Cunard and twelve other steamship lines had combined to drive it out of business.

Orders Return of Liquor.

It refused to review:

The claim of Benjamin Gitlow, president of Revolutionary Age, a Communist orgen, that one of its issues had been unlawfully excluded from the mails; the assertion that State judges in California had received illegal increases in their salaries; the conviction of former County Judge W. Bernard Vause, of Brooklyn, and Samuel Schurchman of using the mails to defraud, and the contention of Porto Rico that its inspection fee on tobacco and cigars is valid.

HEAD OF PARAGUAY FORCED TO RESIGN

President Jose Guggiari Quits Under Pressure; Troops on Guard.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—President Jose Guggiari was forced out of office today by demands of students, workers and radical elements for a voice in the republic's affairs and was succeeded by the vice president, Gonzalez Navero.

Tonight the Liberal party, which has governed Paraguay since 1906, strove with military support to retain control of the government against elements demanding a new administration. Troops were stationed at strategic points as a precaution against possible disorders.

In an effort to enable the ruling party to weather the storm, President Guggiari and his cabinet resigned after a conference with the Liberal leaders at the military school this morning and invited Congress to investigate his administration.

It appeared tonight that Dr. Jeronimo Zubizarreta would continue as premier in a new civilian cabinet.

(Associated Press.)

Neutral representatives in Washington followed with some apprehension yesterday the latest developments bearing on Bolivian-Paraguayan relations, lest their peacemaking efforts be jeopardized.

The student disorders and the subsequent handing over of the presidential powers to the Paraguayan Vice President were the latest of several incidents which have threatened the maneuvers of Colombia, Cuba, Mexico, the United States and Uruguay to bring about new negotiations of the Bolivian-Paraguayan boundary dispute.

Capone Gets Postponement Of Day in Fight for Liberty

Three Judges Will Rule This Afternoon on Whether Gang Chief May Dodge Leavenworth While Appealing Tax Case Conviction.

Chicago, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Alphonse Capone remained in the Cook County Jail tonight, saved another day from Leavenworth Prison by a brief order of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Three circuit judges heard the gangster's lawyers plead for his freedom while he appeals his conviction as an income-tax dodger, heard a Federal prosecutor say he should be put away immediately for the good of the public, and then told the United States marshal to wait at least another day before starting for the Federal penitentiary with Capone.

The judges said they would announce their decision on a writ of supersedeas and an appeal bond at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

The hearing before the three judges, Samuel Alschuler, Evan A. Evans, and William M. Sparks, was rather informal, with the jurists doing much of the talking. Attorney Albert Fink told them there was no reason why Capone should not be given the same privilege as other defendants and released from custody while he appealed his case.

Assistant United States District Attorney Jacob I. Grossman said he was just as sure that the convictions would be upheld. The man had plainly shown he did not care to obey the laws, Grossman argued. There was the matter of "public welfare" to be considered, and, besides, he might flee the country.

Judge Alschuler interrupted to remark "it is a question whether the man or the country would benefit by that."

The jurists wanted to know how long it would take defense attorneys to perfect their appeal, and pointed out that if a writ of supersedeas should be granted, the court had the power to set a time limit.

Fink said it would not take long, the defense would submit to any terms the court imposed, and would be ready to argue the case in the January session of the court of appeals.

Down in another corner of the Federal Building new complications piled up against Philip D'Andrea the former bodyguard, who is now Capone's cell mate. The warden of the county jail, where D'Andrea preceded his chief by two weeks, turned over to the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau a slip of paper which he believed snowed the sinister influence of the Capone gang in the affairs of the city.

The paper was taken from D'Andrea when he came to the jail, October 10, charged with contempt of court for carrying a loaded pistol in the courtroom during the Capone income tax trial. It contained the name of a policeman and the notation, "request of transfer from Nineteenth District to First Second or Third District."

The policeman is still in the Nineteenth District and Police Commissioner James P. Allman said he had received no requests for such a transfer.

Roomer and Ring Gone; Pawn Ticket Is Souvenir

Mrs. A. Fisher, of 1333 Belmont street northwest, has only a pawn ticket to remember her roomer by, she told police yesterday. She found the ticket on a Rosslyn shop in place of a diamond ring valued at $600 she had concealed in her purse. Two other valuable rings were undisturbed.

The man came to her residence Thursday and rented a room. Yesterday she returned from her work in a downtown department store and found her roomer had checked out. In the purse she found the pawn ticket for $85 made out to "G. N. F." Mrs. Fisher told police the ring did not belong to her, but was owned by her aunt."

George J. Adams Denies Resigning Relief Post

Published reports that George J. Adams, executive secretary of the District committee on employment, had submitted his resignation to E. C. Graham, chairman of the committee, because of a rift between the two, were denied yesterday by Mr. Adams.

He branded the report that he took issue with Mr. Graham for laying off employes of the committee as "amusing, but ridiculous," maintaining that no one is to be laid off. He said the job fund wrestling matches Thursday undoubtedly will provide the committee with all the funds it needs.

BANKERS OF FRANCE AND U. S. GRATIFIED BY RESULTS OF TALK

tives, in deference to Premier Laval, declined to make any official comment, but were quoted by a prominent banker as expressing gratification at having cleared up many points in which they had been in doubt, and saying that they were returning to France highly pleased with the results of their visit.

It was pointed out in leading banking circles that Premier Laval and President Hoover had been limited in the matter of making any definite agreements by their responsibilities to the legislative branches of their respective governments. It was understood in Wall Street, however, that a thorough understanding had been reached, and that the first draft of the communique which was issued at the conclusion of the Washington conversations was much more explicit than it was in its final form.

The decision that a fresh arrangement on intergovernmental debts, to be made before the expiration of the Hoover moratorium, should be initiated on the other side of the Atlantic, had been anticipated by prominent bankers, and was regarded as enhancing the prospects of reconciliation of the various nationalistic viewpoints on that subject.

Bankers felt that the groundwork had been laid for a new deal in the matter of debts, and some were inclined to the view that fresh measures should be promptly initiated to assure the prevention of any further crisis in Europe.

Prominent circles in Wall street were particularly pleased over the better understanding of the strength of the American financial position on the part of the French. It was explained the formation of the National Credit Corporation had been widely misinterpreted in Europe, where many observers jumped to the erroneous conclusion it represented the first step in inaugurating an era of inflation.

The Hoover-Laval agreement for maintenance of the gold standard and cooperative efforts to stabilize international monetary exchanges was said to have paralleled a similar understanding between banking representatives of the two countries.

A published report that the Franco-American agreement involved any further increases in the New York Federal Reserve rate was repudiated in circles close to the reserve bank.

As an indication of fresh confidence in the American money market, it was pointed out that the Bank of France had purchased some $25,000,000 worth of bankers' acceptances in New York in the last week.

Furthermore, exports of gold have been decreasing in the past fortnight. An additional $18,062,600 was withdrawn for export to France today, $2,508,200 to Belgium, and $80,000 to Switzerland. On the other hand, $3,400,200 in metal was released from foreign accounts here, making the moderate net loss of gold of $17,250,600.

The stock market was extremely dull, with a turnover of only about 1,200,000 shares. There were numerous net losses of $1 to $4 a share, nevertheless. The bond market was also quiet. It was notable that the German issues declined substantially, probably indicating disappointed in some quarters over the lack of a concrete announcement on reparations.

The commodity markets also turned somewhat reactionary. Wheat and corn, after their sweeping gains of the past ten days, lost about a cent a bushel. Cotton slipped off about $1.30 to $1.40 a bale.

Josette Turns On New Lights Flooding Statue of Liberty

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Mlle. Josette Laval, 19-year-old daughter of the French premier, waved her hand tonight over a silver globe atop the Empire State Building and the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor was bathed in light.

As a farewell gesture of good will before sailing for home, the French girl turned on a new floodlighting system which increases the illumination of the famous statue, a gift from the people of her nation 45 years ago Wednesday.

Josette, who termed the ceremony a "thrilling climax to a magnificent day" of sightseeing, was accompanied by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and by Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely and other military attaches.

Then Josette spoke a few sentences over a national radio hookup.

"I wish to take this opportunity," she said, "to thank the people of the United States for their good wishes, and I only regret that because I am sailing for home tonight, I will not be able to visit all parts of your wonderful country."

The 19-year-old daughter of the French premier got a panoranmic view of the metropolis from the world's tallest building with such distinguished guides as former Gov. Alfred E. Smith—complete with brown derby and jutting cigar—and John J. Raskob.

Her youthful desire for "close-ups" of everything she saw in miniature from the skyscraper stretched her subsequent motor tour down Fifth avenue, past the smart women's shops, up along Riverside drive and across the shining new George Washington bridge. But even then there were a hundred things she did not have an opportunity to examine and pronounce in her favorite phrase "tres magnifique."

Mlle. Laval and her father began their last day in the United States by breakfasting in the presidential suite in a tower of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Then they went to the French hospital to call on Henri Prince, of the city's reception committee, who became ill just as the Lavals landed here last week.

Supreme Court Denies Norman Bowles' Appeal

An application by Norman S. Bowles, former District lawyer, for a review of contempt proceedings against him in Baltimore upon which he was sentenced to 75 days in jail, was denied yesterday by the Supreme Court.

Bowles, who had been disbarred in the District, was found guilty of representing himself as a lawyer. In his appeal he argued that he should have been given a jury trial at the contempt proceedings.

INDUSTRIAL EXPERTS HIT ANTITRUST ACT

Law and Business Session Speakers Urge Revision of Present Laws.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Criticism of the antitrust laws as they affect petroleum, coal, copper, lumber, textiles and radio was presented to the National Conference on Law and Business at New York University today by experts in each field.

Prof. Myron W. Watkins, New York University economist, took exception to the general trend of the remarks, pleading that "if the actual but withal inadequate, safeguards to the consumer interests represented by the restrictions of the antitrust laws are to be removed, then by all means let us take pains to see that a superior substitute is provided."

James A. Emery, counsel for the National Manufacturers Association, gave the evident general opinion of other speakers when he urged that antitrust laws be changed to make them administrative rather than judicial.

Discussing the laws as they affect copper, Cornelius F. Kelley, president of the Anaconda Copper Co., suggested that business agreements be submitted to the Secretary of Commerce, and that the cooperators be freed from the provisions of the antitrust acts until condemned by the Secretary.

MRS. JUDD'S MATE ORDERED ARRESTED

tendants said she dozed occasionally during the night, often rising bolt upright and calling for her husband, Dr. W. C. Judd.

McFadden, who put a new interpretation on the killings, said he was positive Mrs. Judd would be returned to Phoenix for trial. He said he knew her well, Mrs. Judd having nursed Mrs. McFadden once when she was ill.

The sheriff said he believed the wound in Mrs. Judd's hand, which she said was inflicted by Miss Samuelson, actually occurred when one of the shots fired by Mrs. Judd pierced Miss Samuelson's body and came out, imbedding itself in the alleged slayer's hand.

DICKINSON WINNER IN DEBATE ON TARIFF

Omaha Audience's Applause Favor G. O. P. Protection; Harrison Opponent.

Special to The Washington Post.

Omaha, Nebr., Oct. 26.—An audience of more than 2,000 Nebraskans in the Brandeis Theater here tonight showed a clearly defined partiality to the Republican doctrine of protection when Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, and Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, clashed on the merits of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act.

Volume of applause and audience reaction awarded the debate to the factual presentation of the Iowan although the sarcastic sallies of Harrison gave him a generous share in the applause. Dickinson opened the meeting with a barrage of facts and statistics tending to show that the tariff law is preserving American standards even in this period of world depression.

Harrison directed the Democratic cannonade at the drop in American foreign trade and at the alleged foreign reprisals which he attributed directly to the Hawley-Smoot act.

Dickinson Begs Protection.

Taking a specific example for his text, Dickinson displayed to his audience a variety of brushes made in Omaha since the passage of the tariff act. Declaring that several score of men were at work in Omaha making these brushes as a direct result of the increase granted in the tariff law, the Iowan stirred his audience to vociferous applause with a plea for protection of American workmen and American markets.

Former Senator Hitchcock, who presided, declared the tariff to be the one vital issue differentiating the two major parties and predicted this issue would be carried to the fore in the campaign next year.

Talking without notes, the Mississippian attacked the steel corporation and other large interests for cutting wages after receiving what he termed special privileges in the tariff act.

The Democrat charged the tariff measure with cutting American foreign trade two and one-half billion dollars. Pleading with his audience to cease following false gods, Harrison asked support for the Democratic party.

Hinting that he might favor a debt-cancellation stand, Harrison said, "How can we expect foreign nations to pay in the face of existing tariff laws?"

Accepts Tariff as Issue.

Declaring that the Republican party gladly accepts the tariff as a campaign issue, Dickinson said "we have met the Democrats on this ground many times before and the outcome has convinced almost every one, including the present national chairman of the Democratic party, that the American people believe they are entitled to the home markets and resent any attempt to deprive them of this security which is guaranteed by tariff protection."

Pointing out that Republican administrations and Republican tariffs have prevailed for 56 of the past 70 years, the Iowan declared that within this time America has become world's greatest nation and that despite present depression we are much better off now than almost any other country.

Attacking the Democratic tariff arguments, Dickinson mentioned destruction of our foreign trade, billion-dollar living increase, reprisals from other nations as Democratic myths. Quoting the Commerce Department, he said two-thirds of all imports enter free and can not be affected by the tariff. Our share in imports of nineteen leading nations last year was 20 per cent. Our proportion in trade of the same markets during 1924-27 averaged 20 7-10 per cent. "This is the most infinitesimal destruction I have ever heard of."

Attacking a charge of foreign reprisals, the Republican said between 1925 and 1928 37 foreign governments made 87 upward revisions in their tariff laws. Dickinson also asserted that Canada had higher tariff laws than the United States before the increase of last June and before passage of the Hawley-Smoot act.

Picturing Democratic leaders as seeking tariff increases while other members of party orated against tariff law Dickinson named Connery, of Massachusetts, as appealing for high duty on boots and shoes—a schedule which Harrison attacked. Ransdell and Broussard, of Louisiana, were quoted as advocates of increased duty on sugar while Hayden and Ashurst, of Arizona, where said to be seeking protection for copper.

Tug Rescues Squall Victim After Flier Sights His Boat

Swept out to sea by a sudden squall, William F. Maher, 742 Crittenden street northwest, yesterday was rescued from his 32-foot cabin cruiser by a Navy tug after fighting choppy seas for eighteen hours in his disabled craft.

A Navy flier, Lieut. Exil Ketcham, of the Naval Academy, located Mr. Maher off Kent Island early yesterday, after a subchaser and tug had searched in vain, through the night. Little the worse for his experience, he related how he had passed the night battling rough water and the cold, after his engine was crippled in the storm off Bay Ridge, Md., Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Maher, an employe of the Government Printing Office, was sighted by Lieut. Ketcham following a five-hour flight. The aviator brought his seaplane to rest on the water nearby and taxied to within speaking distance. Then he flew back to the academy and the tug was dispatched to the scene.

Mrs. Maher, who had gone with her husband to the Maryland resort, watched with field glasses as the storm struck the craft Sunday and carried it out to sea. She notified authorities and a search at once was instituted. All night searchlights combed the waters. When discovered, Mr. Maher had just managed to tie his cruiser up to a post not far from the island.

Paper Firm Buys Memphis Dailies

Commercial-Appeal and Its Evening Edition Are Auctioned Off.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Control of the Commercial-Appeal, Memphis morning newspaper, and its afternoon companion, the Evening Appeal, was sold today by Federal receivers for the Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co., of Minneapolis, for $100,000, subject to approval by the chancery court at Nashville.

The entire outstanding capital stock of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, Inc., was auctioned off to satisfy a $1,500,000 claim of the M. & O. Paper Co. against Southern Publishers, Inc., a holding company now in receivership.

The newspaper properties are encumbered by debenture bonds against the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, Inc., totaling about $2,220,000, and approximately $500,000 of other direct liabilities. The holding company, prior to going into receivership last December 23, was controlled by Col. Luke Lea, Nashville publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, investment banker.

Ruth Nichols Safe As Her Ship Burns

Worries More Over Future Plans Than Close Call; Awaits Chamberlin.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Miss Ruth Nichols, of Rye, N. Y., escaped injury today when she leaped from her flaming monoplane as it stood on the take-off line for a flight to New York.

The society aviatrix, who was severely hurt when she made a hasty landing last June at St. John, N. B., was ready to complete a transcontinental flight when gasoline ignited and set fire to her $25,000 plane.

Disregarding the fact that she still wore a steel corset as a result of her spinal injury, she jumped from her ship to the ground.

Miss Nichols said later her plans would depend on the advice of Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic pilot, who telephoned he would come here to inspect her plane. It was too greatly damaged for her to continue her flight.

Dr. H. P. Pomerene, 65, Dead.

Women's Equality Is Voted in Manila

House Passes Bill, But Senate Is Expected to Modify It.

Manila, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Women would be given equal political rights with men, to vote and hold office, under a bill passed tonight by the insular House of Representatives. The vote was 38 to 14.

Legislative circles believe, however, that the Philippine Senate will not pass the bill, or if it does, will merely give women the right to vote, not the right to hold office.

The islands will be the first country in the Orient to have woman suffrage if the measure finally is enacted. The question has come up every year for several political seasons, but this session the women waged a stronger campaign than ever. American women assisted the Filipino leaders.

McNary Issues Call To Farm Committe

Meeting November 24 to Plan Steps to Change Marketing Act.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman McNary yesterday called the Senate agricultural committee to meet here November 24 to consider measures for strengthening the Farm Board act.

Call for the meeting was determined upon after a conference between McNary and leaders of the farm organizations. The farm leaders indicated a determination to add both the equalization fee system and the export debenture plan to the Hoover farm marketing act.

President Coolidge vetoed the equalization fee and President Hoover vigorously opposed the export debenture plan. McNary said he would invite members of the Farm Board before the committee at its presession meeting.

Fiske Loses in His Plea For Patent Case Review

(Associated Press.)

Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, yesterday was refused a review by the Supreme Court of his claim that the Navy had infringed his patent on torpedo planes.

Unable to sue the Government direct, he took action against Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, claiming Moffett was one of the officers responsible for the infringement.

57,687 Seeking Jobs As U. S. Stenographers

(Associated Press.)

More persons want to be Government stenographers and typists now than ever before. The Civil Service Commission said yesterday that 57,687 persons had applied for examinations to be held next month, breaking "all records for all time."

Ordinarily only about 2,600 are appointed annually.

Alice Roosevelt Boom Reported

South Dakotans Discuss Possibility as Candidate for Vice President.

(Associated Press.)

A vice presidential boom for Alice Roosevelt Longworth was reported yesterday by Representative Williamson.

The South Dakota Republican said a large number of his party colleagues in South Dakota were discussing the possibility of the candidacy of Mrs. Longworth in event Vice President Curtis does not seek re-election.

"The Alice Roosevelt Longworth boosters seem to think that she would add color and pep to the race," Mr. Williamson said. He just returned from spending the summer in his home State.

NAVY DAY PROGRAM BEGINS AT 8 O'CLOCK

Varied Exhibitions Slated; Willard Ball Tonight to Climax Exercises.

The sea dog will have his day today when Washington observes its tenth annual celebration of Navy Day with an elaborate city-wide program, having its focal point at the Navy Yard.

Starting at 8 o'clock this morning, there will be something different taking place at the Navy Yard every few minutes throughout the day, with exhibitions of torpedo warfare, aerial maneuvers, signaling, drilling, parades and all the rest of the events that go toward rounding out the life of a sailor in peace and in war.

Two light cruisers, the U. S. S. Memphis and the U. S. S. Richmond, will participate in the celebration, as will also the destroyer U. S. S. Herbert and the submarine R3.

During the afternoon and evening there will be demonstrations also at Naval Observatory, where various technical details of the work of the observatory will be demonstrated and explained to the public.

Sherman to Preside.

Exercises will be held at the John Paul Jones Monument at the foot of Seventeenth street northwest, at the Tidal Basin, at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Commander F. C. Sherman, Navy vice president of the District Chapter of the National Sojourners, will preside at these ceremonies, which will be held jointly by the National Sojourners and the Military Order of the World War.

An address on "The Life of John Paul Jones, Father of the American Navy," will be delivered by Commander J. T. Alexander, U. S. N., and Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, U. S., A., retired, will make a short talk on naval defense. The Marine Band will offer a concert program, and an invocation will be delivered by Capt. S. K. Evans, chief of Navy chaplains.

Following the addresses, wreaths will be placed on the monument by various patriotic and veterans' organizations, among these being the Navy League of the United States, American Women's Legion, several posts of the American Legion and the Military Order of Foreign Wars, Daughters of 1812, and others. The flags and colors of these organizations will form the court of honor.

For a week, the entire enlisted and civilian personnel of the Navy Yard has been engaged diligently in polishing up equipment in preparation for the occasion.

Marine Band Concert.

There will be a concert by the Marine Band in the Marine Barracks Auditorium at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at which the program will include "Anchors Aweigh," by Zimmerman; the overture from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman;" excerpts from "Pinafore;" Tebani's "Nautical Fantasie;" a Gungi waltz, "Dream on the Ocean;" selections from "Sons o' Guns;" Sousa's famous Marine march, "Semper Fidelis;" Victor Herbert's "American Fantasie;" the Marines' hymn, "The Halls of Montezuma," and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The Navy Day celebration will conclude with the Navy Day ball at the Willard Hotel tonight, under auspices of the Sixth Marine Brigade. High ranking Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard officers will attend. Senator Simeon D. Fess will represent the Federal Government, while Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, Washington's new chief of police, will represent the District.

Signal flags and naval pennants will be used in the decorative scheme to create a nautical setting for the ballroom. Debutantes in attendance will be chaperoned by Mrs. Helen Ray Hagner. During the evening the cup and medal for the rifle championship of the brigade will be awarded to Sergt. Edward Bender, who scored 245 out of a possible 250.

Naval Torpedo Station Open to Public Today

The naval torpedo station at Alexandria will be open to the public from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. today, in observance of Navy Day. Features include torpedo, mine, deep sea diving outfit exhibits, firing of a torpedo and airplanes in action, the last two at 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m., respectively. The mine-sweeper, the U. S. S. Cormorant, will be open for inspection.

Assassin's Bullet Fails To Hit Bulgarian Official

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Finance Minister Stefanoff, of Bulgaria, escaped injury today in an attempt to assassinate him while he was sitting in a railway carriage at Zminica Station.

His assailant, who escaped, fired a shot at the minister, but the bullet lodged in the woodwork of the car after smashing a window.

Mrs. Eva Ransdell, Long Ill, Succumbs

Deceased Was Brookland Branch Postmistress for Ten Years.

Mrs. Eva W. Ransdell, former postmistress of the Brookland branch office, died at her home, 1748 Massachusetts avenue southeast, last night after an extended illness.

Mrs. Ransdell held the Brookland position ten years and three years ago was transferred to the registry division of the department. She was a member of the Constitution Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and was active in religious organizations. In the World War she served in a citizens relief group under direction of Cuno H. Rudolph, former Commissioner of the District.

She is survived by her husband, Duncan D. Ransdell, assistant to the vice president of the Washington Gas Light Co. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

HOOVER HOLDS NAVY MUST BAR INVADERS

Force Must Be Enough to Protect Nation, But No More, Is Message.

budget asking for appropriation of $401,000,000 for the next fiscal year, he returned it. It should be reduced, he said, by as much as $81,000,000.

Mr. Hoover called again yesterday for rigid scouting of expenditures. The Nation, he said, should follow a course between extremists calling for too much or too little armament. The President's statement follows:

"Navy Day offers a special opportunity for national consideration of our defense and an opportunity to express national appreciation to the body of men who give so high a service to the Nation.

"The first necessity of our Government is the maintenance of a Navy so efficient and strong that, in conjunction with our Army, no enemy may ever invade our country. The commanding officers of our forces inform me that we are maintaining that strength and efficiency.

Ours is a force of defense, not offense. To maintain forces less than that strength is to destroy national safety; to maintain greater forces is not only economic injury to our people but a threat against our neighbors and would be righteous cause for ill will among them.

Adjustment Is Problem.

"Our problem is to assure the adjustment of our forces to the minimum based upon the outlook in the world; to strive for lower armament throughout the whole world; to promote good will among nations; to conduct our military activities with rigid economy; to prevent extremists on one side from undermining the public will to support our necessary forces, and to prevent extremists on the other side from waste of public funds.

"We are fortunate in having a Navy with long, high spirited tradition. It possesses a personnel of officers and men who have never been excelled in our whole history. The Nation has reason for confidence in their ability."

For the military part of the Navy Day celebration, Secretary Hurley yesterday directed all Army vessels—transports and river and harbor craft for the most part—that are in port to be "dressed."

Army Craft to Fly Flags.

Thus Army craft will join naval in flying a string of international signal flags from bow to masthead and down astern.

Further, Hurley addressed the following message to Secretary Adams:

"May Navy Day, 1931, recall to the American people the Navy Department's splendid record of achievement in their service and the conspicuous part it has played in defending their ideals. The Army that has served beside you in peace and war appreciates your unselfish devotion to national defense and extends its best wishes for your continued success."

Birthday of Roosevelt.

In addition, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, expressed to the chief of naval operations the Army's esteem. Gen. MacArthur, in his messages, commended the Navy as having been especially wise in its choice of October 27 for Navy Day. It is the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt.

In overlooking the whole field of prospective disarmament, American officials feel the proposal by the League of Nations for a 32-nation arms true will facilitate progress at the general disarmament conference in February.

America's favorable reply will take the form of a detailed communication, specifying just what military and naval construction this Nation would be will to forego. It will be framed at the State Department before Sunday.

W. H. MARTIN DIES; PIONEER MERCHANT

Long Was President of Well Known Firm; Funeral Tomorrow.

William H. Martin, 86-year-old former president and cofounder of Dulin & Martin Co., died at his home in Takoma Park, Md., Sunday. Mr. Martin was born in Alexandria, Va.

One of the pioneer merchants of Washington, Mr. Martin entered the firm of C. S. Fowler as clerk. Later the corporation was taken over by M. W. Beveridge, for whom Mr. Martin was purchasing agent, making many journeys to Europe.

At the death of Mr. Beveridge the business was conducted by Mr. Martin and his associate, Thaddeus C. Dulin, and was incorporated as Dulin & Martin, with Mr. Martin as president. He retired 25 years ago.

He was a member of Oldest Inhabitants Association and a veteran member of Harmonie Lodge, Knights of Pythias. Eight years ago he moved to Takoma Park, where he registered as a citizen of Maryland and took interest in State and county politics. He was a member of the Methodist Protestant Church at First street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

He is survived by his widow, Edna Lusby Martin; a daughter, Annie M. Martin; a son, William H. Martin, jr.; a sister, Mrs. Rena Patterson, and two brothers, Thomas J. and Grandon R. Martin. He had three grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in the Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant Church. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Veterinarian Dies Of Fall Injuries

Dr. W. P. Ellenberger, 60, Was Watering Lawn When Fatally Hurt.

Dr. William P. Ellenberger, 60-year-old veterinarian of the Department of Agriculture, died yesterday morning in Emergency Hospital from injuries suffered when he fell at his home at 1359 Parkwood place Sunday.

Dr. Ellenberger was watering his lawn with a hose, and it is not known whether he tripped over the hose or suffered a heart attack, causing him to fall and strike his head on the concrete walk.

He was removed to the hospital and never regained consciousness. Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, coroner, is withholding a certificate of accidental death pending an investigation to determine whether he died from a heart attack or accidental tripping.

Doomed Man Identified As Vanished Contractor

Carson City, Nev., Oct. 26 (A.P.)—"John Hall," under sentence to die in the lethal gas chamber at the State prison during the week of December 6, has been tentatively identified as Everett T. Mull, Morganton, N. C., contractor, who disappeared last May.

Prison authorities said that while "Hall" had seemed to be trying to shield his real identity he had readily admitted being a native of North Carolina and that he had five daughters by a previous marriage ranging in age from 13 to 22 years. Last October he remarried and with his bride came to Las Vegas, Nev.

P. R. R. MAN NAMED WABASH LINE CHIEF

Franklin Election Thought to Indicate Tightening of Control.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Walter S. Franklin, who began his railroad career as a freight platform clerk for the Pennsylvania Railroad, today was elected president of the Wabash Railroad and its subsidiary, the Ann Arbor.

The major part of his quarter of a century of railroad service has been with the Pennsylvania. At the time of his election today he was assistant to the vice president in charge of operations of the Pennsylvania.

Selection of Mr. Franklin to succeed the late William H. Williams as head of the Wabash was looked upon in financial circles as an indication that the Pennsylvania Railroad interests intend to keep in close touch with the Wabash management.

The Pennsylvania, through its investment affiliate, Pennroad Corporation, owns 48.8 per cent of the entire outstanding stock of the Wabash and has asked the circuit court of appeals to review an Interstate Commerce Commission order directing the Pennsylvania to divest itself of its Wabash holdings.

While Mr. Williams was alive the Pennsylvania exercised no direct operating control of the road, and the election of Mr. Franklin caused Wall street to wonder whether it meant a change in this policy.

WILLIAM W. PRICE RITES.

Veteran Newspaperman to Be Buried in Cedar Hill.

Funeral services for William W. Price, veteran Washington newspaperman, who died in Emergency Hospital Saturday after an operation, will be held at the Hysong funeral home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Price was 64 years old and had been connected with newspapers here for the past 35 years. He was a Mason and a Shriner, and the Temple-Noyes Lodge will conduct the services.

FOREST FIRES STOP SHIPPING IN HARBOR

Smoke Pall From 50,000 Acres Burned Over Hits Carolina Vessels.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 26 (U.P.).—More than 50,000 acres of dense timberland have been destroyed by forest fires which were still out of control today, the State forestry department announced tonight.

A region around Wilmington, N. C., where ships in and out of the harbor were delayed by smoke which extended even to the Cape Fear River channel buoys, was hardest hit. There, 40,000 acres have been burned over in Brunswick, Columbus, Bladen and Pender Counties and even school children have been drafted to aid in fighting the fires.

Wild game has been pouring from the region for several days as the flames spread over wider areas. The district forester's office announced the situation was critical, since the only hope of stopping the flames rested in a new series of canals recently built in the region.

Another series of fires swept over thousands of acres in the Pocosin country, east of White Oak River and south of the Neuse River. Rain has not fallen in some parts of the area for many weeks. A hunter who became lost in the swamps of the region after he was cut off by the flames reported his safety today. He was injured but not seriously. Much game has been destroyed.

Supreme Court Refuses Appeal of Capone's Man

(Associated Press.)

Phil Collenger, reputed to be the "payoff" man for the Capone gang in the Calumet District of Indiana, yesterday was refused a review by the Supreme Court of an order directing Federal District Court to try him again on a charge of conspiring to violate the prohibition act.

John Antonean was also refused a review of a similar order, which was directed to the District Court by the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals. Collenger and Antonean were convicted in March, 1930, with Mayor Raleigh P. Hale, of East Chicago, Ind.

THE BRITISH ELECTION.

Great Britain goes to the polls today, confused and bewildered, in one of the most important elections of recent years. Upward of 30,000,000 men and women will cast their votes, realizing that the outcome will determine in large measure the future of Britain, yet without knowing precisely what they are voting for. It has been many years since the British people have let national affairs get so completely out of their grasp.

The campaigns were concluded in what seems to Americans an incredibly short period. Only three weeks were allowed for the respective candidates to obscure their views for the public. But apparently they have done a good job of it. About all that can be gleaned from the party edicts and addresses is that the national coalition wants to be elected to save Britain from the depression and the Laborites want a chance to save Britain from the coalition.

Unquestionably the most important issue involved is a tariff for Britain. And yet tariff discussion has not figured prominently in the campaigns. Premier MacDonald has declared that he will not be a party to any "maneuvering to get a tariff for partisan purposes." Even the Conservatives have soft-pedaled this issue to retain the support of the antitariff Liberal block. Yet it is well known among the politicians themselves that if the national coalition wins, Britain will have a tariff. All that is necessary is to remain quiet about it long enough to get the conglomeration of Conservatives, Liberals and rebel Laborites voted into office again.

One other embarrassing issue that has been glossed over with silence on the part of the coalition is the gold standard. The national government was formed to hold the pound sterling on the gold standard and to save "Old England." It failed, but the disaster that Mr. MacDonald had predicted did not materialize. In fact, since the pound depreciated the wheels of industry have begun to turn again and unemployment is decreasing. After making such a blunder in the original diagnosis, it is not surprising that the followers of Mr. MacDonald feel sheepish in asking for a "doctor's mandate."

It is generally conceded, however, that the coalition will win a comfortable majority of the seats in Parliament. If the majority is large enough the advocates of a tariff will be able to turn their backs upon the free trade Liberals and proceed with erection of a protective wall about British industry.

The most dramatic contest is, of course, that of Premier MacDonald against his former campaign manager. Both claim to be Laborites, but Mr. MacDonald was repudiated by his party. In several instances he has found the miners of Seaham so hostile that he has had to abandon all effort to address them. If Mr. MacDonald should be defeated the leaderless coalition would be left in a muddle from which it could not be easily extricated.

SAFE HIGHWAYS.

A new type of granular nonskid surface is one of the safety features of the Spencer highway now under construction in Texas. This roadway has been pronounced the last word in modern construction.

Mounting casualties from automobile accidents prompted Harris County to provide every safeguard possible. The elimination of all bottlenecks, widening of bridge approches, a white curb at the sides of the black granular surface, a yellow dividing line in the center to separate traffic lanes and white shell shoulders four feet wide, will increase safety. Beyond the shoulders is a very gradual slope, so that if a car should run off the road it would not somersault. Besides this, superelevated curves have been provided so that even at high speed traffic can negotiate the curves without danger.

Modern methods used on this project have not, however, attracted as much attention as has an agent which was employed in road building in the earliest stages of civilization. In order to complete the work without delay James Pittman, president of the Gulf Bitulithic Co. engaged a herd of circus elephants that was idle at the time. The elephants, according to Mr. Pittman, made intelligent and willing road workers. They did everything desired from switching cars to pushing heavily loaded trucks out of mud holes. Though this situation is an unusual one, Mr. Pittman believes that where the circumstances permit, elephants can be used effectively and profitably in road work.

BUILDING IN WINTER.

Until a few years ago contractors discontinued building operations in the fall, and the building trades were purely seasonal occupations. Science, however, has improved materials, methods and equipment so that construction may continue despite cold weather. Builders have learned that they can not only do good work in winter, but that costs are actually reduced by starting in the fall instead of the spring. During the cold season materials and labor are cheaper and workmen generally more efficient due to the relative scarcity of jobs.

Builders of large city edifices demonstrated that skyscrapers can be erected in zero weather. As a result other builders learned the advantages of operating in all seasons. Winter construction is specially adapted to home building because spring is the most desirable time for a client to move into his new home. This arrangement enables him to plant his garden, make his lawn and beautify the exterior of his house.

A recent survey made by the American Builder and Building Age shows a number of surprising facts. For example, a home can be built for 10 to 20 per cent less in winter than in summer by an experienced contractor. Steam shovels can excavate frozen ground without difficulty and can be secured more cheaply in winter than during the month of great demand. The efficiency of workmen is no more hampered by cold than by extreme heat. Scientific use of building materials is practical throughout the year. These discoveries are revolutionizing the home-building industry, with the result that the seasonal element is gradually being removed from the construction trades.

CONFIDENCE RETURNING.

When the leaders of the steel industry begin to see the situation in a better light it is real evidence of improvement. Many business men will take courage because the heads of this great industry express confidence that the evil effects of the depression have passed the maximum of intensity and that with economies, improved credit, returning confidence, and a new spirit of cooperation manifest, the country is again ready to begin the upgrade.

This composite reflection of optimism emanated from the fall meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute. James A. Farrell, head of the United States Steel Corporation, pictured the great American home market as the pivotal point of trade recovery. Charles M. Schwab, president of the institute and chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, pointed out that America has changed from a debtor to a creditor Nation and that prosperity of other countries has a far-reaching effect upon the economic welfare of the United States. "America was on the upward move last spring," Mr. Schwab said. "Our production curve had increased steadily from the first of the year. Then came the breakdown of finances in central Europe, which spread to England and brought violent repercussions to our own shores.

"We owe it to our people," Mr. Schwab declared, "to see that vicious uneconomic practices do not gain a foothold in this country. We have abundant evidence of the ruinous effects of doles and subsidies and artificial stimulants." Back of all these difficulties, Mr. Schwab asserted, "is the terrific burden of the war which destroyed wealth and man power, promoted economic fallacies, mortgaged the future and left us the long problem of reconstruction which we must deal with patiently and courageously."

The speakers were unanimous in their warnings against legislative expedients and panaceas suggested for quick prosperity. Mr. Farrell urged against giving consideration to industrial reorganization that would substitute experiment for experience; nor would he give heed to the "emotional social reformers who with more zeal than knowledge imagine that for every social ill there is an infallible prescription ready to hand."

Confidence in the immediate future was the prevailing sentiment at this latest gathering of men who are rated among the business leaders of the country. They reflect a feeling that is general. A better spirit has spread through the Nation with the adoption of the sound and substantial measures initiated by the administration to expand credit and relieve banking congestion.

ITALY WANTS DISARMAMENT.

Premier Mussolini calls upon the world to disarm. It is rather strange to hear such sentiments from the militant Italian dictator, who has so frequently indulged in war talk. Only a few years ago he was wont to threaten the peace of Europe at regular intervals. The Fascist army became a formidable power. Now he complains of the legal inequality among nations "when on one side they are armed to the teeth and on the other they are condemned to be unarmed."

The Italian government is so interested in disarmament that Foreign Minister Dino Grandi is coming to Washington next month to talk the matter over with President Hoover. It was Mr. Grandi who recently proposed a holiday on armaments in preparation for the general conference on that subject to be held in February. Apparently the Fascist army is laying a heavy expense upon the Italian government, and a retrenchment program is necessary.

Italy assumed an uncompromising attitude at the London naval conference. Nothing less than naval parity with France and an army as large as any other on the continent would satisfy Premier Mussolini and his advisers in those days. Italy's demands and the refusal of France to yield to them resulted in the elimination of these two nations from the naval treaty signed at London by the United States, Great Britain and Japan. What has happened in Italy to induce Premier Mussolini to assume the role of a disarmament crusader?

When the duce criticizes nations that are "armed to the teeth" his remarks hammer loudly at Italy's own door. Figures obtained by the United States War Department just a year ago show that Italy maintains an active army of more than 390,000 men, in addition to an air force and reserves numbering more than 5,551,000. More than 14 per cent of Italy's population is under arms, compared with 0.35 per cent of the population in the United States. With the exception of France, Italy is the most heavily armed power in Europe, and the variation between the relative strength of the French and Italian armies is not large.

In view of these facts the anxiety of Premier Mussolini's government for disarmament is somewhat difficult to comprehend. Why does Foreign Minister Grandi wish to discuss the matter with disarmed America? If the Italian government is convinced of the desirability of disarmament, why does it not put its theories into practice at home? Italy's traditional enemy, Austria-Hungary, has been dismembered, and hence offers no threat to her security. Jugoslavia is not formidable enough to cause worry at Rome. Germany and Italy are on friendly terms. Some irritation between France and Italy is manifest at times, but neither has reason to fear encroachment from the other. It looks as if Mussolini and his ministers have made out a good case for disarmament—beginning at home.

In prosperous times Italy was able to maintain an army far out of proportion to that country's resources and defense needs. During the depression that policy has become a heavy burden upon the people, so the duce sounds a call for world-wide disarmament. If Italy is willing to lay aside her former militant attitude and assume a role in European affairs commensurate with her actual status that country can make a notable contribution to disarmament.

The President takes the word of a select committee that Congress is in session, but he personally goes to the Capitol to see that Congress adjourns.

It is unlawful to send literature containing "fake promises" through the mail—unlawful for everybody except political parties.

DEMOCRACY'S CHANCE

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In view of the present economic situation it is practically certain that the tariff question will play a prominent part in the next presidential campaign, for there seems to be a widespread conviction that the Republican high tariff, by demoralizing our foreign markets, is one, if not the chief, cause of our present economic depression. Many Democrats who believe in a moderate tariff, or "tariff for revenue only," voted for Mr. Hoover in 1928 because they had no alternative, as Gov. Smith had taken special pains to let the country know that he also was for high tariff.

The Democrats have not won a national victory in more than 50 years, except with the tariff as the main issue, and that was in Cleveland's election nearly 40 years ago. This does not take account of Mr. Wilson's election, which was manifestly made possible by Mr. Roosevelt's defection from the Republican party.

In 40 years the Democrats have not had so good an opportunity to exploit their moderate tariff doctrine as the next campaign apparently will offer. With a candidate and platform standing for the time-honored Democratic position on tariff and other economic monopolies the Democrats will stand a very fine chance to sweep the country in 1932, provided the candidate and platform are dry. Nothing is more apparent than that the great majority of the Democratic voters of this country are dry. In fact, the whole country has a decidedly large dry majority, as revealed by recent elections. It is also true that there are a number of great influential national groups, including millions of Democratic voters, who are firmly fixed in their determination not to turn this country over to the liquor interests.

The weak plea that bringing back the saloon (even though under another name) will reduce taxes, help unemployment, put speakeasies, roadhouses and bootleggers out of business, reduce crime and restore respect for law is so palpably false as to need no answer in view of the history of the liquor traffic, the most notorious lawbreaker and crime-breeder of all history. This plea will fool nobody but those whose slogan is, "We want beer."

This wet propaganda is circulated by a certain women's liquor organization, which we may well believe is financed by Raskob's million dollar liquor slush fund, collected chiefly from certain erstwhile and would-be brewers of this country, but is in part contributed by the wine growers of Europe.

It will avail nothing with these dry Democrats to crack the party lash over their heads, seek to adjust the Democratic dog collar about their necks, or to seek to make bolting odious. Too many of the very best Democrats of the whole country have bolted in recent years for that plea to amount to much. Democratic voters, except some office-holders and office-seekers, are not afraid to bolt if necessary. They simply refuse to wear the dog collar.

A recent writer has insisted that we must "let the majority rule in the selection of a candidate." If he means the majority of a wet convention, made up of hand-picked delegates named by wet executive committees in the States, as in 1928, the dry Democratic voters are not likely to acquiesce. They will no longer stand for such political chicanery, and insist on their right to correct such evils at the polls.

In the event that a wet candidate is forced on the next Democratic convention by trickery, on the part of wet leaders who happen to be in charge of the party machinery it is not beyond the range of possibilities for the dry Democrats to call what they will consider a real Democratic convention that will correctly represent the well-known dry sentiments and convictions of a large majority of the Democratic voters of the country. Such a convention with a strong, dry candidate, who is otherwise sound on economic questions, would undoubtedly command a big vote and, at least, insure the defeat of any wet Democratic candidate and make it unnecessary for dry Democrats to vote the Republican ticket, as millions of them reluctantly did in 1928.

If the next Democratic convention reflects the sentiment and convictions of the great majority of Democrats of this country it will be an overwhelmingly dry convention, which will write a dry platform and name a dry candidate. If by trickery and chicanery a wet candidate is nominated, then look out for the results at the polls. H. BEAUCHAMP.

BEES BY MAIL.

Tours for bees are now organized by ingenious, honey-loving mankind, says the New York Sun. Along California highways pass swiftly by night trucks and trailers loaded with beehives. Thus the bees have access to new sources of nectar. The first honey harvest comes from citrus blooms, the next from mountain sage, the third from the alfalfa and cotton fields of the San Joaquin Valley. Large apiaries of 200 or more colonies are moved from point to point as often as five times a year. The bees live up to their reputation for industry, though some scientists declare they do not deserve it.

Export of queen bees by parcel post has become a profitable industry in Queensland, Australia. The queens are packed in little wooden boxes with four or five worker bees to keep them warm and a small supply of food. They are then shipped to New Zealand, the Pacific islands, South Africa and other lands. Canada does a good bee business, much of it by mail.

No Contract Binds the Other Fellow to Agree With Your Imagination

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A LAWYER-BANKER of my acquaintance had prepared a contract for two of his patrons, one of them a timid little woman from the country, and thought it his duty to explain the terms in detail.

"Now it is understood," said he, "that——"

"Nothing is understood," the little woman interrupted, "except what is written down there in black and white."

Unwittingly she voiced a truth that many good business men overlook. Nothing is understood except the part that is written down, and very little of that.

The ordinary "understanding" between business men, friends or relatives is a misunderstanding.

Where there are conflicting interests there are conflicting conceptions of right, and where there are conflicting conceptions of right there are differing views of fact.

When the day of settlement comes, one man says to the other: "I didn't understand it that way." And the other answers hotly: "Trying to crawfish, are you? Well, you're not going to let me down. I'll sue you." The first man thinks he was tricked into signing something he didn't understand, and the second thinks he is dealing with a rogue whose word is worthless. Yet it is probable that both are honest. When the agreement was made, each saw the thing he wished to see and expected the thing he most desired. Each was satisfied by his own imagination, but they imagined different things.

The quarrels of nations, litigants and friends begin, as a rule, in misunderstanding; and the failure to understand one another begins, almost without exception, in the fact that each assumes that his version of right is conceded by the other.

Verbal agreements frequently are worthless because they aren't agreements in fact. How can men agree on a contract when they don't even agree in their definition of words?

There would be fewer charges of rascality if people would learn to distrust not only their memories but also their ability as mind readers.

It isn't fair to assume that the other fellow is a rogue because you once were so foolish as to assume that he meant something he didn't mean.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Results at Washington.
New York Times.

The terms of the joint statement issued by President Hoover and M. Laval yield no surprises. The emphasis placed upon the determination of both countries to maintain the gold standard is the most significant part of the communique. It is bound to have a marked effect on world opinion. Much the same can be said of the reference to the moratorium and debt payments. Strict limitations were, by the very nature of the case, imposed upon both men. Neither of them could make a treaty. Neither could pledge legislative support for any recommendation he might undertake to urge. The whole occasion was, in fact, one for a friendly meeting of minds rather than for an exchange of binding promises. There never was any secret about the main subjects of conversation between the two statesmen, but there could have been no reasonable expectation that they would be able to make public their conclusions, except in the most general language.

Bon Jour, Pierre!

Progress in Understanding.
Baltimore Sun.

Partisans can say that the joint communique issued by President Hoover and Premier Laval means a great deal and partisans can say that it means nothing at all. But the truth in this, as in many other cases, lies between. The President and the premier have solved no major problems affecting the relations of America and France or affecting the world in general, but they have put their minds to work in common on some of the immediate tasks that are important. This may finally result in substantial good. And if the beginnings may be made in intelligent action on the jobs that lie immediately ahead, the way may possibly be paved for intelligent cooperation in broader issues of international relations.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Progressives, Advocating Government Ownership of Utilities, Want Public to Pay for Red Tape.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The progressive demagogues of the Senate seem determined to plunge the country deeper into the depression by their stupid fight against privately controlled utilities and railroads. They would have the Government operate public utilities in competition with private companies. This would result in driving them into bankruptcy, causing thousands of people with moderate incomes to lose billions of dollars. Not only that, but millions would lose their jobs; States would lose millions of dollars in taxes.

The public had a taste of what Government operation of railroads and telegraph lines would be like during the World War. We not only had to pay higher prices for service, but also higher taxes to make up the losses entailed by inefficient operation. Rolling stock and other equipment were allowed to deteriorate and the employes showed a lack of consideration bordering on contempt for the traveling public.

I can picture what would happen if something happened to cut off the power in a home or factory, if the Government owned the electric power house. We would have to call up about two or three petty officials and tell them what the trouble was. Probably after a week of red tape the damage would be repaired. Then the matter, instead of being closed, would have to be reported to another set of political appointees, and several duplicate reports would be filed. Would you call that efficient service? All of this extra expense would be added to our service or tax bill.

Taxpayer Wants Interstate Commerce Commission Abolished Because It Did Not Raise Freight Rates.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now that the Interstate Commerce Commission by its ruling on the application of the railroads for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates has definitely demonstrated its uselessness as well as its hostility toward the roads, Congress should legislate it out of existence.

It has been apparent for a number of years that the railroads of this country could not continue indefinitely to operate unless the powers of this commission are greatly curbed. The roads are not permitted to operate their business as other enterprises do. Their every action and move is supervised and watched by this commission composed of men, many of whom have no railroad experience. The executives of the roads who have spent long years in familiarizing themselves with every detail of operation have their hands tied. How long could our stores exist if their owners were forced to fix their prices and otherwise to run their business in accordance with the dictation of some commission?

Unless the Interstate Commerce Commission is abolished or its regulatory power is greatly curtailed, it is only a question of a few years until every railroad in this country will be bankrupt and we will have no adequate transportation system. The commission's decision will force the roads to reduce wages, a thing the country hoped could be avoided. It will also greatly prolong the return of prosperity. A TAXPAYER.

Will Chairman Wood Lead Off by Chopping His Own Salary and That of All Congressmen?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see in your issue of this date where Representative Wood, chairman of the appropriation committee, has advocated cutting the salaries of the Government employes so as to help the unemployment situation, saying that the employes should be glad and willing to be cut, as they should be glad that they have jobs, and are not in the army of unemployed. Is he going to start the cut by lopping off the salaries of congressmen in the same ratio as Government clerks? Congressmen get $10,000, which was granted without any opposition by themselves, while the clerks work hard and are glad to get $1,500 and less for their labor. Is Mr. Wood willing to donate $1,000 out of his salary, where we would be called upon to give $100 or more? Fair play is pretty play, no matter who plays or pays. C. L. E.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE LITTLE FELLOW.

Just a little fellow, bright as he can be,
Growing, so the neighbors say, more and more like me.
Much too young for questioning things I do and say;
Very proud of daddy in his happy, childish way;
Wanting to be like him and very apt to be—
Guess I'd better hide my faults where he can not see.

Growing like his daddy! There beyond a doubt
Is a serious matter I should think about.
All my traits he'll copy; everything I do.

Soon or late, it's certain, he'll be trying, too.
Trusting me to show him just the way to go,
What if I mislead him? How is he to know?

Just a little fellow—much too young to see.
All the whims and follies that are spoiling me.
If I do a wrong thing while he's near at hand,
My regret which follows he won't understand.
Growing like his daddy—and just a little lad,
But a serious problem for his doting dad.

Backless Versus Covered Shoulder

Whatever evening gowns do—and they are doing astonishing things—they must be dramatic. Nothing gives this dramatic quality as much as these extremes—the gown, that is utterly backless, with a bit of jeweled harness that serves to emphasize the backlessness—or covered shoulders such as a strap, puff or sleeve, so perilously off the shoulders as to appear about to slide off, and making one look for the world as if one had stepped out of a Boldini portrait. A collection of these extremes—at an extremely low price.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoover Will Be Guest This Evening at Fete of American Association of University Women.

MRS. HOOVER will be the guest of honor this afternoon at a reception of the American Association of University Women in their clubhouse, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Mrs. Hoover is a charter member of the association and will receive with Mrs. Otto Veerhoff, president of the Washington branch, who will present the members to the First Lady. The guests will be members only, and admission to the reception will be strictly by special cards, which are nontransferable. Past presidents of the Washington branch of the association and officers of the National Association will preside at the tea table alternately.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, has returned from Atlanta and joined his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gann, in their apartment at the Mayflower. Mrs. Gann is honorary chairman of the patroness committee for the ball November 11 in the Washington Auditorium for the Armistice Day jubilee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mrs. Borah, wife of the senator from Idaho, is acting chairman. The Vice President and Mr. and Mrs. Gann will have a box party at the ball.

Mrs. Owen J. Roberts Comes Here Next Week.

Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, wife of Justice Roberts, and Miss Elizabeth Roberts will join Justice Roberts at their home in Georgetown on November 2. The justice has been in town for some time, while Mrs. Roberts and their daughter remained at their farm near Philadelphia.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. van Royen entertained at luncheon yesterday at the legation in honor of Prof. William de Sitter, famous Dutch astronomer, who has been in this country for about six weeks making a research tou of the observatories.

President Hoover received Prof. de Sitter yesterday, and last evening he delivered an address in the auditorium of the Department of the Interior. Before that he was dinner guest at the Cosmos Club of a group of astronomers.

The Minister of Czechoslovakia and Mme. Veverka will be at home tomorrow afternoon on the anniversary day of the Czechoslovak republic, from 5 to 7 o'clock.

The Governor of Porto Rico and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt are passing a few days at the Hamilton Hotel en route from San Juan to their home at Oyster Bay, Long Island.

Miss Engracia Freyer, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Frank Barrows Freyer, will sail Thursday, December 3, for Egypt. She will make the trip around the world before returning to Washington. Miss Freyer will accompany Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman and their daughter, Miss Frances Virginia Waggaman, on the trip.

Lieut. Carl W. Porter, Engineer Corps, U. S. N., who has been stationed at Haiti for the last four years with his family, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Porter, in Clarendon. He will remain until November 1, when he will take up his duties in Charleston, S. C.

Representative A. Piatt Andrew has returned to Washington from his home in Gloucester, Mass., and is spending a few days at the Carlton.

Miss Frances Brooke Makes Bow on December 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brooke will present their daughter, Miss Frances Kendall Brooke, to society at a tea dance on the afternoon of December 23, at the Mayflower. Miss Brooke is a scholarship student at Peabody Conservatory, and though she will take an active part in the debutante parties during the holidays, will continue her work in Baltimore.

Mrs. Brooke is a cousin of Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the former Canadian Minister to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Pepper, of Devon, Pa., spent yesterday at the Mayflower on their way home from a trip to Charlottesville, Va.

The tacky ball which was given for the first time last year, will be repeated this season, November 23 having been selected as the date by Mrs. William Laird Dunlop, jr., who will sponsor the affair again this season at the Mayflower.

The dance will be given by the girls who were presented in the Capital last season in compliment to the debutantes of 1931-32.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fairnholt, of Gloucester, Va., are guests of the Powhatan.

The "Five Horsemen" will entertain at dinner tonight in the Empire room at the Shoreham in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Easley, who were married recently. The guests will include Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gude, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ranson, Miss Elizabeth Jones, Miss Erma Glascoe, Mr. Joseph Scannell and Mr. Walter Scott Armstrong.

Mrs. George H. Warrington, of Cincinnati, is a guest at the Mayflower accompanied by her daughter, Miss Elsie Warrington, and her classmate, Miss Elizabeth McMillan, who are attending school at Warrenton, Va.

Mrs. Hoggatt Clopton will entertain in honor of Lieut. Col. Joseph J. Staley, commanding the Sixth Marine Reserve Brigade, and Mrs. Staley, at dinner at the Shoreham Hotel Navy Day. Later Mrs. Clopton and her guests will attend the Navy Day ball at the Willard and will occupy Col. and Mrs. Staley and Mrs. Clopton's box.

Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Apperson announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Huff Apperson, to Capt. Ira C. Eaker, Army Air Corps, now stationed at Bolling Field. The wedding will take place late next month or early in December.

Democratic Women To Hear Senator Hull.

Senator Cordell Hull will be the guest of honor and speaker at a dinner which the Woman's National Democratic Club will give Friday evening. He will discuss "Tariff and Commercial Policy."

The club entertained at its weekly forum luncheon yesterday when the guest of honor and speaker was Mr. C. U. B. Hurd, of the staff of the New York Times. His subject was "New Bubbles in the Congressional Kettle." Mrs. Lowell Mellett introduced the speaker. Also at the speaker's table were his mother, Mrs. Hurd; Mrs. Edward P. Costigan, Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. Charles Warren, Mrs. Frank Bright, Mrs. Jouett Shouse and her debutante daughter, Miss Elizabeth Shouse.

Another debutante, Miss Helen Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, was at the luncheon in a party entertained by Miss Marvin Breckenridge. Another of her guests was Mrs. Charles Parker Stone. Miss Catherine Thompson accompanied her mother, Mrs. Huston Thompson, and Mrs. Joseph Davies was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Cheeseborough, of Bronxville, N. Y.

Others in the company were Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. Rufus Weaver, Mrs. Josephus Trimble, Mrs. Claude R. Porter, Mrs. Edward A. Stuart, Mrs. Benjamin Smith, Mrs. Ogilvie Shumate, Mrs. Lucian Clarke, Mrs. Mason Patrick, Mrs. Charles J. Brand and Mrs. Charles Hook Tompkins, who entertained as her guests Mrs. D. I. Sulton and Mrs. Jane Sherrier.

Also at the luncheon were Mrs. W. D. Smith, Miss Mary Bakewell, Mrs. Bates Warren, Mrs. John D. Brodhead, Mrs. T. H. Seay, Mrs. Edward K. Campbell and Miss Frances P. Hill.

The educational committee of the club will begin today at 11 a. m. the first of a series of book reviews, to be held each Tuesday. "Dawn in India," by Sir Francis Younghusband, and "Ghandi: A Portrait From Life," by Frieda Hauswirth Das, will be discussed today.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Solger, after spending the summer in Europe, have returned to Washington for the winter.

New York Society Ball on Saturday.

Plans have been completed for the first entertainment and ball of the New York State Society, which will be held in the ballroom of the New Shoreham Hotel Saturday evening. The program will begin at 9 o'clock. The wearing of costumes will be optional.

A novelty dance will be introduced during the evening, in which the winner of the contestants will receive a prize.

A short program has been arranged by the entertainment committee. Owing to the demand for reservations a record attendance is expected, including members of Congress who are members of the society, and other prominent New Yorkers who have accepted, are as follows: Representative and Mrs. John Taber, Representative Robert L. Bacon, Representative Thomas H. Cullen, Representative Samuel Dickstein, Representative Joseph A. Gavagan, Representative Francis D. Culkin, Representative Frederick M. Davenport, Representative John D. Clarke, Representative Clarence E. Hancock, Representative James L. Whitley, Representative Archie D. Saunders and Mr. Edmund F. Cooke.

Mrs. Lemar Harris is chairman of the reception committee, assisted by Mrs. W. A. Carr and Miss Florence Adams; Mrs. F. W. Krichelt is chairman floor committee, assisted by Mr. Harry J. Hunt; Mrs. C. F. Hammerly is chairman entertainment committee, assisted by Miss Louise Evanson, and Mr. Maurice Sands is chairman membership committee.

American Chapter, D. A. R., will hold the opening meeting of the season at the home of the regent, Mrs. L. H. Mattingly, at 8 Rosemary street, Chevy Chase, Md., today. The guests of honor will be Mrs. Harry C. Grove, State vice regent, who will tell of her trip to the Yorktown Sesquicentennial, and the State treasurer, Mrs. Alfred T. Hansmann, who will explain the State budget for the coming year. Two new members will be welcomed into the chapter.

The Washington Chapter of the Trinity College Alumnae Association will entertain at dinner this evening in the Chinese room of the Mayflower Hotel to honor its new members from the class of '31. Mrs. Lawrence Grogan will act as toastmistress. The committee on arrangements includes Miss Florence Judge, Miss Bernadotte Sheehan and Miss Vivian Barr.

Mr. Perry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was the guest in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sabin entertained at dinner on Sunday evening at the Homestead.

The former Ambassador to the Court of St. James and Mrs. Alanson B. Houghton also were guests of honor at dinner that evening of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Vietor at the Homestead.

Among the additional reservations for the dinner this evening at 7:30 o'clock to be given by the Women's Democratic Educational Council at the Woman's National Democratic Club are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mr. Victor Russell, guest of the president. Mrs. Clara Wright Smith; Mrs. George Eckles, Mrs. Mary H. Tighe, Miss Bliss Finley, Miss Elizabeth Wheeler, Mrs. McFarland, Miss Lucille Proctor, Mrs. Stewart Walker, Mrs. Edward R. Martin, Mrs. John T. Grimsley, Miss L. F. Cavanaugh, Miss Mary E. Lazenby, and Miss Erma Garey. Senator William H. King will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Clara Wright Smith will head the receiving line, with officers of the council assisting. Mrs. Lester J. Pollock is in charge of the program. Mrs. Grattan Kerans, first vice president, will preside.

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin F. Marsh, of Wareham, Mass., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last night with a dinner at the Shoreham.

Married on October 26, 1881 in Wareham, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh have traveled extensively during the past several years, and spend a part of each year in Washington. Dr. Marsh is a retired physician.

Among the Washington guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. William W. Marsh, of 5711 Colorado avenue northwest, and Mrs. and Mrs. Franklin W. Marsh, of the same address.

Justice Holmes Misses Day in Supreme Court

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court's most familiar figure, Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, was missing from its bench yesterday. It doesn't happen often, and the reply to inquiries was that he has a slight attack of lumbago. He was expected to be in his accustomed seat at the right of Chief Justice Hughes today.

Justice Holmes was 90 years old last March. He could have retired years ago with full pay, but he didn't want to. He still retains his marvelous vitality and the ability to hand down decisions which convert the dryness of legal questions into literature.

Churches' Young People To Refute Wet Charges

In answer to charges of excessive drinking by the young people of today, 175 groups of young people, representative of various churches throughout the city, will conduct programs on this subject at their respective churches next Sunday.

The movement, headed by George M. Gooch, chairman of the temperance education committee, Antisaloon League, of the District of Columbia, will be carried on through the cooperation of Christian Endeavors, Baptist Young Peoples' Unions, Epworth Leagues and Luther Leagues.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF October 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 to 11 a. m., from 2:10 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 7:15 p. m. to 9:50 p. m. The danger hours are from 11:30 a. m. to 1:55 p. m. and from 4:50 p. m. to 6:45 p. m.

All the astrological signs of October 27 favor travel, sport and strenuous activities. Family and domestic affairs will be rather under a cloud. Difficulties will occur through the women folk. Engaged couples, too, will experience serious differences. In business, the best rewarded fields will be those of farming and real estate. Beware of new acquaintance!

The child born on this October 27 will develop intense ambition. In school and in later life it will strive to be a leader, and its determination will be strong enough to permit it to reach its goal. It will be artistic, very adaptable, popular, and be capable of strong emotions.

You, if born on October 27, are "missing on one." You possess more than average ability. You have always been a student, not only of books, but of human nature. You are conscientious and straightforward. You, however, lack the nerve to push yourself ahead. An inherent timidity seems to be always present in your case. You are afraid to go bald-headed after what you want, and many a valuable opportunity slips out of your grasp. In spite of all evidence to the contrary, you are obsessed with the idea that you must have a "pull" to get anywhere. You forget that it is better to pull your own weight than wait for your "pull."

You are sincere, and your circle of friends is a large one. There is a powerful impetus working within you, urging you on to higher and nobler things. Only your diffidence holds you back. You are fond of home, and find therein rest and comfort. A good deal of personal magnetism and charm is possessed by you, and you are strongly drawn to the opposite sex, which, in turn, finds you congenial and pleasing.

Your emotions are very strong, but you have them in control, and rarely display to the outside world this side of your character. Fond of the country and outdoor life, you derive much pleasure from communion with nature.

Successful people born on October 27:

James John Davis, Secretary of Labor.

Isaac M. Singer, inventor.

Robert A. Franks, capitalist.

Whitelaw Reid, journalist and diplomat.

John D. Long, Governor of Massachusetts.

Theodore Roosevelt, twenty-sixth President of the United States.

RECIPES FOR HALLOWEEN.

Popcorn Balls (12)

3 quarts popped corn
1 cup molasses
2-3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup water
½ teaspoon soda

Mix the molasses, sugar, vinegar, butter and water. Boil gently and without stirring, until a portion "clicks" when hit against side of a cup of cold water. Add soda and mix well. While foaming, pour over popped corn. Mix and when cool enough to handle, take portions in hands and shape in balls.

Nut Fudge.

3 cups sugar.
3 squares chocolate
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup nuts

Mix the sugar, chocolate, milk and butter. Boil gently and stir frequently, until soft ball forms when portion is poured slowly into cold water. Remove from stove at once. Add the vanilla. Do not stir nor move for 15 minutes. Beat until creamy. Add nuts and spread on buttered dish. Cut into bars.

Pumpkin Filling for Two Pies.

2 cups cooked mashed pumpkin
3 eggs
1 cup dark brown sugar
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon butter, melted

Mix ingredients and beat thoroughly. Pour into two unbaked pie shells. Bake 10 minutes in moderate oven. Lower fire and bake 50 minutes in slow oven. Pumpkin pies require slow, long cooking. They should be inspected frequently and turned to allow even baking.

Fruit Salad, Serving Eight.

1 cup diced pineapple
1 cup diced grapefruit
1 cup diced peaches
1 cup seeded white cherries

Mix and chill fruits. Drain and arrange on lettuce and top with salad dressing.

Jane Corbett INTERPRETS the MODE

This chic early winter coat of plum duvetyn has beige caracul collar and cuffs that are small but effective. (A New York model.)

New York, Oct. 26.

THERE have been a lot of musical comedies and sophisticated revues opening up at the smart theaters lately—and quite aside from their relative entertaining merits, their costuming was an optical treat, and an indication of how the theatrical world has accepted the new mode!

For instance, in a heavily starred revue that opened lately the costumes of principals and chorus divided their allegiance equally between the ever-popular combination, black and white, and dramatically brilliant reds and greens, blues, purples and bright rust tints. The chorus girls for one of the hit songs were dressed alternately in bright blue and vivid green, accented with white belts, white flowers and broad (not Empress Eugenie) white felt hats!

In another chorus, alternate black lace and chiffon and white taffeta frocks were used. Quite often our old friend turquoise blue is used to accent all-black costumes, and one of the leading ladies wore that very smart combination of a simple, white satin gown with a flame red, silver fox bordered, jacket. In another musical comedy, two-shade themes were used—two shades of green, of yellow and of Spanish tile being the most effectively interesting.

Altogther, with brilliance of costumes, rivaling and furthering the vividness of the stage scenery, one is so immersed in color and gayety that the depression-tired world outside is quite forgotten.

* * * *

One of the most fashionable fabrics for winter coats is duvetyn, which looks like dull velvet, but which is much more drapable and much less crushable! And the coat I have sketched for you today is of plum-colored duvetyn, and it has small cuffs and a wee collar of beige caracul. 'N' it has wide revers to give shoulder width and interesting incrustations, a la skyscraper, to give an effect of tall slenderness at the same time that it simulates a one-sided bolero.

* * * *

It's the ideal between-seasons coat, too. When you buy yours, try to see that it isn't too heavy or swaddled in fur for comfort on occasional mild days.

And speaking of plum color, you can't tell it from my illustration, of course, but the chemise is of plum-colored chiffon with lace dyed to match, and the tiny but firm brassiere is of plum lace, too!

* * * *

Have you ever stopped to think how many different types of clothes may be created from one smart and becoming basic idea? For instance, how would you like to have a velvet skirt which, with a tailored white satin blouse, would serve splendidly for formal luncheons, and with a lame (lah-may) blouse would be just the thing for late afternoons? And why wouldn't it do beautifully for evening, too, if you knew just the right kind of black velvet top and rhinestone to use? And then, for the day time—as a one-piece gown — well, anyway, — if you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare department of The Washington Post you'll find out from this week's leaflet how to create all these costumes from the same basic design, and lots more besides!

Au revoir!

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

LAST winter I had a most beautiful bird's-nest fern given to me, which lasted only a couple of months and then died. I mean to get another, provided you think this fern can be coaxed to live in an apartment. BILLY R. W.

It was the dry air of the house, no doubt, that was responsible for the death of your plant. The bird's-nest fern requires a great deal of moisture, especially in the atmosphere. This is hard to achieve in the house. One way of giving a plant a steam bath is to carry it to the bathroom and turn on the hot-water faucets. When the room is filled with steam place the plant in the middle of the floor for an hour or so. A steam bath helps any plant.

My dogwood tree has been attacked by oyster-shell scale. Do you know of a remedy, or must I lose the tree? MRS. LEWIS T. L.

If you spray the tree during its dormant season with heavy-bodied petroleum oil, 1 quart to five gallons of water, you will soon rid your tree of the disease.

Please tell me names of some rapid-growing flowering vines. ANN M. T.

Balloon vine (love in a puff), bittersweet (celastrus scandens), clematis paniculata (virgin's bower), gourds and cinnamon vine.

Does leopard's bane require much sun? HELEN G.

Leopard's bane does well whether grown in sun or shade.

I have a honeysuckle which has become, due to neglect, badly matted. What do you suggest? CORA F. W.

All you can do is to cut it back. Honeysuckle grows both fast and thickly and requires constant pruning and training. This would be a good time to remove about three-fourths of the growth. Next spring when it begins to grow again you can begin at once to train it, at each pruning removing all the tendrils you do not want and arranging the shoots that are left.

Please tell me when to prune the shrubs that bloom in the late fall. CHARLES G. R.

The late summer and fall flowering shrubs are pruned in the spring, as they bloom on wood made the same season.

I have some beautiful ivy clippings which are in a clear white glass vase. Now I am in doubt as to where to place the vase. Does ivy require sun or must I keep the container away from windows? MRS. THOMAS F.

English ivy clippings, whether rooting in water or soil, will do better in a north window. This variety of ivy requires light, but not direct sun, so keep away from a southern exposure.

Economy Drive Started For Adventist Schools

Omaha, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A concerted drive for retrenchment within the Seventh Day Adventist Church was inaugurated at the annual world conference today. General Treasurer Shaw warned that it would cost nearly $400,000 to place in operation a program approved yesterday to accredit schools of the denomination.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

THE LANGUAGE OF BIDS.

WHY is Bridge the most satisfying of pastimes? What is the secret of its amazing popularity? Is it not that it combines, in just the right proportions, an element of luck with an element of skill?

But the luck—mark this—should all of it be in the dealing. Bidding is a matter of skill, not a matter of chance. The "kick" that one gets out of Contract is the thrill of satisfaction one feels when one finds that, in terms of one or two simple bids, one has been able to tell partner all about one's hand. Finding the right bid, through an accurate and precise use of "partnership language," presents with each deal a fresh intellectual problem—an intellectual problem which it is always a joy to solve. Here is a pretty example from the Anglo-American match of 1930:

North—Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The Bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1♣	Pass	1♡
Pass	2♣	Pass	2♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

It will be instructive to follow up East's and West's bids and to find out more precisely what they mean.

North having passed, East's first bid, one club, is quite obvious. He has 3 honor-tricks (the A K of clubs and the Ace of diamonds) and a nice biddable suit. His bid tells his partner that his best suit is clubs.

South passes (clubs are satisfactory with him), and the problem comes up to West. The latter, clearly enough, must show his hearts. His hand is worth 2 honor-tricks and the suit, if East can support it, has game-winning possibilities.

With North's second pass, the ball is thrown back to East again. He is faced now with the one bid from West for which his hand is quite unsuitable. With any other trump suit, his single heart has ruffing possibilities and is positively a source of strength to the hand. He must try and convey this fact to West. He does so by his bid of two clubs.

How will West interpret this message?

"East," West will say to himself, "has more than his minimum honor strength. He has shown me this by bidding a second time. On the other hand, he has no good second suit. This I infer from the fact that he has not bid spades or diamonds. And finally he does not care about my hearts. If he did—as we clearly stand little chance of game—he would let one heart bid alone."

All these inferences are correct. And how does West apply them to the situation in hand? He shows his second suit—spades. This would be a risky bid—West has only K-J x x—if it were not that West knows two things. The one, that East has strength outside his clubs and that, since he denies hearts, some part of that strength may well be in spades; the other, that if East has nothing in spades, his minor suits must be very strong indeed, and he can safely revert to his clubs.

West's argument is sound. East is just sufficiently strong to leave the spade bid alone, and in play West gets home with his contract. A pretty example of how facts and inferences can be exchanged. West could also, in actual play, make two or perhaps three hearts, but it would be courting disaster to go on with the suit after East has denied support in it.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The Meaning of a Double Raise.

Partner has opened the bidding with one in a suit. When should one give him a double Raise in the suit bid?

Answer: When one has minimum trump support (4 trumps or Q x x at least) and from 4-½ to 5 supporting-tricks in all.

EXAMPLE.

Opening Hand bids one spade

Honor-tricks		Playing-tricks
1-½	♠ A Q 10 2	2-½
—	♡ 9 8	—
1	◇ A 5 4 3	1-½
—	♣ 10 8 7	—
2-½		4

Responding Hand bids three spades.

Honor-tricks		Supporting-tricks
—	♠ 9 8 4 3	½
1	♡ A 7 4 2	1-½
—	◇ 7	2
½	♣ Q J 3 2	1
1-½		5

Note also

1—That the double Raise in the suit bid is not Forcing. With 3 honor-tricks make a Jump bid in another suit.

2—The raise to three spades denies the material for a Raise to four.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Bidding With Part-Score.

Question: Please bid the following hands, partial score of 60, both non-vulnerable.

1)—♠ A 6 4 ♡ 7 2 | ♠ K Q 8 7 6 5 4 ♣ 8

2)—♠ A J 7 5 4 3 ½ ♡ K 7 ♢ 8 ½ ♣ Q J 10 8 | ♠ K J 10 8 5 3 2 1-½ ♡ A Q 5 ♢ 8 5 4 ♣ — —

4)—♠ A K 8 5 4 1-½ ♡ A Q 6 ½ ♢ K 7 ½ ♣ K 5 2

Should a partial score ever affect or modify the honor-trick requirements for an Opening bid which does not go beyond game?

Answer: Hands No. 1 and 2 should be passed; hands No. 3 and 4 bid one spade. All are distinctly too weak to open with a part-score two-bid, except No. 4 which, however, imperatively requires further information from partner in order to avoid playing it in the wrong declaration. It is never advisable to modify the honor-trick requirements for an Opening bid with a part-score, as partner may very possibly shade his response in an effort to score game. The obvious conclusion is that if your side has the stronger hand, you will get your game easily anyway, whereas if the opponents have, a heavy penalty may result.

Playing-Tricks and Additional Values.

Question: You say Rebids after partner raises (see examples) are based on extra playing-tricks. Do I use the extra length here for my Raise to four spades? Partner can expect only a four-card suit by my Takeout and I have more, or must I have, in addition, some extra values? In this case does the fact that I have a doubleton in diamonds and also know that I will have plenty of trumps make any difference?

Example:

1♢ Pass 1♠ Pass
3♠ Pass ?

What do I do here with

Spades A Q x x x
Hearts x x x
Diamonds x x
Clubs x x x

Answer: Your partner's Raise from one to three spades shows that he has a minimum of 6 supporting-tricks with spades as trumps. Since you are the Declarer, you count your trumps on that basis. Your particular holding counts 3-½ playing-tricks. The combined hands should produce between 9 and 10 tricks. A four spade bid by you is therefore in order. Your shortage in diamonds as already counted in your trump suit, but the additional length over and above the possible minimum Takeout warrants a Rebid.

Slam Invitation Misunderstood.

Question: The following interesting hand presented itself in a Contract foursome the other day and I should like very much to know the correct bidding.

It was a Fourth Hand opening with East and West vulnerable. East did not go to Slam because of the original pass of partner and the two heart bid of South, while West claimed that by rebidding her spades and supporting the diamond bid she showed very plainly that she was inviting Slam in either suit and was putting the choice up to her partner.

East opened Fourth Hand with 2 diamonds; South put in a two heart bid; West said 2 spades; North passed; East two notrump; South passed; West 3 spades; North passed; East 4 spades; South passed; West 5 diamonds where the bidding stopped. A Grand Slam was made.

Answer: West was perfectly correct in her statement that she had made it plain to her partner that she was desirous of bidding for a Slam. The only possible criticism which may attach to her bidding is that she could possibly have bid six spades instead of five diamonds, but you will observe that six diamonds is the slightly safer bid for the combined hands.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

He Is So Fine.

MY DEAR FRANCES McDONALD: I've read your column for years, but this is the first time I've had the temerity to bring my problem to you—although it is by no means a new one.

To begin with, I want to assure you that he really is wonderful—the requisite tall, dark and handsome, an excellent position with splendid prospects, and quantities of pure charm.

But—we've been going together for almost four years; I've always had lots of competition, but he actually loves me, and has been amazingly true. We've never made a secret of the fact to any one that we would be married some day—but I'm beginning to think that heaven alone knows when. At first I hesitated, but for the past two years I've been prodding him—at first delicately; now insistently, as to when!

He just naturally doesn't want to marry, and has been reiterating "Next spring—next fall—next spring." Seriously, I don't think it's fair. He caught me young and trained me—I've adored him so completely that I haven't even looked calculatingly at another man in three years.

We get along beautifully, and we, just we two, have wonderful times together. We could have splendid children, and I think it's time we settled down and had them. He is just six years older than I.

His attitude is puzzling, because he is so fine about other things. I am sure it is his mother. She is a selfish being who thoroughly enjoys the adulation and homage she receives from her son, her only son, unfortunately. And she tirelessly drones upon the mistakes and disadvantages of marriage, and the son—poor substitute for a husband—actually likes it!

I've, as a last resort, threatened to give him up. He merely grins his too engaging grin, and says, "You'll be sorry if you do!" I know I shall—I'll probably trail romantically about with a pathetically and apparent broken heart for months.

But, there is no reason why we shouldn't marry. He can afford it so easily, and I am confident that he loves me, he wants to be, and is, with me constantly. I think I shall leave him—what do you think?

I'll be awaiting your counsel so eagerly—and I shall obey it to the letter. JEAN.

Listen, dear heart, this lad is far from unique! The woods are full of just such take-all-give-nothing spirits. And they usually do grin as they take. You may not have the stamina to give him up. But if you do we can prophesy that in five year's time you would regard him as one of the inane mistakes of your youth, and shudder a little at the thought that once you considered marrying him. If you give him up you will have the chance to marry him—and we pray that you may not. For he is a type. The type that unfortunately has a little too much of the female parent and a little too little of the male parent in its make-up. The type that clings to mother. The type that prefers security to responsibility. The type that may be 6 feet tall and weigh 200 pounds, but still has not the man's instinct to have and to hold, that clings, sometimes to a mother, sometimes to a sister, but always to some woman for security, from the demands of life! They are a sorry spectacle. And they are not meant for marriage and all that it entails. So in your own interests and for your own sake give this grinning robot up. And as you gain in experience you will realize that what today seems to you his "fineness" will be revealed tomorrow as his weakness. For he is all weakness, a feminine mind in a masculine frame. And a good type to avoid.

Did you say you would follow our advice to the letter?

YES, some substitutes are cleverly made to look like Kotex. But that doesn't make them the same.

Are they clean, like Kotex? Scientifically made in surroundings of hospital cleanliness? Have modern methods been used, so that hands have never touched them?

These questions remain unanswered, when you accept a substitute of whose makers you know nothing — and they are directly related to your health.

Accept no substitute of whose origin you are uncertain. When buying sanitary pads already wrapped, ask the clerk, "Is this real Kotex?" Thus be sure you are getting no inferior substitute.

Kotex is supremely comfortable. Shaped to fit. Adjustable. Stays soft for hours. Hospitals use it. So should you.

HOOVER SEES RADIO AIDING FREE SPEECH

President Talks to Session of Broadcasters; Praises Present U. S. System.

(Associated Press.)

A firmer hold upon free speech and an avoidance of political pitfalls was seen yesterday by President Hoover in the course mapped early by the radio industry away from governmental broadcasting, listener-taxed.

The President spoke by radio to the ninth convention of the National Broadcasters Association at Detroit. Recalling his days as Secretary of Commerce, he praised some of the decisions he then helped to form. He said:

"The determination that radio channels were public property and should be controlled by the Government; the determination that we should not have governmental broadcasting supported by a tax upon the listener, but that we should give license to use of those channels under private enterprise where there would be no restraint upon programs, has secured for us far greater variety of programs and excellence of service without cost to the listener."

Decisions Avoided Pitfalls.

The Chief Executive asserted these decisions had "avoided the pitfalls of political and social conflicts," that would have resulted from governmental broadcasting.

Stressing yesterday what he called the "many-sided importance of radio in modern life," the President characterized it as an "incalculable extension of happiness and contentment."

"It has," he said, "brought most of the supposed values which were formerly available exclusively to life in the cities to every home throughout the land, for the treasures of music, of entertainment, and of information have been brought to the loneliest farm and the most remote hamlet."

The text of Mr. Hoover's address follows:

"It gives me great pleasure to greet the ninth annual convention of the National Association of Broadcasters meeting this week in Detroit. As Secretary of Commerce I had the pleasure of wide acquaintance with the purposes of your association in the annual radio conferences which were called at that time for the development of the National policies in relation to radio.

"The decisions reached at that early date have been of unending importance. The determination that radio channels were public property, and should be controlled by the Government, the determination that we should not have Governmental broadcasting supported by a tax upon the listener, but that we should give license to use these channels under private enterprise where there would be no restraint upon programs, has secured for us far greater variety of programs and excellence of service without cost to the listener.

"This decision has avoided the pitfalls of political and social conflicts in the use of speech over the radio, which would have been involved in Government broadcasting. It has preserved free speech to the country.

Principles Imbedded in Law.

"These principles are now strongly imbedded in our law and in our entire public system. The industry has constantly faced new and complex problems in developing policies and practices abreast of development and need. Your association has contributed greatly to their solution.

"I am confident that you recognize the responsibility which rests upon you in public interest. It is needless to mention the many-sided importance of radio in modern life. Its dissemination of entertainment, of knowledge, and of public opinion and topics of the public welfare, has become an essential element in the intellectual development of our country. It has brought most of the supposed values which were formerly available exclusively to life in the cities to every home throughout the land, for the treasures of music, of entertainment, and of information have been brought to the loneliest farm and the most remote hamlet. It is an incalculable extension of happiness and contentment.

"I extend to you my most cordial greetings and good wishes for your meeting, with the confidence that you will develop still further policies of sound management and public service."

Collision of Sun With Star Held Cause of Earth's Birth

(Associated Press.)

A terrific collision between the sun and a passing star was advanced last night as the cause of the birth of the earth and other planets by Prof. Willem De Sitter, noted Dutch astronomer.

The passing star, he said, pulled material off the sun, and the larger fragments became the planets. The momentum of the star, transmitted by the collision, started the sun and planets all whirling in the same direction through space.

Such a collision, he continued, is the only satisfactory way of explaining why the sun and all the planets revolve in the same direction, and why their orbits are almost circular and on almost the same plane or level. He spoke before the Washington Academy of Sciences and the Society of Sigma XI.

The satellites of the planets—such as the moon—were born in similar fashion, he said. They were pulled off the planets by the sun's attraction, as the planets were pulled from the sun.

After the star pulled a huge filament of matter out from the sun the planets circled about the sun, following an elliptical path, like a flattened circle. Gradually, however, their orbits became more like a true circle, due to friction from the gaseous material out in space. This friction now has "rounded out" the planets' orbits until they are almost perfect circles.

When the planets were following their early elliptical orbits they were much nearer the sun at some times than at others. At one of these times of passing near the sun, its attraction pulled off satellites from the planets. The satellites began circling the planets as the planets circled the sun.

Through mathematics and geology the "collision theory" has been checked and found satisfactory, Prof. De Sitter said. The time required for the gaseous material out in space to "round out" the orbit of the planet Mercury from its original elliptical shape to its present circular path has been calculated by mathematicians. It corresponds, they have discovered, to the age of the earth as calculated by geologists.

WEST POINT FOOTBALL STAR DIES OF YALE GAME INJURY

kept him going," murmured Philip B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the Military Academy, who stayed at the dying youth's side from Saturday night on. "And his mother has the same stout heart."

Sheridan died without regaining consciousness. Not once, from the time he was carried off the playing field Saturday, had he opened his eyes.

His mother reached the hospital shortly after 2 p. m. She and Gerald had been escorted by motorcycle policemen of New York and Connecticut in the 60-mile-an-hour race from the Pennsylvania Station in New York City.

Reaching the hospital, she held a hasty conference with physicians and then was led into the room where Richard lay in the steel box-like respirator. She lingered beside him only a few minutes. She spoke to him, but there was no answer. Then she was taken to another ward to sleep.

Following the boy's death, Mrs. Sheridan left the hospital with Capt. and Mrs. L. C. Warner, of West Point, in whose automobile the trip was made from New York. They were to go to the Warner home to spend the night.

The 21-year-old cadet's neck was fractured in two places during a thrilling moment of the Saturday game.

He was taken immediately to New Haven Hospital, where three famous specialists, attending a meeting in New Haven, rushed to his side. They were Dr. Harvey Cushing, noted brain and nerve specialist, of Boston; Dr. Ernest Sykes, of St. Louis, and Dr. Samule Clark, of New Haven.

These three performed an emergency operation. One of the fractured vertebrae was hindering the process of breathing. It was adjusted. Then it was found that the nerves which control the lungs had been damaged, and Sheridan was placed in the respirator.

Week-end football injuries resulted in three deaths, a United Press survey revealed today.

In addition to the death of Sheridan, Michael Kocick, of Herminie, Pa., died at Greenburg, Pa., from pneumonia which set in after he had been injured in a football game a week ago.

Antone Zarocka, tackle on the Rhinelander football team, died of a fractured skull received in a game with Clintonville.

At least eleven players were injured in games throughout the United States over the week-end, all requiring hospital attention.

Y. M. C. A. to Seek 500 New Members

First of Four Membership Dinners Slated to Be Given Tonight.

More than 100 Y. M. C. A. members who have organized in an effort to recruit 500 additional members during the annual "Y" enrollment week, beginning today, will hold the first of four membership dinners tonight at 8 o'clock in Central Y. M. C. A., 1736 G street.

The canvass will be under direction of a committee consisting of Dr. Everett M. Ellison, membership committee chairman; Leonard W. DeGast, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Ed Morton Willis, retired "Y" secretary. Enrollment drive plans will be discussed.

The workers are grouped into five divisons and each division is composed of four teams. Division chairmen are W. C. Hanson, F. M. Nettleship, Dr. Ellison and Worth E. Shoults. Mr. Shoults heads two divisions.

Nurse Freed, Hospital Is Scored in Acid Death

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Mabel Gray, colored nurse at Freedmen's Hospital, whose application of a bath of carbolic acid by mistake resulted in the death of Thomas Jefferson, colored, a 9-year-old patient, Friday at the hospital.

Verdict of accidental death was returned but the report sharply criticized hospital authorities for negligence in labeling bottles.

"clear road ahead!"

It's great to feel that way and you do . . . when the blood has the "feel" of enough rich red cells

REGARDLESS of age—be fortified with plenty of "red blood." That s-p-e-l-l-s happiness.

So frequently work, worry, colds and sickness reduce the red-cell count in the blood . . . then our spirits go down as the blood cells are lowered.

"That tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health in various manifestations.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

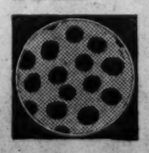
Why not start taking S.S.S. today?—the larger size represents a price saving.

Builds Sturdy Health

Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

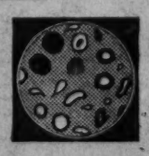
It is important to know that the red-blood-cells are the "ships" that sail in the blood stream and carry nourishment and oxygen to all parts of the body . . . they build and sustain—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

Whenever the number of red-blood-cells is materially reduced, lowered vitality ensues and the system becomes more susceptible to the ravages of various diseases. It is a great protection to health and physical well-being to keep the red-blood-cell count up to normal.



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.



Don't let them count you out!

Grandi and Bruening Hint of Far-Reaching Agreement at Berlin Meeting.

Berlin, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Far-reaching agreement on measures necessary to deal with the political and economic questions facing the world has been achieved by Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, an official communique said tonight.

The statement, made at the conclusion of the second day of Signor Grandi's visit here, did not mention these measures in detail.

In their talk today, the communique said, the chancellor and his Italian guest exchanged views on all the outstanding problems in politics and finance that urgently require solution.

The discussion was conducted with extreme frankness and the most friendly feelings, it was explained, and both statesmen agree that effective measures to combat the world crisis are impossible without systematic cooperation among the nations involved. This cooperation, the communique said, must be based on mutual confidence and respect.

Earlier in the day the Italian foreign minister told German and foreign newspaper correspondents that the most important thing to be accomplished now is "overcoming the state of mind which dates back to the World War and getting ready for more intimate and trustful cooperation."

He refused to comment on the Hoover-Laval conversations. After the press conference he was received by President Paul von Hindenburg.

Gunboat Nearing Cocos In Hunt for Lost Trio

Balboa, Panama Canal, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Carrying an eager band of marines and sailors, the United States gunboat Sacramento tonight was nearing the lonely island of Cocos in the southwest Pacific to search for three Americans who are believed to have lived a Robinson Crusoe existence for the past six months.

The refugees, Paul Stachwick, of Huron, S. Dak.; Gordon Brawner, of Springfield, Ill., and Elmer Pallimer, of San Diego, Calif., were wrecked off the island in their yawl last April and traces of them were found Saturday by Julius Fleischman, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who is cruising in the South Seas.

Adolph S. Ochs' Brother Succumbs in New York

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—George Washington Ochs-Oakes, a brother of Adolph S. Ochs, publisher of the New York Times, died unexpectedly today in the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, where he had undergone an operation three weeks ago. He would have been 70 years old tomorrow.

Mr. Ochs-Oakes had been considered well on the road to recovery. His condition took a sudden turn this afternoon, and he died in a few minutes. He was editor of the New York Times Current History.

JAPAN HOLDS LEAGUE DEMAND VOID BECAUSE OF OWN BALLOT

of Japanese lives and property in Manchuria.

"4. Competition to services of Manchurian railways must be eliminated. (The South Manchurian Railway is owned by Japanese.)

"5. China must recognize existing Japanese treaty rights in Manchuria, including Korean and Japanese land leases."

The dispatch of additional Japanese troops into Chinese territory was cited as another failure of the Chinese to keep order.

Gen. Shigreru Honjo, commander in chief of Japanese forces in Manchuria, reported Chinese bandits had destroyed railway property at various points along the Ssupingkai-Chenchiatun-Taonan line and also attacked trains and stations.

Nanking, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—While Chiang Kai-Shek expressed confidence that the League of Nations would see that its resolution calling for Japanese evacuation of Manchuria was carired out, other quarters tonight expressed apprehension over the future.

The Central Daily News, official organ of President Chiang's Nanking regime, declared that Manchurian menace to the peace of the Far East had not been removed by action of the league council ordering Japanese evacuation of nontreaty areas, Chinese guaranties for safety of Japanese national in Manchuria, and organization of a permanent Sino-Japanese board of arbitration.

Chiang said the league council resolution was "generally satisfactory" to China, and continued:

"I hope that prior to November 16, when the council is scheduled to reconvene, all obstacles to the peace of the Orient will have been removed and world tranquillity assured. We are grateful that there is still justice in this world. We have confidence that the league's resolution will attain its purpose—the defense of justice against might."

President Chiang blamed the Manchurian difficulties upon "the inordinate ambition of a small group of Japanese militarists," which, he said, "do not reflect the desires of the entire Japanese people." He warned his hearers not to let their hostility to the militarists "include the whole Japanese nation."

Boss of Tammany Called in Inquiry

Brooklyn Leader to Face Questioning on Deal for Judgeships.

New York, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—John H. McCooey, pudgy, white-haired Tammany boss of Brooklyn, was subpenaed today to appear before a private session of the Hofstadter investigating committee tomorrow to explain what part he played in the judgeship deal of the second judicial district.

This deal, now under scrutiny of Samuel Seabury and the legislative committee, involves twelve judgeships which were allegedly split between the Democratic and Republican parties.

McCooey will be asked tomorrow to appear before a public hearing on the following day, it was indicated. At the same time, it is understood, Meier Steinbrink, former Republican leader of Brooklyn, will be asked to testify. Steinbrink is now a candidate for one of the judgeships in question. It is thought likely that McCooey will be questioned closely about the nomination of his son, John H. McCooey, jr., who is only 31 years old.

Nemesis of Remus Jailed for Perjury

Former Justice Agent Sentenced to 30 Months' Term.

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Franklin L. Dodge, jr., former Department of Justice agent, who several years ago was named in sensational charges by George Remus, former Cincinnati bootleg king, was sentenced today to 30 months in prison for perjury.

Dodge, a resident of Lansing, Mich., pleaded guilty in Federal court here to the charge, which grew out of his testimony in a liquor trial at Savannah, Ga.

Remus' charges against the agent were made shortly after the liquor baron finished serving a penitentiary sentence several years ago for violating the liquor laws.

Dodge is to be held in the Richmond County jail here pending orders from Washington as to where he will be placed in prison.

Dirigible Is Victim Of Forced Cruise

Goodyear's Columbia Held in Air 32 Hours by High Wind.

New York, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—An "accidental" endurance flight ended at sundown tonight for the Goodyear dirigible Columbia which, in recent weeks, has been used for sight-seeing flights over Manhattan. The flight lasted nearly 32 hours.

The dirigible was prevented from landing by a stiff, cross-hangar wind which reached a velocity, at times, of 40 miles an hour. Danger of being blown against the hangars or into nearby apartment houses made it necessary for the Columbia to stay in the air over the field.

The wind died down, however, late today, and a safe landing was made.

Coolidge's Home Town Extends Chest Drive

Northampton, Mass., Oct. 26 (U.P.). Calvin Coolidge's home town is determined to fill its community chest drive quota of $50,000, even if it takes longer than expected.

The drive, scheduled to end tonight, has been extended indefinitely, it was announced, in order that the amount subscribed for uemployment relief might more closely approach the quota. Only $19,689 has been subscribed to date.

Graf Approaching Lisbon.

Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 26 (A.P.). The dirigible Graf Zeppelin reported tonight that it was approaching Lisbon, Portugal, on its return flight to Friedrichshafen from Pernambuco, Brazil.

SENATOR BINGHAM OPPOSES WOOD PLAN TO CUT U. S. PAY

lents fattening on the succulent gold wrung by the Federal Government from hard-pressed taxpayers throughout the country that makes for otherwise inexplicable difficulties for Government workers and others resident in the National Capital, and adds to the strength of such proposals as that advanced by Representative Wood who certainly is, no matter whether popular or unpopular with Government workers, a sturdy fighter who has been through many battles.

Refusing to engage in a fight with Representative Wood, but replying to the Indianan's dictum "let them suffer" through reduced salaries, Senator Bingham said:

"Government employes are not in a position to take advantage of an era of prosperity and the unwonted profits accruing from such an era. They are not in a position to exact the high wages and profits which others in commerce and industry may enjoy at such times.

Military Under Contract.

"Aside from any pleasure they may get from serving the Nation, their compensation comes from the security of their salaries and the knowledge that their employer will never go bankrupt.

"There is a steadiness of employment in the Government service which, unfortunately, is not true of private employment. The Government, admittedly, does not always employ the same number of persons and there are changes incident to changing conditions, but these changes are not so relatively important. The Government worker is attracted to the Government service by the promise of a living wage, continuous employment and the guarantee of ultimate retirement, when too old longer to carry on, on a retirement annuity based on his salary.

"It seems to me that this certainly is no time to ask the Government employes to take a reduction in salary. Officers and enlisted men of the national defense comprise a very large part of the Government employes. These men are under contract, a contract which they are not free to break. What could be said in justification of a course of action which induced a man to enter the Government service under certain conditions and then, without giving him a chance to walk out, change those conditions?

"The Government employe in the civil service can, of course, walk out, but at the same time there does exist a genuine if not so definitely expressed contract about the conditions of employment.

"It seems to me that any reduction in Government salaries at this time would be extremely unjust and unfair, both to the Government and to those who are employed by the Government to work for the common good of the entire Nation."

Reno, Nev., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Henry W. Lowe, prominent socially in New York, was divorced here today from Marie C. Lowe, and obtained a license to wed Mrs. Kathleen Dunning, of Sutcliffe, Nev. Mrs. Dunning obtained a Reno divorce in 1928.

Gov. White Calls Parleys on Strike

Ohio Executive Seeking to Solve Situation in Coal Fields of State.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Gov. George White tonight announced plans for conferences of coal miners and operators with a view to obtaining an agreement on wages and working conditions which will stabilize the bituminous coal industry in Ohio, which has been in a chaotic state for several years.

"Definite concrete results must be forthcoming without delay," the governor declared in announcing that he has invited representatives of the miners to meet with him in conference next Thursday and representatives of the operators to meet with him the following day.

The chief executive's decision to act at once was believed to have been prompted by strikes today at two mines in the Hocking district involving about 500 men.

Board on County Rule To Begin Report Today

Richmond, Va., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The Virginia commission on county government will meet here tomorrow to begin the final draft of its report on possible reforms in county government machinery, William Shands, secretary, announced today.

A tentative report already has been prepared by Dr. R. H. Tucker, of Lexington, chairman, according to the announcement. This is to be carefully considered before it is put in final shape for submission to the next General Assembly.

SANITATION OF PARKED CARS.

WHEN the Shriners held their convention in Toronto the local committee estimated that something more than 10,000 people would use parked Pullman cars as hotels during their stay of about one week in the city. This committee first took up with the railroads the matter of parking space for the required number of cars.

The need was for side tracks on which the cars might stand unmoved for one week at points accessible to the street without an undue number of thoroughfare tracks that had to be negotiated. There must be facilities for feeding the considerable number of people, as well as sleeping places, hot and cold water, toilet facilities, including baths, and garbage and allied services. The railroads set aside two parking yards reasonably accessible, and built a few temporary service buildings.

These arrangements having been agreed on, the next point to be worked out was the sanitary arrangements. This called for consultations with the health departments, as well as the railroads. The objectives were: To prevent the yards from becoming offensive, to prevent the breeding of flies, to avoid soil pollution, and to be certain no local condition contributed to the spread of typhoid, or any other communicable disease.

Sleeping cars were used for sleeping purposes, and dining cars as restaurants. The toilets of sleepers were provided with the type of arrangement used on occupied sleeping cars standing for several hours in stations. Arrangements were made to empty the night soil into convenient sewers through manholes several times daily. Garbage cans were set at dining cars. An organized service collected the garbage daily and carried it to the city plant. Rubbish cans were located near sleeping cars and at other convenient points. The arrangements provided for collecting this rubbish and disposing of it at the city plants.

The water supply was obtained from the city mains. Ice was stored in temporary ice houses located in the parking area. As the convention was held in the summer and the station heating plant was not in operation, engines were spotted in the parking yards and their boilers supplied the needed hot water and steam.

Shower baths were installed in temporary houses built nearby. And, finally, a personal laundry service was organized. In order to make the parked cars accessible, the roads built some walks that would not become muddy if it rained.

The convention was held, the people were comfortable, flies were not a nuisance, no odors were complained of, the yards were clain, and no sickness resulted. If this plan were more generally used, conventions of large size—even great political conventions—could be held in places with no hotel facilities.

DIABETES AND FEET.

Mrs. P. writes: How does diabetes affect the head and feet?

REPLY.

Diabetics are prone to gangrene, ulcers and infections of the feet. They are very prone to develop diabetic coma. I presume that might be accounted a head condition.

LICE AND NITS.

M. G. writes: How does one get rid of body lice and nits?

REPLY.

Kerosene kills the insects. Warm vinegar washes the nits away. Greasing prevents nits from hatching. Body lice live in the clothing. They go on to the body to feed, but they do not remain there long. Any treatment that does not cover delousing the clothes will prove disappointing.

Time-Tinted Paper Tells Of Old Ferry Boat Line

Vincennes, Ind. (U.P.).—A dusty, tinted paper clipping in a collection at the William Henry Harrison home here has bridged a silence of more than a century and explains the finding of a stone landing on the bank of the Wabash River here.

The paper reveals that the landing was a part of a ferryboat line operated across the river, it being a license issued May 15, 1815, to Gen. W. Johnson. Johnson paid $100 for the permit.

Excavators found the landing at a depth of 15 feet.

Smithsonian Man Finds 20,000-Year-Old Shell

Paris (U.P.).—J. Townsend Russell, curator of Old World archeology at the Smithsonian Institution, has discovered a triton shell 20,000 years old.

He found the shell this summer in the Cave of Marsoulis, Haute-Garonne, where he has been in charge of cooperative excavation carried on by the University of Toulouse and the Smithsonian Institution.

The 20,000-year-old triton shell is the first of its kind ever reported from the paleolithic or old stone age.

SPOKESMEN AT ODDS OVER HELPING TRADE

Chamber Proposes Private Board; Progressive Urges One Operated by U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Agreeing that business needs somebody to tell it how to expand, spokesmen for the United States Chamber of Commerce and Progressives in and out of Congress differed yesterday on who should do the supervising.

Over a Senate committee table the chamber proposed creation of a private national economic planning board; a progressive spokesman suggested one Government-operated.

The chamber was represented in the hearing before a Senate manufacturers subcommittee by Henry I. Harriman, of Boston, chairman of its committee on continuity of employment.

John Maurice Clark, professor of economics at Columbia University, spoke for the progressive conference which met here last spring to frame a legislative program for the approaching Congress. He is chairman of a subcommittee appointed by that conference to study stabilization of industry.

Harriman also recommended modification of the antitrust laws to permit companies to make agreements for stabilizing production in accordance with demand. He proposed such contracts between companies should be allowable if approved by some Governmental agency established for the purpose.

Chairman La Follette suggested that would involve price fixing. Harriman agreed the Government would have to watch prices and if improper prices resulted from the agreement it would have to be abrogated.

Harriman recommended a planning board set up and operated by business independent of the Government, and of an advisory nature. He also advocated shortening of work hours, which he said was "inevitable on sound economic grounds."

Clark, telling of a growing sentiment for economic planning, said a planning council was so necessary it was certain to develop in one form or another and added it would be of such vital interest that the Government would have to take charge of it.

Virginia Leading Credit Aid in Reserve District

Richmond, Va., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Reports received here today showed that Virginia leads the Fifth Federal Reserve District, which in turn, leads the Nation in organization in support of the National Credit Corporation's plan to relieve the existing credit situation. Julien H. Hill, jr., chairman for Virginia, announced today that the organization is virtually complete.

Subscriptions amounting to 2 per cent of their respective deposits already have been entered by approximately 225 Virginia banks. Mr. Hill said total subscriptions of approximately $6,000,000 were assured.

Woman Seized by Trap After Hiding in Cabin

Bayview, Idaho, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Mrs. Floyd May, charged with insanity, was under arrest tonight after being tricked into submission after she had used a repeating rifle for three days in repelling a tear bomb attack of north Idaho officers.

Charles Burns, constable for the Bayview District, an old friend of the woman and owner of a cabin in which she took refuge, induced her to let him enter and by kind words removed her suspicions. Then he leaped for the rifle and handcuffed her.

Otto H. Kahn Resigns As Metropolitan's Head

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Otto H. Kahn, patron of the arts, announced his retirement today from the presidency of the Metropolitan Opera Company and the chairmanship of its board of directors.

Paul Cravath, a member of the executive committee, was elected Kahn's successor. He is a board member of the Juilliard School of Music and of the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

CLOSER PHILIPPINE ACCORD IS SOUGHT

however, controlling opinion in the Philippines still looks at all faces of the "issue" and holds firmly to the view that the political and economic burdens of independence would far outweigh the philosophic advantages of complete separation.

Gov. Gen. Dwight F. Davis is expected to return to the United States soon after the Philippine Legislature adjourns on November 8. Although he has not yet submitted his formal resignation, it is understood he will not return to Manila. After a conference with President Hoover he probably will leave immediately for France, where Mrs. Davis has been for some months recuperating from a long illness.

Roosevelt Considered.

It is known that Theodore Roosevelt, Governor of Porto Rico, has been considered as a possible successor to Mr. Davis, but White House officials have indicated no serious attention will be given the appointment until the President is convinced Mr. Davis can not be persuaded to return after an extended vacation.

Gov. Davis is generally credited with having acquitted himself well in Manila during his two difficult years there, and President Hoover is reported to have strongly urged his continuing at the post. If unsuccessful in this effort, however, the President likely will give first consideration to Gov. Roosevelt, whose services at San Juan have added several cubits to his administrative stature.

12-Year-Old Boy Awaits Trial; Life Is at Stake

Asotin, Wash., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Dark eyed 12-year-old Hubert Niccolls, jr., sat placidly in court today while his three lawyers quizzed veniremen who will form the jury to try him for his life because of the slaying of Sheriff John Wormell.

The "barefoot boy burglar" retained the nonchalance he has shown ever since he confessed crouching behind a pickle barrel in a grocery store last August and shooting the sheriff at close range. His plea was "not guilty" by reason of mental irresponsibility.

TACTICS OF GANDHI USED BY CYPRIANS

Take Salt From Waters in Defiance of Britain; Clash Kills One.

Larnaca, Island of Cyprus, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Inhabitants of Cyprus, who are revolting against British rule and agitating for union with Greece, adopted the more peaceful salt-making tactics of India's Mahatma Gandhi today.

In this British crown island, as in India, salt manufacture is a government monopoly. A great crowd, therefore, went to a lake near Limassol and sought to express its spirit of freedom by taking salt from the water.

As a result, the situation again became tense and troops were sent into the area to prevent disorders such as those which have marked the revolt during the last few days.

The London Daily Mail's correspondent here reported that one person was killed and several wounded in an encounter between insurgents and police at Baroshia, near Famagusta, last night. A crowd had refused to disperse and attacked the police, who fired on it.

The Greek Orthodox Bishop of Kyrenia was arrested today, the correspondent added, after an outbreak there. He was accused of leading a group of islanders in an attack on the commissioner's house, in which the crowd pulled down the union jack and hoisted the Greek flag.

O. B. Winters Divorces Pauline Lord; Reweds

Reno, Nev., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—O. B. Winters, nationally known advertising man, divorced Pauline Lord, the noted actress, here this afternoon, and ten minutes later married Mrs. Constance S. Harrington, of Wichita, Kans.

Winters gave his age as 39 and Mrs. Harrington gave hers as 36. She said her first husband was dead.

MURRAY SPAN GUARD RECALLED FOR WEEK

Troops Sent Before Dawn to Hold Bridge Find War Delayed by Court.

Durant, Okla., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray's national guardsmen pitched their tents at the Red River free bridge again today, found the "war" had been postponed and went back home—for another week, anyway.

The bellicose executive called out the guard by telegram before dawn, thus beating to the draw attorneys for the Red River Bridge Co., owners of a parallel toll span.

However, a mix-up in dates caused Federal Judge John C. Pollock to miss hearing the toll bridge company's plea for a blockade on the free span, kept open under martial law since last July. The hearing then was tentatively set for Kansas City, Kans., next Monday.

The toll bridge company asks that the free structure be closed pending settlement of its claim for damages against the States of Oklahoma and Texas arising from opening of the competitive span. An injunction restraining interference with toll bridge travel also is sought.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Murray's front-page action in capping Oklahoma's oil wells with the might of the militia yesterday was protested to the supreme court.

Prevention of further interference by troops was one phase of its suit, but in a broader sense the refining company aimed at State conservation laws under which the governor acted.

George S. Ramsey, of Tulsa, and H. O. Glasser, of Enid, attorneys for the company, said their challenge of the oil curtailment act was intended to clarify the police power of the State in regulating private industry.

CAMPAIGN STARTED FOR DAY NURSERY

Alexandria Children's Home, Started by Rotary, in Need of $10,000.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. H. A. Latane, Miss Helen Norris Cummings, Judge William P. Woolls, and Alfred Thomson are the committee in charge of the campaign launched this week to raise $10,000 for the Alexandria Children's Home and Day Nursery.

This institution was started several years ago under the auspices of the Rotary Club, and within the last year purchased the three-story brick house in the 400 block Prince street, and now the management is faced with the necessity of raising the remainder of the purchase price and also sufficient funds to place the home on a more substantial footing, and in many instances the contributions are fixed, but the number of that class are not sufficient to insure proper maintenance.

Fred C. Goodnow is president of the governing board, and he states that the banks of the city have agreed to cooperate with the nursery officials in handling the "paper" of those disposed to help the institution but are not able at this time to make a cash outlay.

Approximately 30 children are cared for in the nursery, a number of residents and several little ones boarded there for a nominal sum by mothers who work in the day and desire proper supervision for their little ones, kindergarten and school age, during the working hours. An intensive campaign will be conducted this week to secure the required amount in either cash or pledges, and the citizens of Alexandria are asked to respond to the greatest extent possible.

The four-day annual reunion of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry, Southern Jurisdiction, Valley of Alexandria, Orient of Virginia, opened yesterday afternoon in the Masonic Temple in Cameron street with the conferring of the fourth to fourteenth degrees.

A dinner was served the members of the rite at the George Mason Hotel at 6:30 o'clock, after which they immediately returned to the temple for the conferring of the fourteenth degree, or "Perfect Elu," at 7:30 p. m.

Riley W. Nixon, thirty-third degree, is director of this degree. Those taking an active part in the work follow:

Fourteenth degree, Perfect Elu; scene, the secret vault; venerable master, A. A. Paul, thirty-second degree; senior warden, William Lewis Allen, thirty-third degree; junior warden, F. S. Travers, thirty-second degree; orator, C. C. Wenrich, K. C. C. H.; master of ceremonies, R. W. Nixon, K. C. C. H.; expert, F. I. Hastings, thirty-second degree; assistant expert, J. H. Kretchmer, thirty-second degree; captain of host, L. P. Chauncey, K. C. C. H.; substitute for captain of host, C. W. Fletcher, thirty-second degree; guard, A. H. Poelle, thirty-second degree; organist, S. E. Wade, thirty-second degree; soloist, C. W. Sutton, thirty-second degree; violinist, J. L. Scruggs, thirty-second degree.

General Chairman Percy E. Clift is enthused with the outlook for the class. He states that on Thursday evening, at the George Mason Hotel, the annual banquet will be held.

Arrest Fails to Solve Marine Killing Mystery

The arrest of Frank Prochazka in connection with the murder last spring of Emanuel Thorne had done nothing last night to clear up the mysterious death of the Marine private whose body was found in a shallow grave in Capitol Heights in April.

Prochazka was arrested by a deputy sheriff late Saturday night and held for investigation. The same authorities also announced that they were looking for two other men thought to be concerned in the Marine's murder, but so far they have not been arrested.

Court Hears Smith Power Row Today

Right to Position Will Be Challenged on Behalf of Senate.

The ouster proceedings instituted by the United States Senate to force George Otis Smith from his position as chairman of the Federal Power Commission will be heard in the District Supreme Court today, with George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, former United States senator, defending Smith, and John W. Davis and Peter Groesbeck, challenging his right to his position on behalf of the Senate.

Smith's action in "house cleaning" at the Power Commission offices shortly after his appointment aroused the ire of several senators. A search of his nomination papers at the Senate brought to light a minor discrepency in his nomination and acceptance, and on that ground his legal ability to the job is being tested.

The nomination, after its confirmation should, according to Senate rules, be placed on the table for two days, but in this case it was immediately sent to the White House and Smith, who had resigned his position as head of the United States Geological Survey, was sworn in.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

EXCELLENT as is the single attraction playing a legitimate theater in Washington this week, the current seven-day period must be written down as a lean week. There is much, however, to anticipate in the palaces of the cinema over the impending week-end and in the temples of the traditional art of Thespis, beginning next Monday.

The classicist, no doubt, will find his chief inspiration next week at the National, where a week of Shakespearean repertoire will be presented by the Shakespeare-Upon-Avon Company, from the Shakespeare Memorial Theater, established in the little English village of the bard's birth.

The modernist, of course, will be primarily attracted by Mr. Guthrie McClintic's production of "Brief Moment," at the Belasco. Strangely enough, to many the chief interest in this New York-bound Behrman drama lies not so much in the more or less taken-for-granted excellence of Miss Francine Larrimore's performance in the stellar role, as in the character of the acting that will be contributed to the play by Alexander Woollcott and Miss Frances Rich, each making a first essay on the boards.

Miss Rich is the daughter of Irene Rich, a competent actress on both stage and screen, and by every right should fall heir to an honest inherited talent. Mr. Woollcott, on the other hand, has come by whatever acting ability he may possess almost wholly from having through the years written exhaustive criticisms of the work of professional players upon whom he has sat in judgment.

Yet reports emanating from the hinterland indicate that Mr. Woollcott comes dangerously near "stealing the show." This is explained to me by Ray Henderson, who is closer to the production than any one else I have so far met, as the result of a close personal friendship between Author Behrman and Critic-Actor Woollcott. Mr. Behrman, it seems, took particular pains to write Mr. Woollcott himself into the part he plays. He wanders in and out of various scenes, the polished and epigrammatic gentleman, with the correct and clever thing to be said always at the tip of his tongue.

If it were otherwise, what an avalanche of retributive justice might be heaped upon Mr. Woollcott upon the play's opening in New York! I suspect there will be a little razzing as it is.

Now about this movie week-end—concerning which something already has been intimated in this space—I am apprised by the good Dr. La Falce, of the Warner Publicity Department, that plans for the premiere presentation of "The Mad Genius," starring John Barrymore, at the Metropolitan Theater on Friday, are progressing handsomely.

Vice President Charles Curtis will be the guest of honor at the gala opening—to be put on in true Hollywood style at 8:30 p. m. Friday—and will be accompanied by Mrs. Gann and a party of twenty. His acceptance of the invitation, I believe, was received yesterday.

The entire front of the playhouse will be flood-lighted and a special feature of the festivities will be the making of a motion picture of the guests entering the theater, to be shown as part of the screen bill before they leave. The occasion also is to be broadcast by a local station.

It is said that when John Barrymore read the script of "The Mad Genius" his enthusiasm took the form of a declaration that such a role only came to an actor once in a lifetime. Tsarakov is artist, voluptuary and a man of iron will, combining many of the most heroic qualities of Ahab, in "The Sea Beast," with much of the mental cunning of Svengali.

Marian Marsh is again leading woman, with Donald Cook and Charles Butterworth also included in the support.

Now, then, over at the Fox, where Will Rogers will debut on Friday in "Ambassador Bill," it is the plan of Managing Director Harry W. Crull to open the theater to the public at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Friday night will be known as "Diplomatic Night," all of the Diplomatic Corps, members of the President's Cabinet and other high Government officials having been invited to attend.

The 10 a. m. opening will be observed also on Saturday and Saturday night, beginning at 10, a busy week-end will be topped off by a special Halloween performance, including both the "Ambassador Bill" feature and Fanchon and Marco's "Carmenesque" Idea.

Whoopee!

Speaking of Halloween, 150 Washington boys and girls, all members of the Fox Military Band, will participate in the city-wide celebration to be observed Saturday night, weather conditions permitting. The entire membership of the organization will be in costume.

Following its grand free street parade, the band will assemble in the dancing school studio of the theater, where an informal party will be staged, at which the youthful musicians will be served appropriate—and ample—refreshments.

More whoopee!

'Way back in those dim and distant days before the Palace, Rialto or Metropolitan were completed, and the Strand Theater, under Tom Moore's management, vied with the Columbia, under the late Marcus Loew's, for the Capital's "carriage trade," Edgar Rice Burroughs' "Tarzan" stories were made into a series of exciting and vastly popular adventure pictures.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer evidently remembers the success of these thrilling jungle subjects, because that company is doing a new "Tarzan," and Johnny Weissmuller, holder of practically all of the world's swimming records, has been selected for the title role. The choice of Weissmuller for this character followed a series of exhaustive tests to find some one with a perfect physique whose other qualifications also would equip him adequately to play the part.

"Tarzan" will be directed by W. S. Van Dyke, who made "Trader Horn" and "White Shadows in the South Seas." Neil Hamilton and C. Aubrey Smith are the only members of the supporting cast so far engaged.

Unless, in the meantime, you have seen Clifton Webb, you haven't seen any dancing like Clifton Webb's in "Three's a Crowd," since Vernon and Irene Castle didn't dance any better than Clifton Webb and Tamara Geva in "Three's a Crowd."

Or don't you care for crossword puzzles?

KENSINGTON PHONE BATTLE IS DELAYED

Chamber of Commerce Puts Company Men on Grill for New System.

Kensington's telephone situation was discussed heatedly last night at a meeting of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce, at which two representatives of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. underwent a severe grilling. The chamber then voted to lay the problem on the table until next meeting so it wouldn't be embarrassed by presence of the phone officials.

The two representatives, E. L. Florance, general commercial manager of the Baltimore Co., and Frank Little, commercial superintendent for Washington, told the chamber it will cost $42,900 to install a modern common battery system for Kensington, which, after allowing for value of present equipment as salvage, would mean that an additional investment of approximately $16,000 would be made by the company without any appreciable gain in revenue.

The company proposed that one-party-line subscribers be charged an additional 25 cents a month, which would mean an increase of $75 a month for the entire town, for the new equipment. They said the company could not see its way clear to provide unlimited service to Washington and other county exchanges.

Henry Conklin Ransom, manager of the telephone area which includes Kensington and Rockville, was elected a member of the chamber.

George C. Shinn, who had been elected an alternate to the Montgomery County Civic Federation, informed the chamber that he also had been named by the Kensington Board of Trade and asked to be relieved. Hosmer Hartshorn, member of the Kensington Town Council, was elected alternate in his place. R. H. Chappell presided at the meeting, which was held in Kensington School.

Hyattsville Trade Body Weighs Transportation

Discussion of changes in transportation to towns along Baltimore boulevard featured the meeting of Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce last night. Extension of Rhode Island avenue to Branchville or Laurel was considered, as was possibility of substituting bus service for the present street car line.

William T. Jennings, president of the chamber, asked each member to determine sentiment in his neighborhood toward bus service. No action was taken pending the canvass.

Fairmont Heights Man Is Convicted of Murder

James Love was convicted yesterday of first degree murder without recommendation of mercy, when tried for the slaying of Mildred Jordan, in Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Marlboro.

The jury took less than half an hour to pass on Love's guilt. The convicted man, who lived in Fairmont Heights, now faces a sentence of from two years to life or the death penalty.

GAYETY

"FRIVOLITIES OF 1932." A new Columbia burlesque attraction, starring Charles "Bimbo" Davis, Bobby Vail, Margie Bartel and Jackie James, with the "Man of Mystery," Joe Bonner, an added feature. Reviewed Monday night by W. L. Wright.

Jackie James, a classy blond, is easily the star of this show. She displays a nifty figure as she dances in a snappy manner to win the good will of her audience. Running a close second to Jackie are Margie Bartel and Dorothy Maye. Margie tosses her dark curls about and shows to advantage in the Cleopatra scene, the difficult postures of her dance being gracefully executed. Miss Maye, a charming brunette, likewise sings and dances and also pleases in her other scenes.

The dance team of Leland and Hamlet appear several times to get a big hand for their good work, while a clarinet specialty by Armand Monte scored heavily.

The less said of the comedy the better, for most of the gags are so old they have grown whiskers. However credit must be given to Charles "Bimo" Davis and his aid, Bobby Vail, for their untiring efforts to make such time-worn sketches click. Fed by Jack Lamont and Amand Monte, Davis and Vail have the house convulsed with laughter when they get modern momentarily. The scene "Why Prohibition?" with Vail and Monte as principals, went over big, to cause much mirth and merriment.

Jimmy Lake presented Joe "Mystery" Bonner in a hungry act. Joe, a colored lad, eats most anything handy, including electric light bulbs, carpet tacks and paper clips. In fact, Joe has solved the question "What to do with old razor blades?" At this performance he ate a half dozen, topping off with several quarts of fire for dessert. This lad is really good but—will he last out the week?

STRAW VOTE FAVORS FIELDS FOR SHERIFF

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Meeting in the Reese Building, 34 Wilson boulevard, Clarendon, the cross-section ballot committee last night publicly counted and announced the result of the vote for sheriff, Commonwealth's attorney and trial justice taken among the 4 highest ranking officers of more than 50 Arlington County organizations. A total of 210 organization officials received ballots, of which 115 were returned by mail. The final ballot in each case, after eliminating low candidates, resulted as follows:

For sheriff—Howard B. Fields, 78; A. C. Clements, 37.

For Commonwealth's attorney—Lawrence W. Douglas, 57; William C. Cloth, 55.

For trial justice—Walter U. Varney, 62; Bryan Gordon, 25; B. M. Hedrick, 25.

The voters had been requested to indicate the several candidates for each office in the order of their preference. For the office of trial justice, the ballots were counted in accordance with the first choices indicated. The three lowest candidates were eliminated and the ballots which had been cast for them were distributed among the five remaining highest in accordance with the second choice indications on such ballots. The total vote thus resulting from each of the five was then announced. The lowest two candidates out of the five were eliminated, and the ballots which had been cast for them were distributed among the remaining three in accordance with the lower choice indications appearing on such ballots.

Woman Wins $3,000 For Bus Crash Injury

A jury yesterday in the Circuit Court of Arlington County after deliberating more than two hours in the case of Miss Marie Duehring, of Livingstone Heights, against the Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Co. for $20,000 damages, alleged to have been sustained in December, 1930, returned a verdict for $3,000.

The case grew out of injuries claimed to have been suffered when an Army truck crashed into the side of the bus at the intersection of K and Twenty-first street northwest.

Parent Forfeits His $10; Chased Wrong Children

Forfeiture of $10 was recorded in Police Court yesterday against John Walley, 54 years old, of 3120 Twelfth street northeast, who was arrested by park police near the tourist camp at Potomac Park when he chased several children in the mistaken belief that they were his and that they should be put to bed.

Walley failed to appear when his name was called and forfeited collateral on a charge of intoxication.

FORESTVILLE CLUB WINS 4-H BANNER

Fair View Group Is Awarded Second Place at Fairfax Achievement Day.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The 4-H Club of Forestville, Va., won the county championship banner as the year's most outstanding club in Fairfax County. The banner was awarded during the 4-H Club Achievement Day at Oakton High School, with 400 club girls and leaders present.

The Forestville Club was organized a year ago, with Mrs. Mark Turner as leader; all but two of its members are under 14 years of age. Hazel Sanders is president and Marie Ballenger is secretary-treasurer.

The Fair View 4-H Club rated second place.

The Annual Achievement Day was presided over by Ruth McGuire, of Herndon, vice president of the county 4-H Club council. Secretaries of the eighteen 4-H Girls Clubs in Fairfax County gave reports of the year's work. Miss Sarah E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, and H. B. Derr, county agricultural agent, summarized achievements of the girls and boys clubs. Mrs. L. P. Taylor, of Vienna, appealed to members to plant at least one dogwood tree this fall about their homes in honor of George Washington.

Taxi Rate Control By P. U. C. Favored

Georgetown Group Hears Admiral Wood Urge Regulation.

Regulation of taxicab rates by the Public Utilities Commission was advocated in a speech last night by Admiral Spencer Wood before the Georgetown Citizens Association at a meeting in St. John's Episcopal Church.

Other speakers were Dr. Henry Newton, principal of Western High School, who told of the improvements being made at the school and the progress that is being made toward completion of the school stadium; and Robert Davis, of the American Red Cross, who told of the work of that organization in caring for service men in active service and in hospitals.

W. C. T. U. of Arlington Indorses 20 Nominees

The Arlington County Women's Christian Temperance Union has picked a group of approximately 20 of the 51 candidates for the county board as meeting its aproval.

A list of those meeting the requirements of the organization will be mailed to all members. The list will also designate those who would be most acceptable to the executive committee and members are requested to throw their united support to these candidates.

The selection was made possible through a questionnaire sent to each candidate.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN GAS-FILLED HOUSE

Death Certificate Awaited; Victim Apparently Lifeless Two Days.

No certificate of death has been issued in the case of Mrs. Myrtle Crawford Morgan, who was found dead in a gas-filled house at 1358 L street southeast yesterday.

The woman, a 26-year-old beauty shop operator, apparently had been dead about two days when found by her brother-in-law, Clyde R. Henderson, of 4112 Galt place northeast. He said Mrs. Morgan, who is separated from her husband, had tried suicide twice recently. Once she tried to jump off the Eleventh street bridge over Anacostia River, and again tried to hang herself while a patient at Gallinger Hospital, he said.

The woman was found in bed on the second floor, clad in pajamas. All windows and doors were shut and gas jets in a stove in the kitchen and a water heater in the basement were open. No note was found.

Mrs. Morgan has been expected to visit her brother-in-law and sister over the week-end, and when she did not appear, Mr. Henderson went to the house, finding it locked up. He called police, who forced an entrance.

Lester Barr Buys Apartment House

Former Owner Takes Over Wyoming Structure for $650,000.

Lester A. Barr, original owner of the Wyoming Apartment Building, at 2022 Columbia road northwest, bought the structure for $650,000 at public auction yesterday. Mr. Barr was the sole bidder for the building advertised by John L. Barr and James J. Becker, the trustees. The first-named trustee announced after the sale that he will become rental agent and manager for the building. The auction was conducted by Vernon G. Owen, of Thomas J. Owen & Son.

The sale, originally scheduled for September 29, was postponed until yesterday by Justice Jesse C. Adkins, of the District Supreme Court, the court holding that ten days' advertisement of so valuable a building was inadequate.

The building, a seven-story and basement brick and stone structure, containing 101 apartments, was constructed in three sections in 1905, 1909 and 1911. B. S. Simmons was the architect and Charles Weiser the builder. Its current assessed valuation is now placed at $625,308. District Building records list Mr. Barr, Mildred M. Hazard, Charles S. Baker and Claude S. Hahn, trustees; Charles McC. Mathias and Claude S. Hahn as the successive owners.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

New World Dictionary Based on the Original Webster Entirely New

Its scholarship gives it standing above all others. It is superior to any Dictionary ever distributed to newspaper readers. It can not be obtained through the regular trade. The publishers of this newspaper advise that every one of its readers should have this new comprehensive Dictionary. Even though you have other Dictionaries, you can not afford to be without this one.

It is an authority, up to date, entirely new. It contains more words to the page, complete summary of English grammar and a large list of synonyms and antonyms, as well as other special educational features, alone worth more than the price at which you can obtain same in connection with three coupons clipped on consecutive days from this newspaper. You must see and examine the book to appreciate its valuable contents and the handsome binding. If not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

Committee to Plan Bank Law Revision

Glass Group Is Called to Meet November 20 to Prepare Bill.

Revision of the Nation's bank laws will come up for general study and consideration next month at a meeting of the Senate banking subcommittee headed by Senator Glass (Democrat), of Virginia.

Reserving final judgment on the gigantic plan of Senator Bulkley (Democrat), of Ohio, for a Government pool to rediscount frozen real estate and other security in the Nation's banks, Senator Glass said this would have to be considered finally by the whole Senate banking committee headed by Senator Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota. Glass has called his subcommittee to meet November 20 to prepare a banking bill based on the lengthy inquiry made last spring and summer.

"I have reserved independence of thought on Senator Bulkley's plan," said Senator Glass, "but I have agreed to his proposition that if relief is to be effected it should be accomplished through an established Government agency as he suggests rather than through an independent agency."

Fort George G. Meade Is Abandoned as Prison

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Fort George G. Meade no longer is a Federal prison camp, the Department of Justice in Washington announced today. Last week buses moved the 174 prisoners that have been quartered there, 111 going to Camp Lee and 63 to Fort Eustis.

Abandonment of Fort Meade as quarters for a part of the overflow of prisoners from Government penitentiaries was effected at the request of the War Department in order to make room for troops which are being shifted there from Fort Eustis. The latter is being evacuated as an Army post and, like Camp Lee, has been turned over to the Justice Department for use exclusively as a prison work camp.

Nalle Tells Negroes Of Old Families Here

John C. Nalle, former supervising principal of public schools, spoke last night at a meeting of the Colored Association of Oldest Inhabitants in the auditorium of the Twelfth Street Branch, Young Men's Christian Association, on "Old Families in Washington and Georgetown."

Special treatment was given of the lineage of the Costin, Cook and Craft families, as well as the Syphaxes, the Dandsidges and others for whom colored schools and similar institutions have been named. Samuel W. Watson presided.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS HEARD ON BUDGET

Begin Arguments Supporting $14,000,000 Estimate for 1933 Outlay.

School officials yesterday began their arguments before the Bureau of the Budget in support of their estimates for the 1933 school appropriation, which totals more than $14,000,000. The hearings will last all week.

Appearing before the Bureau of the Budget yesterday were Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools; Stephen E. Kramer and Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendents; Jere J. Crane, assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs; Maj. R. O. Wilmarth, assistant superintendent in charge of finance, and G. C. Wilkinson, superintendent of colored schools.

Among additional funds to be asked by the school officials is an unannounced sum for a new Kenilworth School to replace the building which has been condemned because of unsound foundations. Whether any recognition has been given the request for a stadium for the new Roosevelt High School could not be learned.

The estimates as submitted to the District Commissioners last June amounted to $14,681,337. This is an increase of $1,164,777 over the 1932 appropriation. Revisions have been made by the District Commissioners, but it is understood that no severe slashes have been imposed.

M'PHERSON REPORT EXPUNCTION ASKED

Shelby Seeks Cancellation of Criticism Made by Grand Jurors.

A fading echo of the celebrated Virginia McPherson case was heard in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Attorney Henry I. Quinn, on behalf of Assistant Superintendent of Police William S. Shelby, petitioned the court to strike out its now famous grand jury report that commented adversely on the manner in which Shelby, then inspector in charge of the Detective Bureau, and Acting Capt. Edward J. Kelly, now assistant in charge of the Detective Bureau, had conducted the police investigation of the case.

Mr. Quinn was successful a week ago in having stricken from the court's records a special grand jury report that involved two policemen, and on the finding of Justice James M. Proctor in that case, he based his argument for expunging the Shelby-Kelly report.

Justice Proctor said that it was the function of a grand jury to either indict or ignore, and that there was no provision in law for special reports. He pointed out the great danger of allowing special reports, in that the reports merely editorialized and did not either charge or exonerate any one.

That one mentioned unfavorably in such a report was helpless to defend himself was one of the findings.

Rail-Auto Session Will Open Today

Speakers Will Disscuss Coordination at Meeting in Capital.

Methods of coordinating railway and highway transportation will be discussed today at the opening session of the ninth national convention of the Society of Automotive Engineers, at the Shoreham Hotel.

Owners and operators of more than a quarter of a million commercial vehicles have gathered here for the transportation meeting, which will last three days. Motor bus and motor truck operation, gasoline and Diesel engine design and operation, and the equipment of fleet repair shops will be discussed.

T. L. Preble, of the S. P. A. Truck Corporation, will lead discussion at this morning's session, when "Some Problems of the Motor Transportation Executive" will come up, while S. O. Dunn, editor of the Railway Age, will lead the discussion on railway and highway coordination this afternoon.

Colored Y.M.C.A. Opens Drive for 500 Tonight

The Twelfth Street Branch, Young Men's Christian Association, will begin its drive for 500 members tonight under direction of Robert B. DeFrantz, secretary of the national council of the Young Men's Christian Association and national campaign director.

The drive will continue through November 3. Its organization work has been completed under direction of Armond W. Scott, who has as his associate Jefferson S. Coage, recorder of deeds.

DISARMING CALLED PROGRESSIVE STEPS

State Department Official Tells of Slow Progress That Is Necessary.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Just as it takes more than one blow to make plows out of cannons, Pierre L. Boal, of the State Department, told peace advocates tonight, it requires more than one conference to disarm the world. "It is easy to disarm in theory," he said, addressing the Pennsylvania State Conference on World Peace.

Boal is chief of the State Department's western European division which is handling arrangements for the February conference at Geneva.

"Some of you," he said, "may be disposed to call no conference a success which does not either abolish armaments altogether or radically cut them by say 75 or 50 or even 25 per cent.

"Others may feel that armaments are merely symptoms of international anarchy and will be satisfied with nothing less than a fool-proof union of all nations and the swift punishment of any resort to war.

"But * * * disarmament is not a single deed, accomplished by the signing of one treaty. It is a continuing process, the progress of which is marked by a series of negotiations and conferences and treaties. * * *

"The conference will have failed if it destroys the foundatons already laid without building new ones. It will have succeeded if it adds new stories in the ground work."

Makers Of Vicks VapoRub Score Another Advance In Home-Control Of Colds

Vick Chemists Develop the Perfect Ally to Vicks VapoRub—Introduces New Idea in Preventing Colds and Makes Possible the Vick Plan to Reduce the Family "Colds-Tax."

FREE TRIAL PACKAGES

Local Druggists Have Free Samples for Users of Vicks VapoRub.

Mothers of two generations have depended on Vicks VapoRub for treating the family's colds. Now, in 26 million homes, they welcome the newly discovered perfect ally to VapoRub—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—based on a new idea in preventing colds. Together, these two ideal, direct applications provide the new Vick Plan for better "Control of Colds" in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax."

Here is the Vick "Colds-Control" Plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—When a Cold Strikes.

During the day—anytime, any place—use the convenient Vicks Drops as often as needed. At night, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This gives you full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, try the new Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

Trial Packages Free.

In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may test the new Vick Plan of better "Control of Colds" in the home, every druggist in the United States has been sent a limited supply of samples. Get yours today. If your druggist's supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks VapoRub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail you a trial package of Vicks Nose Drops (also a sample of Vicks Medicated Cough Drops) together with a folder on the Vick Plan for "Control of Colds" in the home. Address Vick Chemical Co., 1003 Milton St., Greensboro, N. C.—Adv.

The TOLMAN LAUNDRY

We hope you will make a point of getting acquainted with this new plant of ours. We have built in Washington a laundry that is modernistic from the edge of the front curb to the tip of the 125-foot smokeless stack. It covers over two acres—out where the city air is clean and free from dust.

The huge white building has over 6,000 panes of glass and is filled with pure sunlight. We have fifteen carloads of machinery, all new and electrically controlled, representing the finest laundry and dry cleaning methods known to science.

Our improved washing machines have separate compartments—something new. Table linens are washed in one compartment, napkins in another, towels in another. We want everything as sanitary as it is scientfically possible to have it.

Overhead conveyors lift your clothes in Monel baskets and carry them to the ironing tables, where they are gently dropped. There is no strain.

Your garments are completely sterilized, first in gallons of scientifically softened water heated to the sterilization point; again in the ironing, when uniform heat provides instantaneous sterilization.

We have a new Baby Laundry, just for baby's dainty garments—a plant cafeteria and a plant clinic are being installed. With all this modernness and completeness, we have every laundry service. We were first to introduce the magic ZORIC Garment Cleaning System in Washington, which provides for you here the finest Dry Cleaning you have ever seen.

Just a little later we are going to have a formal public opening. In the meantime, know that you are welcome at our new plant at any time.

6 INTERSECTIONAL GAMES SCHEDULED SATURDAY

4 Undefeated Elevens Are Favored

Notre Dame, N.Y.U., Syracuse, Harvard to See Action.

Country Dotted With Important Games This Week-End.

By HENRY McLEMORE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (U.P.).—Six intersectional games, four of which involve undefeated major elevens, feature the Nation's football schedule for the coming week-end.

The four teams with unbeaten records—Notre Dame, N. Y. U., Syracuse and Harvard—all are favored to win. Notre Dame, with one of the finest machines ever turned out in the South Bend factory, is expected to have little or no trouble in trouncing the Skiboos of Carnegie Tech. The same thing goes for N. Y. U.'s powerful forces against Oregon. The Far Westerners kicked the New Yorkers in their last meeting a couple of years ago, but are conceded little chance this year.

Harvard's Johnnies, who have bowled over Army and Texas in the last two weeks, could use everybody but the dean and still come home in front of a weak Virginia outfit. Syracuse, the fourth undefeated major team to take on an intersectional foe, is a slight favorite over Michigan State, but there is an elegant chance that "Sleepy Jim" Crowley's charges will upset the er-ah dope, if you please.

Michigan Plays Princeton.

The most interesting intersectional tilt of the day from a traditional standpoint, at least, is Michigan's invasion of the East to take on Princeton's badly battered Tigers. Michigan and Princeton played the first intersectional football game on record way back in the days when half backs wore whiskers and knighthood was in flower. Saturday's game will mark the resumption of this ancient rivalry. Michigan, unless it gets in a wreck coming East, will win by from here to Borneo.

Colorado College will come East to meet West Point in still another intersectional tiff. We hope the Colorado boys enjoy the scenery, for that's all they'll get for their trouble.

Other Eastern games of interest will pit Columbia against Cornell, Dartmouth against Yale, Navy against West Virginia Wesleyan, Lafayette against Penn, and Holy Cross against Brown.

The Midwest has several high-class attractions, Northwestern's powerful outfit meeting Illinois, Indiana taking on Ohio State, Minnesota tangling with Wisconsin, and Purdue playing Chicago.

Interesting Games In South.

Down South Georgia's undefeated Bulldogs meet Florida, Vanderbilt takes on Georgia Tech, Alabama clashes with Kentucky, Tennessee engages Duke, and North Carolina plays North Carolina State.

Saturday will be somewhat of an off-day for the Far West. University of Southern California, thinking of Stanford a week later, will take a day of rest, while Stanford is booked for nothing more strenuous than a workout with U. C. L. A. Oregon State and Washington State are expected to provide the best football of the day in their section.

Interest in the Southwest is centered on S. M. U.'s date with Texas, Centenary's engagement with the Texas Aggies, and the meeting between Arkansas and Texas Christian.

Notre Dame to Work Hard for Carnegie

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Remembering an unhappy afternoon in 1928 when Notre Dame lost to Carnegie Tech, Coach Heartly Anderson gave the Notre Dame regulars and reserves a day of ease today, with the warning to be ready for vigorous work the rest of the week. "They fooled us in 1928," Anderson said, "but they won't catch us asleep this time."

Anderson was in charge of the Irish that year, while the late Knute Rockne watched the Army-Navy game in Chicago. Banas and Lukats will not be ready by Saturday and George Melinkovich and Jim Leonard will alternate at full back.

Laurel Feature Won By the Proverbial Nose

The thrilling finish of the Glenwood purse, yesterday's feature at Laurel, is pictured above. Joseph E. Widener's Curate (on outside) is seen gaining the decision over the Le Mar Stock Farm's Morsel in a heart-throbbing duel of jockeys and mounts. The whip of Robertson, who had the mount on Morsel, can be seen high in the air. Mack Garner was up on the winner.

"Iron Lung" Snores and Drones in Vain As Cadet Battles to Live on Heart Alone

Sheridan's Courage Fails to Stave Off Sad End.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to the Washington Post.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26.—A dull, snoring sound, the drone of the iron lung at its work, hung in the whispering silence of the hospital corridor. A solemn little group of men, Army officers in Mufti, dreaded the moment when it would stop. At nine minutes after 5 this evening, Jack Cates, of the Yale Athletic Association, who had been standing in the hall, stepped into a room where the Army officers sat and with a hasty, alarmed glance, summoned them from the room.

They hurried out, all but Maj. Fleming, the Army's graduate manager of athletics. He sat still. He knew. A moment later, Cates stepped back into the room and jerked one thumb down. He didn't speak. The snoring of the iron lung continued for a last desperate effort. Then it stopped.

Dick Sheridan, the young West Point Cadet, whose neck was broken by the fury of his own play as he tackled Bob Lassiter in the final quarter of last Saturday's Army-Yale game, was dead.

Phil Fleming's expression did not change. Lieut. Charlie Born, the assistant football coach from the Military Academy, backed against the wall placed one foot on a chair and bowed his head, his face in his hands.

"What a heart; what guts," he sobbed through his fingers. "He was fighting for 49 hours without a chance. What a football player. What a man."

De Witt Shows Strain.

A nurse in white had been stationed at the boy's head, one of several relays who had stood by to moisten his lips since Saturday afternoon, passed down the hall. Capt. W. D. De Witt, the Army surgeon from West Point, who accompanied the football team on its journeys, returned to the little office where the officers had sat since Saturday evening. His face was chalky, his eyes red from strain and the lack of sleep.

"Anybody got a cigarette?" he asked. He drank in a cloud of fumes and blew it out. "It was hopeless," he said, "but what a fight he made."

Dick Sheridan's mother, Mrs. Richard Brinsley Sheridan, came from Greenville, S. C., to see him for a last time and arrived in time, at 2:12 this afternoon, after a race of 60 miles through New York City traffic and up the Boston post road under escort of motorcycle outriders provided by the police department of New York and Connecticut cities along the way. The motorcycle policemen picked up the big car in relays and passed it along from one group to another, sometimes reaching a speed of 80 miles an hour. But when Mrs. Sheridan arrived in the hospital where the snoring sound of the lung signified that her boy still lived, she was as calm and soldierly as Maj. Ralph Sasse, the head football coach of the Army, who had commanded and fought in the tanks in the war.

Father Too Ill to Travel.

Richard B. Sheridan, sr., the father of the little 147-pounder who outfought bigger cadets to win a place at end on the Military Academy's team, could not come to New Haven, being too ill to travel.

Maj. Fleming, Maj. Casse, Capt. De Witt, the physician, and Lieut. Churck Born, the end coach, had not had their clothes off since Saturday morning. Maj. Sasse and Capt. De Witt left the football field at the Yale Bowl a few minutes after the little cadet crashed head-on into Bob Lassiter's legs to make a tackle on a kick-off play in the final quarter of Saturday's game with the score tied.

Sheridan didn't get up and it was Capt. De Witt who sensed something ominous in his absolute stillness as he lay on the ground when the other members of the two teams fell in for the next play. He hurried onto the lot and feeling no pulse, put the stethoscope to the boy's breast. Then he waved excitedly for a stretcher and he and Ralph Sasse went along to the hospital in the ambulance. Maj. Fleming and Born hurried there when the game ended a few minutes later and headquarters was established in a disused room with desks and a phone a few steps from the room where the iron lung droned on.

There were several crises and each one left the boy weaker. The iron lung is a metallic contraption larger than the half cylinder stereotype castings used to print newspapers, but of the same general shape. It is lightly uptilted at the head end and there are windows in the side revealing the illuminated interior.

"Come in and see the poor kid," Lieut. Born said. He had been hovering by the room, stealing in and out every few minutes, dreading to look but unable to keep away for long, ever since the fight began.

Snore, Snore, Snore, Toils the Lung.

He led the way to the door and around a screen. There was an interne standing by and the nurse on duty seemed to be adjusting the pillow in the little cradle where the boy's head lay. Snore, snore, the gears of the lung toiled on in dreadful rhythm and with each snore the small, thin face worked, the mouth opened and shut as the machine forced his lungs to breathe.

Cates had been keeping the vigil with the Army men, Dr. Samuel Clark Harvey, chief of the surgical staff of the New Haven General Hospital, and Prof. Rose, of Yale, were drifting in and out of the headquarters down the hall.

"Is there no miraculous chance for him to win?"

"No," Dr. Harvey said, filling his pipe from a big-oiled silk pouch. "Not in such a case. In some cases there is a chance, but in this boy's case the nerves controlling the breathing are gone. I have never heard of a recovery in such a case."

The droning of the lung continued, and the question, "Then, why?" suggested itself but was not asked.

West Point was calling every few minutes. Tired almost exhausted, but without a trace of sympathy for himself, Maj. Fleming answered and conversed evenly and with composure.

It was growing dark outside. The doctors and the officers were settling down to another short smoke and another few minutes of waiting, but there was an unmistakable dread and intuition that Dick Sheridan's fight was almost over. Perhaps that was what drew Cates back to the lung. He was scarcely gone when he was back at the door with the news written in his expression. The doctors stepped quickly after him.

Cates reappeared. Thumb down. Phil Fleming picked up the phone. "Get me West Point at once, please," he said.

Last Thought Was Of Tackle.

Sheridan never regained consciousness. His last thought was to fire himself head on into a big charging Yale player to prevent a repetition of the touchdown from kick-off which had just brought Yale to an even score with the Army. He had vindicated the spirit expressed in the oft-derided, "I would die for dear old Rutgers."

Sheridan's funeral services will be conducted at the Military Academy, but it has not been decided whether he will be buried in the academy cemetery or elsewhere. He was the second West Point cadet to die of football injuries. Cadet Byrne was mortally hurt and died on the field at Michie Stadium, on the West Point Reservation, in a game with Harvard in 1910 as his parents looked on.

Dick Sheridan was 21 years old, and president of the second, or junior class at the Military Academy, having won his appointment from the Regular Army. "He was absolutely the gamest football player I ever saw," said Chuck Born.

Notre Dame to Hold Mass for Sheridan

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—A mass for the repose of the soul of Richard B. Sheridan, jr., Army end, whose death today resulted from a broken neck suffered in the Army-Yale football game Saturday, will be said in the Notre Dame University Chapel tomorrow at 6:30 a. m.

The mass was requested by Capt. Tom Yarr and members of the Notre Dame football squad, and will be attended by the student body.

Grid Fan Uncanny In Winning Two Bets

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 26 (U.P.).—J. P. Womack, prominent Atlanta business man, will have difficulty in finding takers for his bets now.

He wagered with one friend that Georgia would defeat Vanderbilt by at least eight points. He bet another friend Vanderbilt would hold Georgia to not more than ten points.

The score was Georgia 9, Vanderbilt 0, the only possible score by which he could have won both bets.

Barry Wood Awarded High Honor at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Barry Wood, Harvard football captain, today was awarded the $775 Francis H. Barr scholarship for "combined scholastic excellency, athletic ability and undergraduate leadership."

The Crimson quarter back, one of the outstanding football players of the present season, has made an almost perfect scholastic record for the last three years. He is Harvard's first Phi Beta Kappa football captain and is also president of both the senior class and student council.

Perez Stops Genaro In Second at Paris

Paris, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Young Perez, young boxer from Tunis, knocked out Frankie Genaro, New York veteran recognized by the National Boxing Association as world's flyweight champion, in the second round of a 15-round title fight tonight.

A wildly excited French crowd that packed the arena saw Perez batter the American into submission almost before he had time to get warmed up. A right hook to the chin sent Genaro to the floor early in the second round. He struggled to his knees at the count of eight but that was as far as he could get before the count was finished.

ARMY-NAVY GOLFERS PLAY.

The women golfers of the Army and Navy Country Club will vie for two silver cups, placed in competition by Mrs. P. M. Shock, club champion, next Saturday afternoon. Competition will be at 9 and 18 holes, medal play, with handicaps.

Injuries Stalk Grid Hopes At G. U.

Gellis Again Hurts Knee in Drill for Boston Game.

Mills' Squad Badly Battered, Bruised This Season.

By JACK ESPEY.

LIFE these days—yes, ever since the first of September—is just one disappointment after another to Tommy Mills, Georgetown head coach. And to make matters worse, there is no variation in the nature of the disappointment.

The wholesale injuries of his players form the sour note in Mills' existence, the same bad news about so-and-so being hurt, cropping up almost day after day. In fact, so many players of the Georgetown squad have been injured this season that some sort of record is being registered.

Virtually one-third of the squad of 40 was nursing ailments of one sort or another when the Hilltoppers journeyed to East Lansing, Mich., last week and played Michigan State, one of the country's most powerful elevens.

Casualty List Impressive.

Indeed, not all of them were able to make the trip. They left Wilmer Bradley, the best running back of the outfit, in Georgetown Hospital under treatment for a broken collarbone; Ben Gellis, rated next to Bradley in effectiveness, suffering torn ligaments; Russ Danieu, capable reserve back, with another knee injury, and Mack Stanley, leading punter, with a strained shoulder.

Battered and bruised as they were from previous conflicts, the Hilltoppers sustained additional injuries at East Lansing. Tommy Carolan and Ray Hudson, the regular ends, were hurt about the legs, while Dick King, regular quarter back, joined the small army of knee sufferers.

As if this were not enough to make Mills feel miserable about placing a strong team on the field for future games, Gellis reported yesterday on Hilltop field to give his knee a test, and reinjured it. Both he and Mills had been hopeful that he would be able to see action next Saturday when Georgetown faces Boston College in the Hub City. But now it seems almost a dead certainty that Gellis will not play against the Eagles.

Squad Retains Enthusiasm.

Misfortunes notwithstanding, Mills, however, continues to show his characteristic enthusiasm. He was about the field yesterday urging, correcting and inspiring his men as of old. The entire squad reflected his spirit in a session marked by that intangible something best termed "pepper."

It is a matter of conjecture as to the time when Gellis and Bradley may return to the line-up, while it was indicated yesterday after an examination of Stanley that this capable punter will be lost for the entire season. King, Carolan, Hudson and Danieu are expected to recover this week, with a proper amount of rest. None of them donned a uniform yesterday.

Harvard-Princeton Charity Game Sought

(Associated Press.)

A football game for charity between Harvard and Princeton, either in New York or Boston December 5, was suggested yesterday by Representative Fish, of New York, in a letter to the editor of the Harvard Crimson.

The New Yorker previously made the suggestion in a telegram to President Lowell, of Harvard, but was told in reply it had been decided no post-season games would be played.

In his letter to the Crimson editor, Mr. Fish said he had "every reason to believe that such a game would be welcomed by the graduates of both colleges."

Benny Friedman Signs With New York Pros

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Benny Friedman, former Michigan All-America quarter back, signed a contract tonight to resume playing professional football with the New York Giants, of the National League.

Friedman made no statement as to what effect his return to professional competition would have on his position as assistant coach at Yale. He severed his competitive activities early this fall to devote his time to coaching Albie Booth, Bud Parker and other Eli backs in passing and quarter back strategy.

Friedman will return to the Giants' line-up in time to direct his club against the undefeated Portsmouth (Ohio) Team next Sunday at the Polo Grounds. The quarter back of the Portsmouth eleven is Earl H. (Dutch) Clark, who was an All-America quarter back selection in 1928 while playing with Colorado College.

Friedman was All-America quarter back in 1925.

THREE "BIG" GAMES IN SOUTH

Maryland, Kentucky, Florida Unbeaten in Conference.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Kentucky, Florida and Maryland, undefeated, but tied in Southern Conference football play, face opponents this week which some think may send them into the rapidly growing class of conquered teams. Kentucky and Florida, especially, will encounter trouble.

Kentucky, with victories over Washington and Lee and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and a tie with Maryland, engages Alabama at Tuscaloosa, while Florida, with decisions over North Carolina State and Auburn and a tie with North Carolina, plays Georgia in Gainesville.

Alabama Promises Fight Against Kentucky.

Although decisively beaten by Tennessee, Alabama has shown much power this year and will prove a formidable foe for the Wildcats.

Florida could deliver the prize knockout of the season by a victory over Georgia, but the Alligators are accorded little chance of providing the upset. However, they were given but small chance of stopping a great Georgia team last year and surprised with a scoreless tie.

Maryland will rank as a favorite in its contest with Virginia Polytechnic Institute, which already has lost to Georgia and Kentucky.

Duke may offer Tennessee some difficulty. Tulane is expected to have an easy time with the Mississippi Aggies. Louisiana State figures too strong for Sewanee.

Dixie gridiron fans today were busy comparing the Tulane-Vanderbilt and the Georgia-Vanderbilt games. Vanderbilt lost to a fine Tulane squad 19-0, while Georgia could beat the Commodores but 9-0. However, Tulane had its full strength against a Vanderbilt eleven which was confident after its victory over Ohio State of the Big Ten.

Georgia-Tulane Game Nov. 14 May Decide Title.

Georgia used little but straight football against Vanderbilt at Athens Saturday and held out its swift, midget half back, Homer Key, who was the outstanding back field star against Yale and North Carolina. Vanderbilt coaches also admitted the Commodores played much better defensive football against Georgia than they exhibited against the New Orleans team.

With both teams favored over their conference opponents of the next two weeks, it appears the Georgia-Tulane game at Athens, November 14, will go a long way toward settling the Southern Conference championship.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Georgia had its first scrimmage against Florida players today and Coach Harry Mehre, remembering the surprise Florida gave the Bulldogs last year, planned daily scrimmage for more than half the week.

Last year a strong Georgia team was expected to beat Florida several touchdowns but Coach Charles Bachman, of the Alligators, devised such a strong defense that the Georgians were held to a scoreless tie.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—With many of its regulars suffering injuries and minor bruises sustained in the Tulane game, Georgia Tech gridders today settled down to the practice grind in preparation for the game with Vanderbilt here Saturday.

In past years, Georgia Tech, whether strong or weak, has always played a fine game against Vanderbilt and Coach Bill Alexander expects his downtrodden Techsters to come back strong against the twice-beaten Commodores.

HEENEY IN DRAW.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Tom Heeny, veteran New Zealand heavyweight, fought to a draw in ten rounds with Giacomo Bergomas, mammoth Italian, at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Heeny weighed 212 pounds; Bergomas, 227.

The fight was a mauling affair at close quarters most of the way, with neither able to gain a commanding advantage.

Comiskey, 72, Mourned by Baseball

Chicago White Sox Owner Dies After Long Illness.

Pioneer Rose From Ball Player to Club Magnate.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The sport world today mourned the death of one of its outstanding figures—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, of the American League, one of the wealthiest and most famous figures in baseball history.

"The Old Roman," as he was affectionately known, passed on in his sleep early today in his summer home at Eagle River, Wis., after a long illness. He was in his seventy-third year. With him was his son, J. Louis Comiskey, treasurer of the White Sox, the only surviving member of the immediate family.

The body of the dead baseball magnate, the only man in major league history to rise from the ranks of a player to owner of a club, will arrive here tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the Comiskey residence.

Mass will be said at St. Thomas the Apostle Church and burial will be in Calvary Cemetery. The body will lie in state at the residence until the funeral after arriving tomorrow morning.

Many Express Sorrow.

Expressions of deep sorrow came from leading baseball figures of the Nation today. His death, they said, removed from organized baseball one of the leading forces which developed the American League.

"If ever a man fought to preserve the good name and the honor of our game, it was 'Commy,'" wired John A. Heydler, president of the National League.

Comiskey's death was a shock to William Harridge, president of the American League, who said the league owed Comiskey a debt of everlasting gratitude for his valuable assistance in developing the organization.

"Mr. Comiskey was one of the founders of the American League and fought shoulder to shoulder with Ban Johnson for clean baseball. He made a legion of friends throughout the baseball world, all of whom mourned his passing. His death is a personal loss to me, as he was a true and loyal friend at all times."

Just what will happen to the vast baseball property which Comiskey left behind remained uncertain tonight. The Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, with a seating capacity of 52,000, is one of the monuments to the sport he left. The park, together with the franchise and club, has been variously estimated to be worth from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000.

With Comiskey's death, speculation centered on how his will disposed of his vast baseball property, whether his will placed the property in trust, or provides for Louis Comiskey, his only son and survivor, to inherit it, was not immediately known.

Son Connected With Club.

His son, 46 years old, has been connected with the club for the past 20 years in various capacities. The business management, however, has been in the hands of Harry Grabiner, who holds the title of secretary, but who has been in active charge for the last five or six years. Grabiner, who grew up with the club from a job as office boy for Comiskey, always consulted the "big boss," before making any business moves. Grabiner has been with the club for nearly a quarter of a century.

It was shortly after the world series scandal in 1919, when the White Sox threw the world's championship to the Cincinnati Reds to satisfy bribing gamblers, that Comiskey, shattered in spirit and health, began to fade from baseball, leaving Grabiner in charge. He spent most of his time at his summer retreat in Wisconsin. His wife died in 1922 after an illness of months.

By a strange fate, death robbed the American League of four of its greatest leaders this year. Ernest Sargent Barnard, successor to Ban Johnson as president of the league, died suddenly at Rochester, Minn., March 27. The

WHEN the roll of the District of Columbia's truly great athletes is called, the name of Clarence M. Charest may not lead the rest, but it will be entitled to a lofty position.

The other day the sports pages carried an item to the effect that Clarence M. Charest was the winner of the Tatum golf cup at the Congressional Country Club, but the notice requires amplification. For the winner of the Tatum cup is the same one-armed man who four times has won the District of Columbia tennis championship, who four times has been the runner-up for that title, who has been ranked number one in the Middle Atlantic section, who has won the national veterans tennis title, and whose score of 182 stood as a record in the Departmental Bowling League.

Suffering the loss of his right arm in a hunting accident twenty years ago, Charest, with a remarkable display of fortitude, has surmounted tremendous handicaps to develop his tennis and golf games to a point that might well be the envy of 95 per cent of the devotees of these sports.

Charest's score at the Congressional Country Club, in which he put together rounds of 46 and 42 for a total of 88, is nothing short of remarkable in view of the fact that he was forced to swing his clubs with one hand—his left.

Charest's golf game also bears out a well-established theory among golf professionals that the secret of a good golf swing lies in the free use of the left hand. George Von Elm, playing in exhibitions, and using only one arm, swings his clubs with his left hand, despite the fact that he is right-handed.

A letter to this column asks the best system for playing the races. The answer is clear enough. Bookmakers love the race fan with a system. So do Monte Carlo and Jimmy Fontaine. The best system for playing the races hasn't been discovered yet.

But a few years ago, out in Tia Juana, there was a lady frequenting the races daily, who had an uncommon run of good luck. It was no unusual event when she picked the entire card of winners. Gradually her fame became widespread. She was interviewed.

"What system do you use?" she was asked.

"Oh, it's simple," was the reply. "I just close my eyes and take a hat pin and punch the program. Then I play the horse whose name I have punched. That's all."

But the office wag has a better system than that. He closes his eyes and uses a fork, and picks 'em one, two, three.

The newest lottery in the District of Columbia which has supplanted the baseball pool that is now out of season, is the weather lottery.

The tickets sell for 30 cents a week, or 5 cents a day. They bear four numbers. If the last numbers of the official temperatures given each day for the hours of 8 a. m., 10 a. m., 12 noon and 2 p. m., correspond with the four numbers on the tickets, the daily prize is $100. The prizes graduate to $2 for particular combinatons.

And the inveterate race fans who used to hang around the bookies waiting for the results from the track may now be observed patroling in front of the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk awaiting the latest weather reports.

Michigan Reduces Indiana Game Prices

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The University of Michigan Athletic Association tonight announced that ticket prices for the Indiana University football game on November 7 have been reduced except for seats between the 20-yard lines. More than 50,000 seats at the ends of the stadium will be offered for sale at 1. Ten thousand, eight hundred seats between the goal lines and 20-yard lines will be priced at $2, and 14,000 seats between 20-yard lines will be held for the ordinary price of $3. All seats will be reserved.

The reduction marks the first time that seats at a Big Ten game have been offered at less than $3 since the Michigan Stadium was opened in 1927.

Garden Seeks Dempsey Bout With Primo-Campolo Winner

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Jimmie Johnston, Madison Square Garden promoter, announced today an offer of 40 per cent of the gate receipts to Jack Dempsey for a match in Miami, Fla., next February against the winner of the Primo Carnero-Victorio Campolo heavyweight match here November 27.

The former heavyweight king, who has been staging a barnstorming trip along the Pacific Coast in preparation for another comeback, will be in Chicago within three days, Johnston said, for a discussion of the match. Dempsey at the moment is hunting in Nevada.

Johnson said he had been informed that Dempsey would come East to discuss the proposition if necessary.

The Garden annually stages a heavyweight match in Miami. Until the Dempsey bout was considered, it was generally understood that Max Schmeling would defend his heavyweight title against Mickey Walker there this winter.

New Basket Ball Rules Cut "Time Out" to One Minute

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—The joint basket ball rules committee held their annual meeting here tonight and listened to an interpretation of various changes in the regulations by Oswald Tower, editor of the Basket Ball Guide.

The most important rules revision cuts the "time out" allowance from two minutes to one. Another prohibits high school teams from playing more than three overtime periods and still another gives the referee the right to take the ball from any player who holds it more than five seconds in the back court while closely guarded.

At the same time Tower pointed out that under the old rules there is nothing to prevent the referee from disqualifying a player for one flagrant personal foul and that there was no need for him to wait until the player had committed four.

L. W. St. John, of Ohio State, chairman, pleaded for "sane, sensible officiating" and asked officials not to call "every little rule in the book" to the discontent of player and spectator alike.

CURATE SCORES NOSE VICTORY OVER MORSEL AT LAUREL

Pace-Maker Is Nipped At Wire

Widener Star Trails Leader Until Run Down Stretch.

Senado Leads From the Start in Semi-feature Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 26.—A crowd of 8,000, which took advantage of perfect weather conditions, saw Joseph E. Widener's Curate, 5-year-old chestnut son of Fair Play and Irish Abbess, race a mile and one-sixteenth in 1:45 2-5 to win the Glenwood, the day's feature.

Morsel outran the field of four from the break, with Curate always closest in attendance. Turing for home, Garner set Curate down and he drew to even terms with Morsel at the sixteenth pole. After getting a half length in front it appeared as if Garner took Curate in hand, which accounts for the close finish.

The Barry Vail Stable's Senado, one that cost $40,000 last summer, earned part of his purchase price when he galloped to victory in the Faulkner, the day's secondary feature at six furlongs.

A. Snider broke the 2-year-old bay son of High Cloud and Felinda II on top of the field of nine and had only to sit still the rest of the way home to win by a length from the Greentree Stable's Semaphore, with Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Thursday heading the other starters.

Jaffa, a bay daughter of Bucellas and Dance Spirit, carrying the silks of A. G. Weston, a steward at Pimlico and Bowie, raced six furlongs in 1:14 3-5 to win the 2-year-old opener.

Steffen broke the filly on top of the field of eleven and led throughout. Trailing Weston's filly came Ral Parr's Lily Bet, with L. E. Keiffer's Tulach Ard third.

Thrills and spills aplenty were furnished in the two-mile steeplechase, which found A. C. Bostwick's Moonstruck leading home Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Coq Gris, with J. Stern's Supremity showing the way to the other eight starters.

During the running of the race, Charles D. Jr. ran off the course, while Harry Heilman, Swansea, Brunette Preferred and Nat Clyman fell. The latter tossed Mr. Rigan McKinney, amateur rider of Cleveland, so hard that he had to be taken from the course in an ambulance.

Mr. McKinney recovered quickly after a short rest in the emergency hospital.

Kai Feng, 4-year-old chestnut son of Kai Sang and Dauntless, breezed six furlongs in 1:11 4-5 to enable Edward Riley Bradley to earn first money in the third race.

Sea Fox Unable to Hold Lead.

Fator restrained Kai Feng back of Sea Fox's early pace to the stretch turn, where he slipped through on the rail to win easily from Sea Fox, with Sun Memery third.

Mose Lowenstein's Replevin and Jockey Pete Walls proved the winning combination in the mile and one-sixteenth of the sixth.

Walls restrained the 6-year-old brown gelded son of Brown Prince II and Tanais, back of Star Crest for three-quarters of a mile.

Swinging for home Walls set Replevin down and the gelding raced to an easy score over H. Rosecarher's Negopoli, with G. C. Winfrey's Spanish third.

The second disqualification in as many racing days occurred in the seventh race today to enable Punishment, a long shot, to win at odds of better than 18 to 1. Jorico, suffering the same official penalty as was meted out to Dark Celt last Saturday, was deprived of the victory on the charge that he cut across the field in the stretch and impeded his three nearest rivals.

Punishment, paying $39 in the $2 mutuels, ran a steady race despite interference. He conceded only a nose margin to Jorico at the finish and held an advantage of one length over Boris, which saved the place from Royal Doulton. Boris, the favorite, worked his way up on the inside in the last quarter-mile and was racing fastest in the final sixteenth. Royal Doulton was blocked after reaching the leaders.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JAFFA, $12.00, $4.30, $3.10; LILLYBET, $2.80, $2.40; TULACH ARD, $4.30.
JAFFA, quickest to beat... kept under early pressure, shook off OPEN HEARTH and had enough left to s... LILLYBET. Latter, sluggish in the early stages, was taken to the outside in th... half mile and closed with good courase. TULACH ARD, under stiff pressure ... ire trip, outstayed OPEN HEARTH in the final drive. Latter, well up in the earl... ing, weakened fast in the final quarter mile. PEGG'S LASSIE made up ground steadily after trailing her field. WAN HILL lost a lot of ground. TINGE was unable to keep pace.

SECOND RACE—About two miles. Purse, $2,000. Claiming steeplechase. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:15½. Winner, A. C. Bostwick's b. g. (4), by Mad Hatter—Constellation. Trained by H. G. Gaither. Value to winner, $1,400, second, $400; third, $200. Time, 3:54 2-5 (14 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOONSTRUCK, $6.00, $3.60, $4.70; COQ GRIS, $7.00, $7.40; SUPREMITY, $71.80.
MOONSTRUCK, placed forwardly, fenced in clever fashion, assumed an easy lead when BRUNETTE PREFERRED fell, but was forced to a stout drive to withstand COQ GRIS. Latter, restrained for the first mile, improved his position in rapid style, was on practically even terms with the winner at the final fence, but was outrun on the flat thereafter. SUPREMITY, well back of the leaders, was an easy third through other mishaps; his saddle slipped. SWEESIE raced stoutly for the first mile and one-half. BANNER DAY was never a factor. BRUNETTE PREFERRED fell at the twelfth jump. NAT CLYMAN had a rough trip early and fell heavily at the eleventh fence. HARRY HEILMAN fell at the ninth. SWANSEA was far in front when he fell at the sixth jump, and CHARLES D. JR. ran out going to the first fence.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:50½. Winner E. R. Bradley's ch. c. (4), by Kai Sang—Dauntless. Trained by H. J. Thompson. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:11 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KAI FENG, $7.40, $4.20, $3.50; SEA FOX, $3.70, $3.00; SUN MEMORY, $4.30.
KAI FENG, away in the first flight and following close up, wore SEA FOX down when approaching the home stretch and came away smartly thereafter. SEA FOX, quick to begin, showed high early speed, saved ground, but was unable to meet the winner's effort. SUN MEMORY, going in his best form, raced well up and held on well for the first third. GOLDEN PRINCE met with no mishaps. FORTUNATE YOUTH, unprepared for the start, had a lot taken out of him to reach contention and he tired from his early efforts. The others were outrun.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:21. Off at 3:21½. Winner, Barry Vial Stable's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SENADO, $8.70, $4.80, $2.80; SEMAPHORE (Greentree Stable entry), $4.10, $2.70; THURSDAY, $2.30.
SENADO opened up a safe lead when rounding the turn, saved ground thereafter, but weakened during the final furlong and had to be kept under urging to withstand SEMAPHORE. Latter, forwardly placed, responded to punishment when straightened into the home stretch and was wearing the winner down slowly. THURSDAY, hurried into a contending position, was held safe in the final drive. GALLANT SIR made up ground steadily on the inside. MERRY FOX was held safe throughout. GENERAL ADVANCE stopped.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:51. Off at 3:51. Winner, J. E. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CURATE, $3.70, $2.70, out; MORSEL, $3.30, out; SIDNEY GRANT, out.
CURATE, rated along for the first six furlongs, responded to stout urging during the final three furlongs and, under strong handling, was up in the concluding strides. MORSEL showed excellent early speed while setting the pace, saved all possible ground and continued stoutly when put to a furious drive. SIDNEY GRANT was unable to menace the leaders at any stage. MARINE was not good enough.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:20½. Winner, M. Two-dollar mutuels paid—REPLEVIN, $11.80, $3.90, $3.40; NEGOPOLI, $2.70, $2.30; SPANISH, $3.00.
REPLEVIN, following color to STAR CREST, reached the latter midway of the far turn, took command when nearing the final furlong pole and, holding on stoutly, outstayed N... OPOLI. Latter, outrun early, went to the leaders steadily, took a wide course th... about and closed gamely approaching the finish. SPANISH, saving ground the entire trip, closed fast in the final drive. STAR CREST had good speed for seven furlongs and weakened during the stretch run. NOSTAW faltered in the final drive. BUB McFARLAND finished with a tremendous rush in the middle of the track.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:49½. Off at 4:50. Winner, D. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PUNISHMENT, $39.00, $12.50, $9.30; BORIS, $4.30, $3.60; ROYAL DOULTON, $5.50.
JORICO, going in improved fashion, improved his position stoutly when put to a drive and, finishing in determined style, bore over badly during the final furlong and impeded his three nearest rivals. He was disqualified for fouling. PUNISHMENT, steadied along in close attendance of the leaders, held on stoutly after getting to the front and meeting with interference. BORIS worked his way up on the inside and closed resolutely. ROYAL DOULTON was badly blocked when reaching the leaders during the final furlong and was unable to secure racing room nearing the finish.

—Laurel Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 26.—The Ashton Purse, 1-mile dash for 2-year-olds, will feature the racing here tomorrow. The Ashton will serve as a test for candidates for the 1-mile, $10,000 added, Spalding Lowe Jenkins Handicap, to be renewed here Saturday.

E. R. Bradley's BURGOO KING is taken to win the day's feature over Mrs. John Hertz's PAIR BY PAIR. The two are evenly matched, but if both ran their best races last out, BORGOO KING should hold Noah's son safe. BURGOO KING gave evidence in his sprint races that he will go well over a distance of ground. The Ashton will be decided over the mile route. The Kentucky Colonel's colorbearer has come from behind on two occasions since the current meeting got under way to beat some highly regarded juveniles. If BURGOO KING runs to the expectations of his owner, he is going to be a hard horse to beat. He will get 7 pounds from PAIR TO PAIR. PENCADER won a mile and 70 yards dash at Havre de Grace, but he beat only Blue Damsel, rated no more than a good plater. PENCADER would be better suited were the going heavy or muddy. Prospects are for a lightning fast track.

FIRST RACE—Just why HA HA hasn't started since he beat a high-class field of juvenile platers at Havre de Grace on September 25 we can not say. The son of Polymelian meets a weak field of 2-year-old platers in the day's opener. If he has not gone wrong since his last winning effort, he should be an easy winner. POLYCRON needs only to repeat his last winning race at this track to hold BEAUTY BRIDE safe.

SECOND RACE—SOME KNIGHT is preferred in the second. The gelding was an easy winner over Line of Fire, SHIVA and nine oth... on October 13. He was placed a trifle too high last Friday. SHIVA has worked well since SOME KNIGHT beat him. However, we doubt if he has improved enough over his last race to turn the tables on SOME KNIGHT. BUSTED should go well. SUNNY WORLD ran a few creditable races in Chicago the past summer.

THIRD RACE—Toss PLAY BILL'S last race out and he looks like the winner. PLAY BILL went 6 furlongs his last out. He was shuffled back when he failed to keep up with his more fleet opponents. Prior to his last race PLAY BILL, making his first start, was second to Charlie K. and seven maidens, going a mile and 70 yards. ANNAPOLITAN was outmatched Friday. He is now in where he belongs. PURPLE DUST is preferred over the others.

FOURTH RACE—ARRAS has been racing with slightly better company. If he is ever going to win another race, it will be this one. GAY BIRD may be the good thing. His recent efforts have done him more good than harm. BUBOLA is true and consistent but she's about due to crack. If she can whip ARRAS and GAY BIRD, then we have her underrated.

SIXTH RACE—The consistent SCOT FREE may make it four straight victories. He has been beating practically the same class of platers he will meet in the sixth. SYRIAC is improving with each start. He comes up to this contest with two good races under his belt. BARITONE will be hard to keep out of the picture providing he runs his race.

SEVENTH RACE—FETISH is preferred in the night cap. Mose Lowenstein is no greenhorn at prepping a horse for a killing. FETISH has been placed over his head on two occasions since the meeting opened. This looks like the right spot. MY SIS needs only to repeat her last race to hold WRACKELL safe.

APACHE A. C. ADDS FIVE PLAYERS

Ex-Collegians Sign; to Face Mohawks on Sunday.

THE old Mohawk-Apache football fued, in which past performances have proved worthless, will be renewed Sunday at Griffith Stadium—this time as a South Atlantic League game. This battle, which had its inception some eight years ago at old Union League Park, promises to draw the largest crowd of the local Sunday football season.

The Apaches have added five players to their squad. Manager Seymour Hall announced last night. They are George Menke, last year's Catholic U. captain; Bill Howes, former Catholic U player, who performed for the Stapleton and Providence pro elevens; Moose Mosko, former Georgetown tackle; Ralph DuFour, another C. U. graduate, and Huck Hilleary, former Western High star. The last named trio were formerly with the Apaches.

The Apaches will drill tonight at the stadium at 7:30 o'clock.

EASTERN AND BUSINESS CLASH IN SCHOOL SERIES TODAY

Auto Mishap Is Costly to Stenogs

Injuries to Keep Fox, Jacobson, Sherman Out of Action.

Eastern Team Shifted as Kelley Patches Up Weak Spots.

STRIPPED unhappily of three regulars in an automobile accident Friday, Business High's grid team sees its last chance of the season to break a two and a half year losing streak this afternoon at Central Stadium when it takes on an almost equally crippled, but heavier, Eastern High School Team at 3:30 o'clock.

Business' remaining games are with Central and Tech, against which they can hope to do little, but today's Eastern tilt was held their greatest chance to call a halt to a streak of losses which started before the entire present squad of Stenogs had gotten out of the eighth grade of grammar school.

Friday, on the way back to Business High for a much-needed shower after drilling hard and long on the Monument Grounds, the car driven by "Dutch" Strasser collided with another, injuring Jacobson, a back field regular; O. Fox, first string lineman; Sherman, regular end, and Manager Faunce. Strasser, quarter back of the team, went through the windshield but by chance happened to have his football helmet on and suffered no injury.

Business Has Good Chance to Win.

Business still is rated on an even plane with Eastern today, and given a break or two, should win. Both teams held unimpressive workouts yesterday. At Eastern, Coach Mike Kelley shuffled his cards a bit in an effort to patch up the broken spots in his team, and when he laid them on the table again, Maurice Wolf, an all-high tackle last year who has consistently failed to reach his 1930 performance, came out on left end.

Weirschem clinched a berth at left guard yesterday which the remainder of the team remains the same as started against Central. Rickart and Davis, regular Eastern ends, are out for the season with injuries, but Courtney, despite physical handicaps, is making good on one wing.

Larry Flynn, Business' big full back, will not start today but will be on hand when and if the Stenogs come withing striking distance of scoring.

MERIDIANS TO PRACTICE.

The Meridian 150-pound grid team will drill tonight at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest. All players are requested to attend, as new plays will be gone over.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. --By Robert Edgren

Bible to Again Coach West Charity Eleven

Lincoln, Nebr., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Coach Dana X. Bible, of the University of Nebraska Football Team, today was notified of his appointment for the second consecutive season as a coach of the Western football squad in the annual East-West charity game at San Francisco.

Last December the Middle and Far West team, coached by Bible and Peter Locey, of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, triumphed, 3 to 0, over the East.

Locey will work with Bible again.

CALVARY COURTMEN MEET.

The Calvary Methodist Episcopal basket ball team will hold their first practice of the year tonight at 8, in the Calvary gymnasium. Manager J. B. Hand requests all members of last year's team and any new candidates to report.

Celtics in Workout; New Players Sought

The Northern Celtics will drill tonight at Seventeenth and B streets northwest, and Manager Buck Grier hopes to find several new faces there. The Celtic manager wants a good ball carrier, an end and a punter. Grier is also looking for an out-of-town game for Sunday. He may be reached at Metropolitan 6743 before 6 o'clock and at Columbia 7108 after that hour.

Garber, D. C. Netman, Winner at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Don Garber, of Washington, Duke University star, defeated Herbert D. Vail, Glen Cove, Long Island, former mid-South tennis champion, as that annual tournament opened here today. The score was 7—0, 6—4, 7—5.

C. U. COACH CONSIDERS CHANGES

McVean May Kick and Play Quarter, Oliver at Half.

A RADICAL back field shift which would send Charley McVean, former Gonzaga High School athlete, to quarter back and Johnny Oliver, heretofore team director, to right half back, last night was being considered by "Dutch" Bergman, Catholic University's athletic director.

Under the suggested order of things, Carl DeMello, veteran half back and acting captain against North Carolina State last week, would be removed from the starting order.

McVean Best Booter On Team.

McVean, it is claimed, is easily the standout kicker on Catholic's squad. And following his satisfactory showing against the Wolfpack, it would not surprise us if he gets the regular call.

Whereas DeMello failed to punt impressively in Raleigh, McVean came through impressively in the pinches. Too, he proved himself a capable field general and an acceptable all-around man.

As C. U. resumed practice yesterday, both McVean and DeMello polished off on toe work. As was the case Friday night, McVean's boots combined accuracy and distance, many of them bettering 60 yards.

Knuckling down to earnest preparatory work for Friday night's impending clash with Duquesne at Pittsburgh, the Cardinals today plan to resume scrimmaging with the freshmen. The frosh, who have been initiated into the mysteries of Duquesne formations, will open up in full force against the regulars.

Hunter Wins Tourney Of Mid-Atlantic Pros

J. Monro Hunter, Indian Spring, yesterday won the tournament staged by the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association on the course of the Congressional Country Club, the field being limited to eight contestants, all from this section. Hunter had a score of 37, 36—73, 2 strokes over par, and was 1 stroke lower than the 74s turned in by A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, and Walter Cunningham, Burning Tree. The cards of the three leaders:

Arthur B. Thorn, 39, 36—75, and R. Cliff McKimmie, White Flint, 37, 38—75, were next in line, closely followed by Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park, 40, 36—76, and Frank Cunningham, Burning Tree, 38, 38—76. Alex Armour, Congressional, finished with 40, 39—79.

LYON PARK BOOKING.

The Lion Park Lions are booking games with teams in the 135-pound class for the remainder of the season. Teams interested should call Clarendon 1356. The Lions will drill tonight and Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock on the Washington and Lee High School field. All players are requested to report promptly.

G. W. ELEVEN IS FACING SHAKE-UP

Pixlee Shifts Players for Game Saturday With Iowa.

CHANGES are likely to be made in the line-up of George Washington's varsity before its major engagement with Iowa University in Iowa City next Saturday. Both the back field and the line will be affected in the shake-up, the exact extent of which has not yet been revealed.

Unofficially it is reported that some of the varsity eligibles have not been showing the best of spirit, and this, together with the knowledge that Coach Pixlee insists that his players be "on their toes" constantly, has led to the deduction that some new faces will appear in the line-up that answers the starting whistle against the Hawkeyes.

Whether, or not Arthur Kriemelmeyer, former Tech High back field star, will get into the regular line-up is yet to be announced. Kriemelmeyer's failure to resume his 1930 assignment as varsity full back this season has occasioned considerable comment. He is rated as the most capable kicker and line plunger on the squad, yet the full back duties thus far have been intrusted usually to the sophomore aspirants, Finis Parrish and Wesley Hendrickson.

Fenlon Likely to Start In Back Field.

One change, which is detached from the lack-of-spirit angle, will send Johnny Fenlon into a half-back position against Iowa. Heretofore Fenlon has been handling the quarter-back duties. Joe Carter, ordinarily a half back, probably will switch over to the signal-calling berth.

In line for varsity nomination because his spirit does meet the official requirement is "Tilly" Matia, a 145-pound half back, who until now has had to content himself with a reserve role. Matia is the lightest player among the Colonials, but has the speed and stamina to offset his weight handicap to a considerable degree. Kermit Stewart is another in similar circumstances, a rugged fellow who fairly exudes enthusiasm and backs it up with an excellent brand of football. Stewart recently has been developed into a running guard, his former position having been a half back.

Pixlee Not Worried By Iowa Game.

Coach Pixlee views the Iowa clash with no alarm, but with a conviction that George Washington must play better football than it has yet exhibited to gain the decision. Having watched the Hawkeye eleven in its losing game with Minnesota last Saturday at Minneapolis, the G. W. chieftain knows what to expect in the forthcoming contest.

According to Pixlee, Iowa did not deserve the 34-to-0 defeat that it accepted because three of the Gophers' touchdowns were unearned. Had it possessed more teamwork than individual brilliancy, Pixlee declared, Iowa possibly would have won.

The Hawkeye center, Ed Dolly, is one of the finest centers in college ranks today, Pixlee affirmed, adding that the Colonials must keep him covered if their offense is to succeed.

Potomac Boat Club Court Team Meets

A reorganization meeting of the Potomac Boat Club basket ball team will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. Earnie Miller will manage the team again this year. The following players are requesteted to attend: Kelso, Noonan, Shorb, Barker, Stansbury, Eshbaugh, Albeit, Payne, Jennings Millar. The team's schedule calls for games in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Richmond, and also with strong local teams.

St. Alban's Prepares For Richmond Contest

St. Alban's mystery grid team, which in one short year improved notably with virtually the same line-up, continues training today under Coach Middleton for its biggest game of the year Friday afternoon against St. Christofer, of Richmond. The game will be played at St. Alban's.

The Saints are not only looking toward breaking St. Christofer's Indian sign over them but are planning to take the game itself. The Richmonders have won, 46-0, 13-0 and 18-0, in the last three years. Capt. Chesley, McGee, and Lorton have been lugging the ball for consistent gains all year and promise not to slow down against the Virginians Friday. Bayne Castle, a newcomer in the line, also should figure in Friday's game.

COMISKEY MOURNED BY BASEBALL WORLD

next day the fiery Johnson, who with Comiskey organized the league, died in St. Louis. Jimmy McAleer, one of the early stars of the American League, and former manager of the St. Louis and Washington clubs, passed on at Youngstown, Ohio, April 29.

Passing of Comiskey Keenly Felt by Griffith

"I feel as though I have lost a member of my own family," said Clark Griffith, owner of the Nationals, when advised last night of the death of Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago White Sox.

"I was probably more closely connected with Mr. Comiskey than any other man in baseball," said the Nat owner, "and consider his loss a personal one as well as one to baseball. I pitched for Comiskey when he managed and played first for the St. Louis club in 1891 and he, Ban Johnson and I worked together and were responsible for the formation of the American into a second major league.

"When our league started as a rival to the National in 1901, I managed the White Sox for Owner Comiskey and led the team to a pennant. My associations with him were close for more than two decades and I always found him to be a man of the highest ideals. He was an upbuilder and no one will ever be able to estimate the good he has done toward putting the national game on the high pinnacle which it now enjoys."

PETWORTH TO PRACTICE.

The Petworth Pennants will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the Iowa avenue playground. The team suffered its worst defeat in two years when it lost to the Brentwood Hawks in the Capital City League Sunday, and will be out for revenge when it plays its next league contest.

SCRIMMAGE FOR OLD LINERS

Maryland Looks for Hard Battle With V. P. I. Saturday.

MARYLAND UNIVERSITY'S football players, heartened by their improvement on offense, which V. M. I. snowed under in the second half last week, look ahead confidently with V. P. I. their next foe in a game scheduled at Blacksburg, Va., Saturday. At the same time, however, Coach Curley Byrd is warning his men to expect plenty of opposition, his advice being based on the determined stand the Gobblers made against Kentucky.

V. P. I. held the powerful Wildcat eleven to one touchdown in the first half, and scored one of its own last Saturday, and it required all the power and versatility of the great Wildcat backs, including Shipwreck Kelly, to subdue the Blacksburg boys by a score of 20 to 6. Maryland, it will be remembered, tied Kentucky, 6 to 6, with the Wildcats outgaining the Old Liners at a ratio of 3 to 1.

Return of Woods, Keenan Pleasing.

The brightening of Maryland's outlook is partly attributed to the return of Al Woods and Ted Keenan, regular quarter back and tackle, respectively. This pair, among the most valuable performers Byrd has, could not play against V. M. I. on account of injuries. Both participated in practice yesterday at College Park.

For the first time since October 7 the Old Liners will scrimmage tomorrow. They appeared to be below par last Saturday in the first half, when V. P. I. took a lead of 20 to 13, and Byrd, believing V. P. I. stronger than V. M. I., seeks to avoid a repetition. Hard practice is the best means of doing this, he says.

GRIFFS IN WORKOUT.

The Griffith-Blue Coals will commence preparations for Sunday's contest with the Brookland Club, in the Capital City League, with a workout tonight at 7 o'clock on the Virginia Avenue Playground. Manager Gerdom is anxious to have all players report promptly.

SAKS COURTMEN DRILL.

The Saks Clothiers, District A. A. U. 145-pound basket ball champions last year, will scrimmage against the Ben Franklin University team tonight at 9:30 in the Central High School gymnasium. The Clothiers will compete in unlimited ranks this year. Manager Mothershead requests all players to report promptly.

Hitting The Head Pin

THE newly organized Boys' Junior District League will get under way Saturday at 2 p. m., with five matches scheduled on as many drives. Nine bowling establishments and the Shopping News are sponsoring teams in the loop.

The league is the outgrowth of an idea conceived by Bill Wood several weeks ago. Wood's chief interest in life is to get more bowling patrons, and he figured that if he could get the boys interested while still in their 'teens they always would retain an interest in the game. He also decided that the parents of the boys would naturally take an interest in any undertaking of their offspring and in this way be induced to try their hand at spilling the bottles.

Wood's two big problems in organizing the league were to schedule the matches at a suitable hour when the players would not be taken from their studies, nor kept out too late at night for their parents' peace of mind, and to figure a way of making the circuit pay its way with no financial burden for the boys. He met the first by scheduling the games for Saturday afternoons, and the second by charging 10 cents per game. At this rate, the league will not only meet all obligations for the season, but will divide $135 in prize money at the end of the season. The season will run from Saturday of this week until March 12, and will be divided into two halves.

Only boys under 17 years of age are eligible for membership. The following teams will compete: Takoma Park, Hyattsville, Bethesda, Silver Spring, Rendezvous, Temple, Georgetown Recreation, King Pin, Lucky Strike and the Shopping News.

The Saturday night open sweepstakes will again hold forth at the Arcadia alleys, starting with this coming Saturday, according to Manager Fraser. Each contest will roll three games, total pins to decide the winner.

The Ruth quintet, in the Eastern Star Ladies' League, ran its string of consecutive victories to eighteen with a clean sweep over the Washington Centennials at the Lucky Strike Alleys last night. The victors are still undefeated, and need only ten more wins to establish a new record for the league. Ruth had games of 509, 502 and 556. The Centennials registered games of 467, 546, 456. Bess Ackmen had a set of 350 and high game of 146. A teammate, Malcalm, hit the maples for a three-game total of 322.

Rolling a set of 1,880, the National Pale Drys assumed the lead in the National Capital League with a three-game victory over the Young & Simon quint on the Lucky Strike Alleys. The Beverage boys had games of 584, 665 and 631, to their opponents' 548, 530 and 548. Astor Clarke was the individual star of the night, rolling a set of 396. Clarke hit the wood for a 181 total in his second game, and in doing so chalked up four consecutive strikes. His fifth ball went through the headpin for a court count. Rosenberg topped Astor in the matter of high set with a 406.

Yeager, of First Americans, led his team to a clean sweep victory over the Nationals in the King Pin Business Men's League last night, with a high game of 144 and set of 359. In the other matches Hecht's downed Lansburgh No. 1 by a one-game margin, and King Pin took all three from Lansburgh No. 2, which made it a disastrous night for the dry goods merchants.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CUSTOMS AND PATENT APPEALS.

Monday, October 26, 1931.

Present: Presiding Judge William J. Graham and Associate Judges Oscar E.

STOCK PRICES REACT IN DULLER MARKETS

Steel Declines 3 Points as Other Issues Record Smaller Losses.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Securities and commodities reacted in dull markets today. Stocks, lacking any incentive to do otherwise, declined slowly. Wheat, corn and cotton gave up part of last week's gains and rubber futures made new lows.

Wall street received favorably in the main the Hoover-Laval statement, although some traders may have been disappointed because it was not more concrete. Banking circles, however, were willing to interpret the results as constructive, pointing out that the possibilities of cross-purpose action by France and the United States had been minimized and that this country had now definitely informed Europe that future advances toward an international debt revision must come from her side of the ocean.

In some quarters it was felt the stock market would have to be more dependent on domestic news for a while, and attention was turned to several important dividend meetings scheduled for this week, among them those of United States Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad and Bethlehem Steel. Brokerage houses think that U. S. Steel directors will declare the regular tomorrow; they are not so sure of what will be done by the other two companies.

Rally Attempts Fail.

The market's lethargy was its outstanding characteristic. Two or three attempts were made at a rally, but none got beyond the fractional stage and trading only became duller on these moves. Rail, utility and chemical groups displayed considerable heaviness, although the general industry division found buyers in a very cautious frame of mind.

At the close, U. S. Steel was off nearly 3 points. Case, American Telephone, New York Central, Union Pacific, Atchison, Western Union and Allied Chemical closed with roughly the same loss.

American Can, Westinghouse, Anaconda, Consolidated Gas, North American, Southern Pacific and Bethlehem were down about 1½ to slightly more than 2, while General Electric, Union Carbide, National Biscuit, Montgomery Ward, International Telephone, Pennsylvania and General Motors lost in the neighborhood of a point, the turnover was 1,193,116 shares.

Federal Issues Weaken.

Weakness in United States Government, coincident with the announcement of a new $60,000,000 bill issue, was variously interpreted in market circles, some of which were discussing the possibility of another increase in the rediscount rate here.

The commodity markets went back to their old trick of following securities. Cotton reacted $1.30 to $1.40 a bale net, affected in part by the ginning figures of the Census Bureau. Wheat closed with losses of ¾ to 1¼, the fault of a bearish Farm Board statement, hedge selling and a large Canadian movement. Corn's losses were in the same range, reflecting favorable weather and an increased visible supply.

The gold movement included export withdrawals of slightly more than $18,000,000 for France and small amounts for Belgium and Switzerland. The decreases in earmarkings was nominal.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. French francs eased after early firmness and sterling, after crossing $3.93, reacted to $3.90¾, off 1½ cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Acting in unison with the stock market and burdened by heavy profit-taking sales of wheat, all grains showed a downward trend today. Notable reluctance which European importers displayed in following wheat prices advances on this side of the Atlantic had a bearish effect. A further drag on grain values came from denials that any concrete proposals were pending for extensive French or German purchases of United States Government sponsored wheat and cotton. Wheat closed unsettled, 2¼@1¼ cents lower, corn, ¾@1¼ down; oats ¼@½ off, and provisions at 5 to 30 cents decline.

In some quarters, wheat making upturns were looked upon as largely a natural reaction from recent sharp advances. Helping to confirm this belief was the fact that substantial buying of wheat futures developed at times. Relative weakness of Liverpool wheat quotations, though, together with sagging of securities in New York, prevented grain rallies making much headway. North American wheat export business, too, lacked volume, the total amount of wheat taken since Saturday for overseas shipment being estimated at only 500,000 bushels. Besides, a bearish construction was placed on word that the Federal Farm Board had indefinitely postponed giving out figures as to the size of wheat stocks remaining under the United States Government control.

Best rallies in wheat prices resulted from reports showing absence of rain in sections of domestic winter wheat territory that most needed moisture. Special attention was also given to indications of serious dearth of subsoil moisture in Canada. Kansas unofficial advices said that in sixteen southwestern counties not to exceed 15 per cent of the crop had been seeded, and that the outlook was for 25 per cent curtailment of Kansas wheat acreage as a whole.

Corn and oats receded with wheat. Selling of corn against purchases of wheat had a bearish effect on corn. New corn was reported moving freely in the West, and a good share of Chicago arrivals of corn today were from the 1931 crop.

Provisions responded to hog market declines.

BOND MARKET SAGS; FOREIGNS LEAD DROP

Average Decline Is Small, With Few Issues on List Showing Gains.

New York, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Bonds, both domestic and foreign, gave a somewhat desultory performance today, with United States Government issues all showing minus signs at the close and the remainder of the list inclined to heaviness. Sales totaled $10,732,000.

German obligations especially were on the weak side, losing from 2 to 5¼ points. South American bonds displayed considerable firmness early in the day, with Argentines leading. But later this group generally finished off with a decided slackening in demand. Chileans closed higher.

As a whole, the market was inclined to irregularity, although there was no change in the money situation except to slight stiffening in commercial paper. The average of 20 industrials showed a decline of .3 from Saturday's close; rails .8 and utilities .4, with a general average decline of .5.

Railway loans generally were the greatest sufferers in the day's slack business. While a few of the transportation issues advanced fractionally, many were heavy, apparently being offered in sympathy with stocks.

The action of Treasury and Liberty bonds was somewhat of a disappointment to experts who had expected these issues to record further recovery from their recent slump. The Treasury 3½s and 3⅜s lost more than a point, while the Liberties showed fractional.

In the domestic corporation listings, Armour 5½s and 4½s lost from 2 to 2⅝, while American and Foreign Power 5s, American Telephone & Telegraph 4s and 4½s, Chile Copper 5s, International Match 5s, Postal Telegraph 5s and numerous others dropped fractionally to a point or more.

Chicago Great Western Pays $2 New Dividend

Chicago, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—It's "D" for dividends, not depression, on the Chicago Great Western Railroad. For the first time since 1919 this "bridge" for trunk lines has paid dividends—$2 a share for 1931. No new money-making formulas were involved. Instead there was a return to old-fashioned railroading, with one man in power. That man is Patrick H. Joyce, acting president and chairman of the executive committee, who gained control of the road in 1930 with a group of Chicago associates.

Joyce supervises all expenditures, manages all operations. The Great Western is a triangular "bridge" linking trunk lines with Chicago, the Twin Cities—Omaha, Council Bluffs—and Kansas City.

Kurtz Brothers Make Creditors' Assignment

Philadelphia, Oct. 26 (A.P.).—Kurtz Bros., bankers and brokers and members of the Philadelphia Stock Exchange, today made an assignment for the benefit of creditors to the Philadelphia-Fidelity Trust Co. as assignee. The assets of the copartnership were given as $595,050 and the book liabilities as $600,619.

Thieves Steal Flagpole.

Flint, Mich. (U.P.).—Thieves, who do things in a big way, are believed responsible for the theft of a 25-foot steel flagpole from the Flint River Valley Golf and Country Club. Police said several men and a truck would have been needed to move the heavy pole.

AUCTION SALES

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 28—
THOS. J. OWEN & SON, Auctioneers.
1431 Eye Street Northwest.

Trustees' Sale of the Large 11-story, Centrally Located, Modern Office Building, Known as "The Woodward Building," Located at the Southeast Corner of Fifteenth and H Streets Northwest.

By virtue of a certain deed of trust, duly recorded in liber No. 6312 folio 183 et seq. of the land records of the District of Columbia, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will sell at public auction, in front of the premises, on WEDNESDAY, the TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY OF OCTOBER, A. D. 1931, AT THREE O'CLOCK P. M., the following described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia, and designated as and being lot 21 in S. W. Woodward's combination of lots in square 222, as per plat recorded in liber 43, folio 18, of the records of the Office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia. Also part of original lot 12 in said square described as follows: Beginning for the same at the northeast corner of said lot, and running thence west on H street, 31 feet to the west line of the west wall of the house on the east part of said lot; thence south on said line of the said wall 131 feet 2 inches to an alley; thence east 31 feet to the southeast corner of said lot; thence north 131 feet 2 inches to the beginning. Also part of original lot 3 in square 222 described as follows: Beginning for the same on the west line of said lot twelve (12) distant 29 feet 4 inches from the southeast corner of said lot 12, and running thence southeasterly on an alley in said square 17 feet; thence in a straight line north of east 24 feet 6¾ inches to a point directly south of and distant 5.59 feet from the southeast corner of said lot 12; thence north 5.59 feet to the southeast corner of said lot 12; and thence west on the south line of said lot 12, 29 feet 4 inches to the place of beginning, now known as lot 22 in said square.

TERMS OF SALE: Said property will be sold subject to an overdue first trust, recorded in liber 6214 folio 257, securing the New York Life Insurance Company in the sum of $1,500,000 with interest at 5 per cent, secured on lot 21 square 222, as described above, and subject further to an overdue trust recorded in liber 6312 folio 179 securing the New York Life Insurance Company in the sum of $500,000 with interest at 5½ per cent, secured as the first trust on part of lot 3 and part of lot 12, square 222, as described above, and as a second trust on lot 21 square 222 as described above; also subject to overdue and accrued interest on both aforesaid deeds of trust and taxes to date of sale. Full particulars of said deeds of trust and the amount of unpaid and overdue interest and taxes will be stated at the time of sale.

The purchase price (over and above said trusts, and overdue and accrued interest and taxes to date of sale, as aforesaid) to be paid $50,000 in cash, or deposit at the time of sale, and a further sum of $75,000 to be paid within thirty days from day of sale, and the remainder to be paid in equal amounts in one and two years, with interest at 6 per cent per annum, payable semiannually, and to be secured by a purchase money deed of trust on said property. All adjustments to be made as of date of sale.

Terms to be complied with within thirty days, otherwise deposit forfeited and the property may be advertised and resold at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser after five days' advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C. Conveyancing, recording, &c., at purchaser's cost.

GEORGE E. EVERETT,
BRAINARD W. PARKER,
Trustees.

NOTE: The New York Life Insurance Company, owner and holder of the notes described in the deeds of trust above referred to recorded in liber 6214 folio 257 and liber 6312 folio 179, respectively, have agreed to extend for any purchaser said principal sums secured by said deeds of trust for a period of 5 years from September 1, 1931, with interest at 5 per cent, with semiannual curtails of 1½ per cent, starting at the end of 18 months, upon payment of all overdue interest and taxes.

This renewal is also subject to usual appraisal and brokerage fees.

TAXI COMPETITION CALLED UNFAIR BY TROLLEY COMPANY

Urges Regulation of Cabs in Attacking Zone System; Files Its Brief.

TWO PRINCIPAL POINTS ARE MADE IN DOCUMENT

Keech Is Permitted to Delay Filing His Report Until Tomorrow.

The Capital Traction Co. yesterday afternoon submitted a brief to the Public Utilities Commission asking that the taxicab industry be so regulated that it will not offer unfair competition to the street railways. The brief constituted a summary of the street car company's testimony at the hearing last week together with arguments and references.

Two principal points are made in the document: (1) The taxicab industry is "in a most chaotic and unregulated condition," and (2) the basis of competition with the street railways is "unfair and discriminatory."

While the brief makes no direct plea for a return to meter operation, it denounces the zone system and the present low rates of fare. As to the flat rate charge, the traction company contends that the "public is in no way protected against exhorbitant or discriminatory charges."

Below Legitimate Cost.

The low fare enables the public "to secure transportation at far below the actual legitimate cost," the petition states, and "by such an unfair basis of competition there is diverted from the street railroads a large proportion of their legitimate patronage."

The brief further points out that the taxicab operator pays "less than $10 a year" for his license, whereas the street railways pay 4 per cent of gross receipts as taxes in addition to real estate and other taxes.

George E. Hamilton, chairman of the board of directors, and Thomas Dunlop, counsel, signed the petition.

Keech Holds Up Brief.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, who is fighting for retention of the zone cab system, was given permission yesterday to postpone filing his brief until tomorrow. Briefs also are expected from the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the executive council of the Central Labor Union, which yesterday backed up the Protex-U Cab Co., which hires union drivers.

The labor union will ask a restoration of meters, abolition of the taxi rental system, and a requirement that the cab operator carry liability insurance. The latter can not be required by the commission without authorization by Congress.

Some interesting figures were compiled yesterday by B. M. Bachman, accountant of the commission, from elaborate reports submitted by William C. Pacheo, operator of five cabs, who is affiliated with the Diamond Cab Co. The reports were of operations during August, which is said to be one of the leanest months for the industry.

Averaged $2.75 Daily.

The average revenue per mile received by each of the five drivers hired by Pacheo was 2.76 cents; the average revenue per call or trip was 10 cents. Each driver averaged $2.75 a day as his share of the earnings, with an additional estimate of $2.05 from tips.

The average gross revenue per trip was 23.94 cents during the day and 26.79 at night. The miles traveled each trip averaged 3.46 in the daytime and 3.78 at night. Total mileage covered by each cab on both shifts amounted to about 200 miles.

Pacheo's net revenue from each cab consequently was $187.76 a month on his $5,500 investment, but these earnings made no allowance for depreciation or insurance, or maintenance of a garage.

POLICE FIND BABY AND DOLL

Trundling her favorite doll in its carriage, Baby Peggy set out on a sight-seeing jaunt from her home at 118 Kentucky avenue southeast yesterday morning. Eventually she was picked up in Stanton Park by police and taken to the Ninth Precinct Station, where she was found by her mother, Mrs. Ellen Pagliocchini.

SUSPECTS HELD HERE NOT KANSAS ROBBER

Sheriff Declares 3 Alleged Hiawatha Bandits Now Are Serving Time.

Three men who were arrested Saturday night for possession of burglar's tools and on suspicion that they might have been connected with a bank robbery in Hiawatha, Kans., last year, were absolved yesterday from suspicion of the bank theft.

An Associated Press dispatch from Hiawatha said that J. H. Mellenbruch, Brown County sheriff, gave information that three men are serving terms in the Kansas State Penitentiary in connection with the robbery, and Fletcher Moore, also implicated in the theft, was slain in Omaha, Nebr., while resisting arrest.

Those held are William M. Tierney, 31 years old; Albert J. Curley, 34 years old, and Percy M. Fitzgerald, 38 years old, all of St. Louis. They have refused to answer questions. "We are not going to tell you anything, and you can't do a thing about it. We know the situation in Washington, and you guys are afraid to use strong-arm stuff any longer," they told detectives who sought to question them.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN FOILED ROBBERY

Woman Manager of Laundry Branch Hit by Man Demanding Cash.

James A. Carr, 24 years old, who gave his address as 1826 G street northwest, was arrested last night by Patrolman J. E. Kane, in connection with an attempt to rob the Frazee-Potomac Laundry branch at 1025 Fifteenth street northwest early yesterday. He is said to have admitted the attempt.

Mrs. Annabelle Powell, manager of the branch, yesterday morning reported to police that a white man had entered her office, asked for the money there and then had struck her in the mouth with his fist, leaving without the money.

According to Mrs. Powell, he entered the store earlier in the day and asked to have some one call for his laundry at an address on G street, near Eighteenth street. When told it would be cheaper to bring the laundry himself, he said he would, and left. He returned and suddenly demanded money. When she backed away he struck her and ran out of the office.

According to police, Carr has been using the alias, W. L. Peatow, of New York City. In his pockets were papers belonging to a W. L. Peatow, who was robbed of $400 in cash and clothes in New York City last week.

Bride Disappears Near Hains Point

Clerk's Wife Missed on Walk With Friends Near River.

The family of Mrs. Rosie Galivia, 18-year-old bride of Thomas W. Galivia, Postoffice Department clerk, of 1224 Fourteenth street northwest, last night were attempting to solve the mystery of her disappearance Sunday as she was walking with them at Hains Point.

Police were asked to search for Mrs. Galivia by her aunt, Mrs. Pat M. Guido, operator of a dancing studio at 1216 Fourteenth street northwest. Mrs. Guido said that Mrs. Galivia was in company with a large party, including herself and Mr. Guido.

The rest of the party walked over to look at the speed boats moored at the point, Mrs. Guido said. When they turned back to the walk some one noticed that Mrs. Galivia was missing. A search of the walks nearby revealed no trace of her. The family of the missing bride called several hospitals and yesterday notified police. The girl married Galivia about two months ago.

Vice Squad Confiscates 380 Bottles of Beer

Inspector Thaddeus Bean's headquarters vice squad last night conducted a raid at 2016 Twelfth street northeast and confiscated 380 bottles of beer and one quart of whisky, and arrested a man and a woman.

Albert Parkins, 44 years old, of 1800 C street northwest, and Miss Ida Carpenter, 32 years old, of the Twelfth street address, were booked on charges of illegal possesion. They were later released on $500 cash bond each.

Sonny Workman's Rush To Laurel Costs Him $5

Speed on the turf made "Sonny" Workman's reputation, but speed on the Baltimore boulevard cost him $5 when he forfeited that amount yesterday in Hyattsville Police Court.

"Sonny," who was christened Raymond R., gave his address as 3513 Rittenhouse street. He was arrested several days ago by a State policeman, who found him in too much of a hurry to reach Laurel.

Mid-City Citizens Reelect Officers

A. J. Driscoll President of Association for 21st Time.

In unanimously reelecting its entire slate of officers, the Mid-City Citizens Association, meeting last night at the Thomson Community Center, bestowed the presidency on A. J. Driscoll for the twenty-first consecutive year.

Other officers renamed are: Miss E. L. Grosvenor, vice president; M. T. Pimes, treasurer; G. T. Bowman, financial secretary, and M. E. Salisbury, secretary.

Plans for the organization's participation in the Halloween parade were brought to completion. The group will enter a large float.

Two resolutions were adopted. The association went on record as approving and asking for the maintenance of the zone system for controling taxicab rates. The Board of Education was asked to raze the Abbott School Building at Sixth and L streets northwest. It was suggested that a small park occupy the site.

Police Seek Owner Of Artificial Limb

Mystery Seen in Find Made in Back of White House.

Police last night were searching for the body belonging to the limb which was found back of the White House yesterday.

They suspected no foul play, however, and believed the owner to be alive and fairly well, for the limb is a false one, and police placed the owner in a class above the man who lost the bass drum.

The artificial limb was found in the Ellipse, back of the White House grounds, yesterday afternoon by James Bledso, of 119 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who was strolling through the park. Mr. Bledso, much mystified by his discovery, turned his find over to police.

Police Clubs Wrecked on Man's Head

Wanted—a nightstick and blackjack that won't break when used in subduing a prisoner. Send to Sergt. Bert Sheldon of the First Police Precinct.

If the above mentioned articles had been in Sergt. Sheldon's possession last night, perhaps his uniform wouldn't have gotton torn and dirty.

Shortly after 7 o'clock, police received a complaint that a man was making trouble at 218 B street northwest. Sergt. Sheldon went to investigate. On his arrival, Annette Queen, colored, said her husband, Earnest, had threatened to kill her. The man was arrested and resisted. En route to the patrol box, Sergt. Sheldon used force, and when the prisoner became more unruly, brought forth his nightstick. Earnest's head proved a trifle harder. The nightstick broke in half. Next came a blackjack. It too was soon in shreds.

Policeman and prisoner were soon rolling about the ground. A riot call was sent to headquarters. Earnest was later charged with being drunk and assaulting an officer.

'Busy' in Telephone Booth Blond Is Locked in Store

It's funny, the hold this thing called love sometimes gets on its victims.

By way of illustration, here's what love did to one gorgeous blue-eyed blonde last night: In the course of the evening she decided it was time to telephone to the boy friend again, so she stepped into a booth in Mackall Brothers' drugstore at Ninth and H streets northwest, dropped her nickel in the slot, dialed the right number, and started the conversation.

Minutes passed, then hours, and the conversation rolled on and on interminably. William P. Fletcher, manager of the store, looked at the clock and, seeing that the closing hour of 10:30 had arrived, wound up the clock, put out the lights, locked the door and went home. And the conversation in the phone booth went on and on.

It went on and on, in fact for another fifteen minutes, before the blonde discovered she was alone in the store. She kissed the boy friend good-night by proxy (television's going to be a big help in cases like that) and went out to pound on the front door to attract attention.

Eventually some one called police, and still more eventually the word got back to Mr. Fletcher, who laid down his sporting page with a sigh and journeyed back to the store, where he opened the door and released the captive.

"Do you think I'd give my boy friend the satisfaction of knowing I could be so interested in talking to him I could let myself get locked in here without even noticing they were closing the door? Don't be silly!" she said, as she fled up H street when the police tried to learn her name to complete the records.

ATTORNEY WINS SUIT ON $4,000 FEE FROM ALEXANDRIA GAS CO.

Judd Awarded Claim Based on Service in Purchase of City Plant.

LAWYER SAYS DETAIL PREARRANGED BY HIM

Capital Utility Chief Gave Instructions to Work Fast, Is Testimony.

Maurice Judd, Washington attorney, was awarded $4,000 for his services in acquiring Alexandria city gas works for the Alexandria Gas Co. more than a year ago, in a verdict by a jury in Alexandria corporation court yesterday. The Alexandria Gas Co. was defendant.

Amount was the full sum asked. Motion for a new trial will be argued Thursday.

The lawyer, through his attorney, Gardner L. Boothe, of Alexandria, claimed he was employed in April, 1930, by George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., to find out if the Alexandria plant could be purchased.

Wood Said to "Work Fast."

Mr. Wood told him, he said, to "work fast." In a short time, Mr. Judd said, he received assurances from members of the Alexandria city council "that they as business men would exercise their judgment and sell the plant regardless of the rights of the city."

The Washington attorney charged that after he had made a special inquiry at direction of Wilton J. Lambert, a director of the Washington Gas Light Co., and submitted a memorandum that the plant could be acquired by October 1, 1930, for $750,000, C. C. Carlin, Washington and Alexandria attorney, was employed.

Carlin Collected $30,000.

According to Carl Budwesky, counsel for the Alexandria Gas Co., and city attorney of Alexandria, Mr. Carlin was paid $30,000 for his work and out of this Judd was given $6,000.

Payment, Mr. Budwesky said, was made by the Seaboard Investment Trust of Boston, which made the bid for the plant on behalf of the Central Public Service Co. The attorney for the Alexandria Gas Co. contended Judd should have applied to the Central Public Service Co. for compensation.

Formation of the Alexandria Gas Co., with Mr. Wood as president, was undertaken a short time before the property was transferred.

Citizens of Trinidad Ask Traffic Signals

George J. Cleary was elected president of Trinidad Citizens Association at a meeting last night in Wheatley School, Montello avenue and Neal street northeast. Other officers elected were John Geiger, vice president; Martin G. Steckler, treasurer; Mrs. Frances H. Stephens, financial secretary, and H. E. Shilling, recording secretary.

The association asked that signal lights be installed at intersections of Eleventh and H streets and West Virginia and Florida avenues northeast. A resolution was adopted opposing contemplated rerouting of the Trinidad-Burleith bus line.

Alleged Aid of Governor Forfeits $15 Collateral

A man who said he was P. Stephen Stahlnecker, 42 years old, secretary to Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, forfeited $15 collateral in Police Court yesterday, when he failed to answer a charge of speeding.

Stahlnecker was arrested by Traffic Policeman K. P. Greenlow for speeding 40 miles an hour on the Taft Bridge.

5,000 PERSONS PACK AUDITORIUM AS DOAK TALKS AT EXHIBITION

Labor Secretary's Address Over Radio Opens Capital Industrial Show.

HIGH U. S. AND DISTRICT OFFICIALS ARE PRESENT

Television Demonstration Is Hampered by Space Limit as Crowd Gathers.

More than 5,000 persons packed the Washington Auditorium last night as the seventh annual industrial exposition of the Washington Chamber of Commerce was opened with an address by Secretary of Labor William N. Doak.

In his talk, which was broadcast by Station WMAL, Secretary Doak characterized the event as a worthy demonstration of Washington's success in achieving a highly specialized type of manufacturing industry without detracting from the physical beauties of the city.

"Washington," he pointed out, "is basically a governmental city, and it was not within the intention of the founders, nor is it within the intention of the members of the Chamber of Commerce, to make Washington a great manufacturing community like other cities of our land.

Industries Are Unobtrusive.

"The industries of our Capital are so unobtrusive, while maintaining their effectiveness, that visitors to the city, and even its residents, have little realization of the great value of merchantable materials which are the products of industry in Washington."

Secretary Doak was introduced by Isaac Gans, chairman of the reception committee of the exposition. Representatives of all local labor unions had been invited to attend the opening of the event, and many high officials of the District and Federal Governments, as well as prominent business men, were in the audience which listened to Mr. Doak's address.

The exposition this year obviously revealed the effects of many weeks of intensive effort which were expended in making this the greatest industrial show ever held in the Capital. Supplementing the displays shown by manufactures and merchants, there were various exhibits arranged by several Government departments, including a featured "inventions display" presented jointly by the Smithsonian Institution and the War Department, in which are shown examples of the creation of several outstanding Washington inventors.

Television Exhibit Popular.

Easily the most popular exhibit on the floor was the first public demonstration in Washington of projected television undertaken by the Jenkins Television Co.

A miniature theater had been set up on one side of the auditorium, but the theater proved entirely too small to accommodate the crowds which stormed the entrance, eager to get a practical demonstration of this newest of entertainments, which has been developed through crossing the radio with the cinema.

Taxicab Driver Is Held In Auto Collision Death

Clarence Dillon, a taxicab driver, of 1319 Park road northwest, was held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge on the action of a coroner's jury yesterday that investigated the death of Molly Hopewell, colored, who died Sunday from injuries suffered in an accident on October 19.

According to police, Dillon was the driver of a car which struck a machine in which the woman was a passenger. She lived in the 1300 block of Euclid street northwest.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL ON THE LUXURY TAX.

ELMER TWITCHELL announces that he supports the administration idea of a sales tax on luxuries as a measure that ought to erase the national debt. "If you know anything that ain't a luxury just now, name it," challenges Elmer.

* * * *

"It ought to bring in billions to Uncle Sam," continued Mr. Twitchell, even if they only tax haircuts and shaves, which are outstanding luxuries in many quarters at the present time. The luxury list in this country today is so long that if placed horizontally it would reach from Chillicothe, Ohio, to the Singapore Straits. I am dropping a line to Andy Mellon and suggesting that the following luxuries be put on the list:

1. Shoe shines. (A shoe shine is still a luxury, although some of the boys are getting back to the five-cent polish rather reluctantly. I personally haven't been able to afford a shine for six months.)

2. Drug store ice cream sodas. At the prices which the drug stores have commanded for ice cream or sodas for the past few years, they should head any list of luxuries. And what they charge for fresh orangeade is plain murder.)

3. Chicken salad. (I have never been able to figure out why restaurants should make a chicken salad almost prohibitive to anybody except millionaires, but they do. Is there a lettuce shortage or something?)

4. Automobile washing. (If you want to get a hose turned on your car it costs $2, regardless of whether it's a sedan or a cheap roadster and I certainly suggest that the garages give 50 per cent of it to the Government).

5. Prescriptions. (Have you noticed the prices they're getting for filling those Latin prescriptions these days. Luxuries! I'll tell the world).

6. Doctors' services. (If going to a doctor isn't a luxury in the United States, you tell one. What a doctor does is to sell his services and I certainly favor him being hooked in the sales tax, especially those big city specialists).

7. Lawyers. (I hope you get these babies. I went to one last week for a little advice about paying my wife a little alimony and it would have been cheaper for me to leave my entire estate right now. There is no luxury like a fifteen-minute chat with a lawyer, however bad).

8. Oysters. (I don't know anything about what an oyster costs the retailer, but I think the ultimate consumer is soaked plenty when he buys a half dozen on the half shell and that any oyster is a major luxury).

9. Melons. (Anybody who has ordered a slice of melon in an American hotel for breakfast knows what luxury is, and I need say no more).

10. Coffee. (There are luxuries and luxuries in this country, but you don't know the half of it until you order a pot of coffee in one of those big metropolitan hotels and get the check. A sales tax on the receipts from the coffee charges at six big hotels in New York alone would pay the national debt and leave enough over to cancel the war obligations and buy Mexico).

"Yes, sir," concluded Elmer, "this idea of a tax on luxuries opens a wide field. I know none wider."

CATTY STUFF.

And, so your debut is tonight
With dance and grand reception;
The most elaborate ball this year
Assisting your deception.

I hear that several married men,
Also, some boys in college,
Have taught you how to pet, and that
Your greatest pride is knowledge.

Your daddy knows the ways of girls,
And that may be the reason
He pays the press to laud your charm—
To wed you off this season.

Second Boy Hazing Victim Found as First Improves

Child of 6 Is Recovering; Youth, 15, Is Picked Up in Dazed State.

Considerable improvement was reported yesterday in the condition of Franklin Bartlett Barnes, 6-year-old son of Harry Barnes, 2900 Connecticut avenue, who is being treated at Children's Hospital for illness and injuries said to be the result of hazing by two older boys.

On October 19 the Barnes child was said to have been taken to Rock Creek Park, where he was stripped of his clothing and forced to wade across the creek. He also was beaten, his father said. The child contracted tonsillitis and is suffering from possible internal injuries.

Mr. Barnes said police of the Fourteenth Precinct are investigating the case. He said that he would swear out warrants for Juvenile Court action against the pair, both of whom live at 2900 Connecticut avenue.

Another case of hazing was brought to attention of police and Sibly Hospital authorities last night when a policeman found Bernard Kolkski, 15 years old, 24 Todd place northeast, wandering dazedly at the scene of an automobile accident at Rhode Island avenue and Lincoln road northeast.

It was first believed the boy was victim of the accident and he was hurried to Sibley Hospital in a police car. He fainted on his way to the hospital. Physicians found he was suffering from hysteria.

Young Kolkski later told physicians that two older boys "jumped on" him while he was playing near McKinley High School and tried to undress him. The boy's mother told police he went home about 6 o'clock last night and that when she spoke to him he would not answer and immediately left the house. He was picked up a short time later.

BATTLE OVER SANITY OF KILLER NEAR END

St. Elizabeths Doctors Say Barry Should Not Be Given Liberty.

Four-day court battle to determine whether Paul du Vernal Barry, inmate of Howard Hall, ward for the criminally insane at St. Elizabeths Hospital, has recovered his sanity is expected to end today. Alienists have occupied the stand in the court of Justice Oscar R. Luhring three and a half days, and they concluded their testimony yesterday.

Arguments of Foster Wood, for Barry, and Charles Murray, for the Government, will be heard today, and the case will be taken under advisement by Justice Luhring.

Barry was sent to Howard Hall in 1923 after he had shot and killed a street car conductor at North Capitol street and Michigan avenue in an attempted holdup. He was tried and a jury found him not guilty by reason of insanity, and he, therefore, will not have to face a murder charge if he is now found sane.

Dr. John E. Lind, senior medical officer at St. Elizabeths Hospital, and Dr. Samuel A. Silk, head of one of the St. Elizabeths departments, testified that in their opinion Barry is not capable of maintaining contact with society and should be kept in confinement.

Dr. Harry J. Crawford, formerly psychiatrist at Sing Sing and now senior assistant physician at the Connecticut State Insane Asylum; Dr. H. S. Sullivan, formrly clinical director at the Shepherd and Enoch Pratt Hospital; Dr. W. K. Foxwell, consulting pyschiatrist at the Veterans Bureau, and Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, director of the psychopathic department at Gallinger Hospital, testified for the defense.

Boat Dweller Held In Fatal Shooting

Coroner's Jury Aided by Story of Accused Man's Brother.

Alexander Shorter, colored resident of a houseboat moored near Fort Washington, Md., was last night held for action of the grand jury by a coroner's jury investigating the fatal shooting Friday of Richard Collins, of 4 S street southwest.

Testimony by Alexander's brother, Lee, was largely responsible for the action of the jury, which was headed by Judge George N. Cox. Lee testified that Alexander, sitting with a srotgun across his lap, was attempting to pick it up when it went off, apparently accidentally, killing Collins.

Holding Alexander will automatically release Lee, who also lived on the houseboat where Collins was killed, and Arthur Crouch, a companion of Collins on the fatal outing.

Citizens Group Protests Smoke of Apartments

Complaints that apartment houses in the neighborhood were violating the excessive smoke regulations were referred to committee for investigation and action at the meeting of the North Capitol street Citizens Association last night at the McKinley High School.

In a resolution which was adopted the director of traffic was asked to place a traffic control light at the intersection of Florida avenue northwest with First street. The association went on record in opposition to the street sale of gasoline from tank wagons.

BRIDE WILL UPHOLD CAR TITLE PROVISION

Ruling Expected to Settle Doubt Cast on Terms by Attorney.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride is expected to submit an opinion to the District Commissioners this week upholding the language of the motor vehicle title regulations used by the Department of Vehicle and Traffic. This opinion will clear doubt raised by E. R. Weisbender, Department of Justice attorney, as to validity of titles issued to persons who are buying automobiles on time payments.

Language used in the District title regulations in defining an owner is identical to that employed in the Hoover code, which is accepted as national standard in traffic matters, and is also same as that employed in the large majority of State title laws throughout the country.

Courts have already ruled in civil cases that a purchaser of a car on time payments may be classed as the owner for the purposes of such regulation.

Traffic officials yesterday pointed out that it would be confusing to insist that the dealer or finance company make application for a certificate of ownership pending completion of the sale as the Traffic Bureau would then have the car listed in the name of the mortgage holder and would have no record of the operator of the car.

Clayton Is Boomed For Havenner Post

Petition Sent Out to Name Him for Presidency of Federation.

William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Federation of Citizens Association, is being boomed as a candidate to oppose Dr. George C. Havenner for the presidency of the federation at the election on November 7.

A petition is being circulated in behalf of Mr. Clayton, it was reported, but it could not be learned how many signatures have been obtained. Neither could Mr. Clayton be reached for a statement as to whether he is a candidate.

Trial of Attorney Will Begin Today

Siegal Accused of Trying to Bribe Guard at District Jail.

Abner Siegal, prominent local attorney, will go on trial in Criminal Court No. 1 today on an indictment charging him with attempted bribery. The trial was scheduled to open yesterday, but the illness of United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who is prosecuting the case, caused Justice James M. Proctor to grant the Government's move for postponement of one day.

Siegal is charged with having attempted to bribe a guard at the District Jail to change jail records to show that a man wanted in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., on a murder charge was incarcerated here on the date of the slaying.

Through E. Russell Kelly, his attorney, Siegal has subpenaed, at Government expense, four out-of-town witnesses, who, he says, can throw light on the defense, asserting Siegal is innocent of the charge.

Police Assist Man Robbed Of Shoes After Long Hike

William Haidigan, 30 years old, of Detroit, Mich., was very sleepy. He had cause to be for he had covered nearly the entire distance from the Michigan metropolis to the National Capital on foot in his search for a job. He was so sleepy in fact that two youths robbed him of the shoes from his feet, and Haidigan awoke just in time to see them disappear with them.

Haidigan, barefooted, hobbled to call a policeman and found that Washington patrolmen have kind hearts for strangers in trouble. The police could not find the men who stole his shoes, but they brought him new ones.

The man told police he had gone to sleep in Masonic Heights Park and awoke to see two colored youths departing with his shoes, which he valued at $3. The policeman to whom he addressed his appeal took him to the Second Precinct Station, where police took up a collection of $4.45. Then they took him to a store where they bought him new footwear and gave him the $1.95 he had left over. Haidigan left town on foot shortly afterward saying there was apparently no work here even for a man with new shoes.

SERVICE BANDS' BAR IN HALLOWEEN FETE BRANDED AS UNJUST

PLANS FOR PARADE LINE VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

Board of Judges Announced; Several Prizes Offered; Masks Banned.

Action of the Musicians Union prohibiting the Army and Navy Bands from playing at the Halloween street carnival Saturday night was protested by members of the general committee in charge of the celebration at a meeting last night. Hopes were expressed that the union might change its mind today.

Albert E. Westrater, president of the Columbia Heights Citizens, and Lewis Geldman, president of the Congress Heights Citizens Association, both supporters of the union, said they thought the action unfair. Mr. Geldman said that he was considering taking the matter up with the national union.

William A. Roberts, chairman of the committee, said that if no orchestra or band was secured for the dance that music would be broadcast from Station WMAL between 9 o'clock and midnight. Mr. Roberts said the union "had gummed the works." The discussion was terminated when Curtis Hodges, director of the Greater National Capital committee, suggested that the celebration committee desist from getting into a labor wrangle."

Finishing Touches Thursday.

Plans for parade formation were virtually completed. Finishing touches will be placed on the celebration plans at a final meeting Thursday night.

The board of judges for the floats and costumes was announced as follows: Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, chairman; David Lynn, Capitol architect, and Clifford K. Berryman. Donation of 22 prizes by Washington stores was announced by Archibald Shipe. A number of bands will take part in the parade, it was announced. They include the High School Cadet Corps Band, the Washington Boys Independent Band, the Washington Elks Boys Band, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Band and Bugle Corps, the Fox Theater Band, the band of the 121st Engineers of the District and two bands representing the midcity section.

Masks to Be Banned.

Masks will be banned at the celebration through police regulation, it was announced.

The Northeast Business Men's Association announces the award of prizes for the best Halloween costumes appearing on H street between North Capitol and Fifteenth streets northeast between 7 and 10 o'clock on Saturday night.

The Knights of Pythias will give a charity ball and entertainment at the Grand Lodge Temple. The Prince Hall Chapter announces a Halloween frolic for Friday night in the junior ballroom of the New Masonic Temple, Tenth and U streets northwest.
